Defoe's Major Fiction Elizabeth R. Napier, 2016-01-28 This book focuses on the pervasive concern with narrativity and self construction that marks Defoe's first person fictional narratives Defoe's fictions focus obsessively and elaborately on the act of storytelling not only in his creation of idiosyncratic voices preoccupied with the telling and often the concealing of their own life stories but also in his narrators repeated aversion to other untold stories that compete for attention with their own Defoe's narratives raise profound questions about selfhood and agency as well as demonstrate competing attitudes about narration in his fictive worlds His canon exhibits a broad range of first person fictional accounts from pseudo memoir A Journal of the Plague Year Memoirs of a Cavalier to criminal autobiography Moll Flanders to confession Roxana and the narrators of these accounts secretive compulsive fractive exhibit an array of resistances to the telling of their life stories Such experiments with narration evince Defoe's deep involvement in projects of self description and delineation as he interrogates the boundaries of the self and dramatizes the arduousness of self accounting Defoe's fictions are emphatically consciousness centered and the significance of such a focus to the development of the novel is patently as great as is his realistic style Defoe's narrative project in fact challenges current views on the moment at which inwardness and interiority begin as Lukacs argued to comprise the subject matter of the novel implicitly attributing to identity and consciousness a place of signal and complex importance in the new genre

The Post-Apocalyptic Novel in the Twenty-First Century H. Hicks,2016-04-08 Since the beginning of the twenty first century major Anglophone authors have flocked to a literary form once considered lowbrow genre fiction the post apocalyptic novel Calling on her broad knowledge of the history of apocalyptic literature Hicks examines the most influential post apocalyptic novels written since the beginning of the new millennium including works by Margaret Atwood David Mitchell Cormac McCarthy Jeanette Winterson Colson Whitehead and Paolo Bacigalupi Situating her careful readings in relationship to the scholarship of a wide range of historians theorists and literary critics she argues that these texts use the post apocalyptic form to reevaluate modernity in the context of the new century s political economic and ecological challenges In the immediate wake of disaster the characters in these novels desperately scavenge the scraps of the modern world But what happens to modernity beyond these first moments of salvage In a period when postmodernism no longer defines cultural production Hicks convincingly demonstrates that these writers employ conventions of post apocalyptic genre fiction to reengage with key features of modernity from historical thinking and the institution of nationhood to rationality and the practices of literacy itself

Solitude and its Ambiguities in Modernist Fiction E. Engelberg,2016-04-30 In this study of solitude in high modernist writing Edward Engelberg explores the ways in which solitude functions thematically to shape meaning in literary works as well as what solitude as a condition has contributed to the making of a trope Selected novels are analyzed for the ambiguities that solitude injects into their meanings The freedom of solitude also becomes a burden from which the protagonists seek liberation Although such ambiguities about solitude exist from the Bible and the Ancients through the centuries following they change within the context of time The story of solitude in the twentieth century moves from the self s removal from society and retreat into nature to an extra social position within which the self confronts itself A chapter is devoted to the synoptic analysis of solitude in the West with emphasis on the Renaissance to the twentieth century and another chapter analyzes the ambiguities that set the stage for modernism Defoe's Robinson Crusoe Selected works by Woolf Mann Camus Sartre and Beckett highlight particular modernist issues of solitude and how their authors sought to resolve them A New Imperial History Kathleen Wilson, 2004-06-17 This pioneering collection of essays charts an exciting new field in British studies the new imperial history Leading scholars from history literature and cultural studies tackle problems of identity modernity and difference in eighteenth century Britain and the empire They examine from interdisciplinary perspectives the reciprocal influences of empire and culture the movements of peoples practices and ideas effected by slavery diaspora and British dominance and ways in which subaltern non western and non elite people shaped British power and knowledge The essays move through Britain America India Africa and the South Pacific in testament to the networks of people commodities and entangled pasts forged by Britain's imperial adventures Based on ground breaking research these analyses of the imperial dimensions of British culture and identities in global contexts will challenge the notion that empire was something that happened out there and they demonstrate its long lasting implications for British identity and everyday life
