African-British Writings in the Eighteenth Century Helena Woodard, 1999-01-30 The eighteenth century was a time of great cultural change in Britain It was a period marked by expeditions to the New World Africa and the Orient and these voyages were reflected in the travel literature of the era It was also a period in which seventeenth century empiricism and the scientific method became dominant and in which society became increasingly secular Fundamental to the eighteenth century worldview was the notion of the Great Chain of Being in which all creatures and their Creator stood in a hierarchical relationship with one another The years from 1660 to 1833 witnessed both Britain's participation in slavery and the appropriation of the Great Chain of Being by social anthropologists and political leaders With the rise of the slave trade blacks were brought to Britain against their will where they were enslaved At the same time intellectuals of the period tried to place these slaves within the hierarchical frame provided by the Great Chain of Being The presence of slavery in Britain aroused much debate among blacks and whites alike and the literature of the eighteenth century reflects that debate This book examines representations of blacks in eighteenth century British literature to illuminate the discussions about race during that period The volume begins with a discussion of Alexander Pope's popularization of the Great Chain of Being in his Essay on Man which argued the universal ranking of humanity and which provided an intellectual foundation for slavery It then examines the works of several white canonical writers including Defoe Addison and Steele Swift and Sterne to see how blacks are portrayed in their works The volume also examines works by African British writers such as James Albert Ukawsaw Gronniosaw and Quobna Ottobah Cugoano who expose exclusionary practices among some theologians Ignatius Sancho whose Letters show how slaves were taught to be grateful and how those lacking gratitude were considered inhuman and Olaudah Equiano who shows how racial hierarchies function as a literary trope particularly in travel literature The final chapter on The History of Mary Prince examines the interaction of race and gender

Black Poor and White Philanthropists Stephen J. Braidwood, 1994-01-01 This book examines the events surrounding the establishment of a settlement in West Africa in 1787 which was later to become Freetown the present day capital of Sierra Leone It outlines the range of ideas and attitudes to Africa which underlay the foundation of the settlement and the part played by the black settlers themselves London's Black Poor Was the settlement based on a racist deportation designed to keep Britain white as some accounts claim or a voluntary emigration in which the blacks themselves played a part

Dispossessed Lives Marisa J. Fuentes, 2016-05-26 In the eighteenth century Bridgetown Barbados was heavily populated by both enslaved and free women Marisa J Fuentes creates a portrait of urban Caribbean slavery in this colonial town from the perspective of these women whose stories appear only briefly in historical records Fuentes takes us through the streets of Bridgetown with an enslaved runaway inside a brothel run by a freed woman of color in the midst of a white urban household in sexual chaos to the gallows where enslaved people were executed and within violent scenes of enslaved women's punishments In the process Fuentes interrogates the archive and its historical production to expose the ongoing effects of white colonial power that constrain what can be known about these women Combining fragmentary sources with interdisciplinary methodologies that include black feminist theory and critical studies of history and slavery Dispossessed Lives demonstrates how the construction of the archive marked enslaved women's bodies in life and in death By vividly recounting enslaved life through the experiences of individual women and illuminating their conditions of confinement through the legal sexual and representational power wielded by slave owners colonial authorities and the archive Fuentes challenges the way we write histories of vulnerable and often invisible subjects

Glorious Causes Julia Swindells, 2001. Glorious Causes explores the politics of theatricality and the theatricality of politics in late Georgian Britain at a time when the British nation can be described as a stage for reform. 1832 is particularly significant for legislation in relation to both the drama and the parliamentary franchise. In many ways though the forces of change date back to the later part of the eighteenth century and were set in motion by powerful liberation movements not only in France and North America but in Britain itself. Particularly important in addition to agitation for the vote were the movements for abolition of the slave trade and slave emancipation, the attempt to improve conditions in the factory, resistance to the exploitation of agricultural workers and not least the early struggle for women's rights. Political rhetoric was characterized by a rich vocabulary drawing on theatrical language and forms from melodrama and tragedy to comedy and burlesque. Most importantly activity in the theatres themselves often dismissed until recently as vulgar or sentimental was highly charged with political dynamic and controversy central to the drama of reform.

A History of Autofiction Alexandra Effe, 2025-10-02. Mapping the largely neglected history of autofictional literature and describing developments against socio-historical changes, cultural trends and philosophical/psychological discussions around self and mind, this book both explores and historicizes autofiction's contemporary boom. Beginning with the genre's emergence in 18th-century England against changes in publishing culture and author concept and then tracing forms and functions of autofictional literature up to the contemporary moment, A History of Autofiction highlights why select narrative strategies are abandoned, transformed or repurposed, which forms affordances and effects of autofictional modes are persistent and which were particular to a given period. With focus on salient authors and texts from anglophone autofiction around the world and shining spotlights on insightful socio-historical and biographical contexts, Alexandra Effe foregrounds autofictional elements of works not previously considered for these dimensions and offers fresh perspectives on a range of canonical autofictional texts. Interdisciplinary in approach, the book sheds light on autofictional phenomena through research in neuroscience, psychology and philosophy of mind, while demonstrating that autofictional literature holds insights for cognitive science. Developing a cognitive-holistic approach to the triad of author, text and reader, the book allows for a novel and more encompassing understanding of an important current cultural trend and of its diachronic development.

Black British Intellectuals and Education Paul Warmington, 2014-02-24 Ask any moderately interested Briton to name a black intellectual and chances are the response will be an American name Malcolm X or Barack Obama Toni Morrison or Cornel

West Yet Britain has its own robust black intellectual traditions and its own master teachers among them C L R James Claudia Jones Ambalavaner Sivanandan Stuart Hall and Paul Gilroy However while in the USA black public intellectuals are an embedded if often embattled feature of national life black British thinkers remain routinely marginalized Black British Intellectuals and Education counters this neglect by exploring histories of race education and social justice through the work of black British public intellectuals academics educators and campaigners The book provides a critical history of diverse currents in black British intellectual production from the eighteenth century through post war migration and into the post multicultural present focusing on the sometimes hidden impacts of black thinkers on education and social justice Firstly it argues that black British thinkers have helped fundamentally to shape educational policy practice and philosophy particularly in the post war period Secondly it suggests that education has been one of the key spaces in which the mass consciousness of being black and British has emerged and a key site in which black British intellectual positions have been defined and differentiated Chapters explore the early development of black British intellectual life from the slave narratives to the anti colonial movements of the early twentieth century how African Caribbean and Asian communities began to organize against racial inequalities in schooling in the post Windrush era of the 1950s and 60s how from out of these grassroots struggles black intellectuals and activists of the 1970s 80s and 90s developed radical critiques of education youth and structural racism the influence of multiculturalism black cultural studies and black feminism on education current developments in black British educational work including post racial approaches Critical Race Theory and black social conservatism Black British Intellectuals and Education will be of key relevance to undergraduates postgraduates and academics engaged in research on race ethnicity education social justice and cultural studies Discourses of Slavery and Abolition B.

Carey,M. Ellis,S. Salih,2004-05-25 Discourses of Slavery and Abolition brings together for the first time the most important strands of current thinking on the relationship between slavery and categories of writing oratory and visual culture in the long Eighteenth century The book begins by examining writing about slavery and race by both philosophers and by authors such as Aphra Behn It considers self representation in the works of Ignatius Sancho Olaudah Equiano James Williams and Mary Prince The final section reads literary and cultural texts associated with the abolition movements of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries moving beyond traditional accounts of the documents of that movement to show the importance of religious writing children s literature and the relationship between art and abolition Robinson Crusoe tries again Werner Ustorf,2010-09-15 The Christian experience in modern Europe is fragmented It shows great diversity in various geographical contexts and historically a considerable alternation of extremes high or low tides of engagement One aspect of the Christianity in Europe s past is its mission history The spread of Christianity from the West as one of its most important results into the continents of the Global South has been deeply ambivalent in character On the one hand the mission from the West helped to build the historical foundations for Christian education adolescence and maturation to responsible adulthood in a global diverse segregated and pluralistic world As a mature global player Christianity was in a prime position to contribute to peaceful conflict resolution in the religious social and political fields On the other hand the darkness and utter insufficiency of the encounter between the European Christian self and the many others worldwide brought along problematic projections of different beliefs attacked in a hostile way as alien and inevitably as conquered The consequences particularly for the primal other the indigenous people were often disastrous Werner Ustorf has been a leading missiologist worldwide for thirty years This book not only analyses the interaction between mission and individual the construction of the self and the other in a mission context but also proves the analytical strength of theology in conceptualizing future Christian experiences in Europe Ustorf illustrates that apart from traditional dimension of faith a non religious interpretation and critical trust in transcendence is crucial for the formation of the new interculturalization of Christianity in Europe Thus this book demonstrates how mission history can be transformed to a research concept for a global and pluralistic Christianity
