The book covers all major media including television, film, newspapers, radio, magazines, and the Internet and systematically analyzes their representation of the four largest minority groups in the U.S.: African Americans, Native Americans, Latinos, and Asian Americans. Entertainment media are compared and contrasted with news media, and special attention is devoted to coverage of social movements for racial justice and politicians of color.

Assumes the new perspective of mediation of cultural diversity which critically combines elements of previous theories in order to gain a better understanding of the relationship between the media and cultural diversity.
