Politics And Budgeting In The World Health Organization Studies In Development:

Politics and Budgeting in the World Health Organization Francis W. Hoole, 1976 The Political Economy of Military Spending in the United States Alex Mintz, 2002-01-31 This is a timely collection of essays utilizing the political economy approach to military spending primarily by the United States. The articles deal specifically with the relationships between defense spending and a political business cycle, public opinion and the US-Soviet relationship, military action, i.e., war, economic performance, the trade deficit, guns versus butter issues, and fiscal policy. Managing Money and Discord in the UN Ronny Patz, Klaus H. Goetz, 2019-01-24 How do international organizations in the United Nations system put together their budgets? What is the role of complex principals, most notably member states, and the complex agents in the bureaucracies of international organizations in budgeting processes? And what does a focus on budgeting tell us about the changing nature of the system of international organizations? This book provides answers to these questions through a detailed examination of budgeting in the UN system. The analysis draws on both quantitative and qualitative observations for a total of 22 UN system organizations and detailed case studies for the United Nations, ILO, UNESCO, and WHO. The findings demonstrate the importance of three key organizational outcomes: proceduralization, routinization, and budgetary segmentation as international organizations grapple with managing discord over priorities as a result of complex principal-agent constellations. Contrary to a common view of international bureaucracies as pathological organizations, core budget routines are mostly successfully maintained. However, principal constellations become more complex, notably through the rise of voluntary contributions and non-state donors. Budgetary segmentation advances in some cases, even leading to the setting up of new international organizations, and budgeting and resource mobilization become ever more intertwined. As a consequence, the capacity of international bureaucracies to fulfil their budgeting responsibilities is stretched to the limits and beyond. Transformations in Governance is a major academic book series from Oxford University Press. It is designed to accommodate the impressive growth of research in comparative politics, international relations, public policy, federalism, and environmental and urban studies concerned with the dispersion of authority from central states to supranational institutions, subnational governments, and public-private networks. It brings together work that advances our understanding of the organization, causes, and consequences of multilevel and complex governance. The series is selective, containing annually a small number of books of exceptionally high quality by leading and emerging scholars. The series is edited by Liesbet Hooghe and Gary Marks of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and Walter Mattli of the University of Oxford. The United States and Multilateral Institutions Margaret P. Karns, Karen A. Mingst, 2003-09-02 World politics in the post-Cold War world has become increasingly institutionalized. However, the role of international organizations has been overlooked in much of the literature on international regimes. Now in paperback, The United States and Multilateral Institutions examines United States policy in areas ranging from international trade to human rights and in institutions such as the International Monetary
