Women's Political Leadership for Sustainable Development Anna-Katharina von Stauffenberg,2025-02-11

This book posits that women's political leadership is vital for transitions to a sustainable future. It investigates the unsustainability of the current social order, offers strategies for achieving sustainable development, and explores the structure and agency variables that enable women political leaders to successfully drive political innovations for a greater societal transformation. This book sheds light on the genesis of the current capitalist social order, the transformational role of the state, political leadership, political innovations, and particularly women leaders in driving sustainable development. The book analyses three case studies of women leaders who have successfully implemented political innovations for sustainable statehood and development on national, regional, and local governance levels: Jacinda Ardern, Carole Delgá, and Valérie Plante. From these case studies, the author demonstrates which agency and structural prerequisites are crucial for women political leaders to become a driving force behind creating the conditions needed for a sustainable future. Taking both a theoretical and an empirical approach, this is key reading for graduate students and researchers interested in political leadership, gender, and politics, political innovations, sustainability sciences, and transition research. It will also be of interest to political leaders and those advising them looking to understand the leadership styles, skills, and strategies needed to successfully drive progressive political agendas for sustainable statehood and development.

New Zealand in World Affairs IV 1990-2005
Roderic Alley, New Zealand Institute of International Affairs, 2007

At the beginning of 1990, the Berlin Wall had just fallen; few believed that there was any serious threat to the environment. 9/11 was just any date; the Pacific was seen largely as an idyllic and stable region, and Iraq was just another Middle Eastern state. By 2005, Iraq meant two wars; the Cold War had been replaced by the war on terror. East Timor, Bougainville, Fiji, and the Solomons were all synonyms for strife and instability in the region, and sustainability, global warming, and climate change were everyday topics.

New Zealand in World Affairs IV
surveys the period 1990-2005, provides a record of New Zealand's major international preoccupations, describes how they were officially handled, and makes assessments of how effectively the challenges were interpreted and acted upon. This authoritative collection of essays, the fourth in a series commissioned by the New Zealand Institute of International Affairs, completes a survey of New Zealand's foreign relations since World War II.

New Zealand's Foreign Policy Under The Jacinda Ardern Government: Facing The Challenge Of A Disrupted World
Robert G. Patman, Dennis Wesselbaum, Balazs Kiglics, Peter Grace, 2024-03-14

The purpose of this book is to examine the foreign policy of Jacinda Ardern's New Zealand Government between 2020 and early 2023, when the COVID-19 pandemic intersected with an evolving and often tumultuous post-Cold War global environment. This context witnessed the erosion of an international rules-based order and the renewal of great power competition. In particular, the Indo-Pacific has become a contested strategic space which impacted on New Zealand's foreign policy interests. As a self-proclaimed small state, New Zealand faced distinct challenges; the Ardern Government formulated a distinctive foreign policy that drew on the success of its handling of the pandemic, as well as Aotearoa New Zealand's indigenous values and emphasised the importance of a good international reputation.
