Politics and Policy Implementation in the Third World Merilee S. Grindle, Politics and Policy Implementation in the Third World Merilee S. Grindle, 2017-03-14 This book addresses the broader questions of how both the content and the context of public policy affect its implementation Through a series of case studies from Mexico Peru Brazil Colombia Zambia Kenya and India ten scholars here demonstrate that numerous factors intervene between the statement of policy goals and their actual achievement in society Originally published in 1980 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Handbook of Administrative Reform Jerri Killian, Niklas Eklund, 2008-02-21 The field of public administration currently lacks sufficient resources for understanding the rationale implications and inherent practices of reforming government administration around the world The Handbook of Administrative Reform satisfies this need by bringing together diverse international experts to analyze the sensible processes an Ghana Kwame Boafo-Arthur, 2013-07-04 Ghana has witnessed a revolution through the ballot box since its return to constitutional rule in 1993 Yet this period of sustained democratic government in an era of globalization and liberal triumphalism has brought with it new demands How has Ghana faced up to the problems of institution building state market relations and democratic leadership Can it deal with the challenges posed by security human rights and foreign policy in the twenty first century This unique collection interrogates all these issues and assesses the future of the democratic experiment in one of sub Saharan Africa s rare islands of peace In doing so it provides an invaluable guide to Ghana s political past present and future Uneven Development in the Third World A. Bhalla, 1996-11-26 The book defines uneven development in terms of development strategies and their outcomes Drawing on case studies from China and India three types of strategy are discussed heavy industrialisation sectoral regional balance and economic liberalisation Also three kinds of outcomes are examined growth of output and productivity income consumption and class inequalities in three spatial dimensions intra regional inter regional and rural urban Furthermore access to and utilisation of technology health and educational services are compared Women At Work In The Gulf Munira A. Fakhro, 2013-10-28 First published in 1990 This book grew out of a dissertation written during 1983 86 and is an analysis of the social policies needed to facilitate women s entry into the labour force Pushing the need and recognition that it is essential now for Gulf women to move beyond their domestic activities by taking an active role and by providing leadership to ensure that they have access to the opportunities and benefits of economic development The tables presented here are entirely new in the sense that data were selected from 1941 81 censuses Other statistics were drawn from different sources

reflecting developments during the 1980s      Learning From China? Bernhard Glaeser, 2013-09-05 First published in 1987 this volume was written to shed some light upon the nature and environmental consequences and wider relevance of development strategies in the Peoples Republic of China It covers industrialisation food production energy use and landscape and settlement planning The Chinese autocentred strategy is assessed from both the developmental and the environmental viewpoints Decision making processes and the opportunities to implement environmental policy in other parts of the developing world are analysed and the volume concludes with the view that benefits to other countries are likely to arise out of increased co operation and exchange with China although the Chinese model is by no means a panacea All students and researchers interested in either environmental or developmental issues will find this book to be a substantial and enlightening contribution to literature      International Bibliography of Social Science International Committee for Social Science Information and Documentation, 1984-03-15 First published in 1984 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company      Debating Governance Jon Pierre, 2000-02-24 Leading scholars in the field of governance examine the effectiveness of the different non institutional strategies at the disposal of modern governments in tackling issues of urban decline public administrations governmental regionalization budget deficits and global economics The governance approach to political science yields a new perspective on the role of the state domestically as well as in the international arena Globalization internationalization and the growing influence of networks in domestic politics means that the notions of state strength and the role of the state in society must re examined      Corruption-free Sustainable Development R.B. Jain, 2004 Attempts To Address The Problems That The Modern Governments Face And Discuss What Steps And Strategies Should Be Taken To Meet These Challenges Has 15 Papers      Steering a Course between Friends and Foes Caelesta Poppelaars, 2009      Managing Development Kathleen Staudt, 1991-04 Roger Ebert is the gold standard for movie critics And his Movie Yearbook has been the go to source for movie lovers for more than 25 years Roger Ebert s criticism shows a nearly unequaled grasp of film history and technique and formidable intellectual range New York Times Pulitzer Prize winning film critic Roger Ebert presents more than 600 full length critical movie reviews along with interviews tributes and journal entries inside Roger Ebert s Movie Yearbook 2013 It includes every movie review Ebert has written from January 2010 to July 2012 Also included in the Yearbook In depth interviews with newsmakers and celebrities Tributes to those in the film industry who have passed away recently Essays on the Oscars reports from the Toronto Film Festival and entries into Ebert s Little Movie Glossary      Agrarian Radicalism in China, 1968-1981 David Zweig, 1989 During and after the Cultural Revolution radical leaders in the Chinese Communist Party tried to mobilize rural society for socioeconomic and political changes and move rural China to even higher stages of collectivism David Zweig argues that because advocates of agrarian radicalism formed a minority group within China s central leadership they acted in opposition to the dominant moderate forces and resorted to alternative strategies to mobilize support for their unofficial policies The limited institutionalization of the system allowed the radicals to promote their principles through policy winds speeches generated by newspaper articles networks of political allies and organized visits they also linked their policies to ongoing political and economic campaigns In spite of this radical ideology and frequent upheavals in the countryside Zweig finds that Chinese peasants had no ideological affinity for Mao s theory of the continuing revolution and reacted to each policy change on the basis of how it affected their personal family or collective interests Despite intense propaganda cadres adjusted the impact of these radical policies so that the peasants conservative mindset entrepreneurial spirit and desire to improve their own lot remained intact Zweig examines the local realities of the radicals program by describing the results of specific policies he discriminates among the responses of officials at different bureaucratic levels peasants of varying income levels and family structures and villages with specific geographic and socioeconomic characteristics He draws on his own field research in Chinese villages and interviews with Chinese college students and their friends who had lived in the countryside and emigr s in Hong Kong who had lived and worked in rural China

Clientelism and Implementing Social Security Programmes in Post-conflict Iraqi Kurdistan Region Muslih Irwani,2015-10-19 Clientelism and Implementing Social Security Programmes in Post conflict Iraqi Kurdistan Region investigates social policy in a politically less developed entity and examines the mainstream top down and bottom up models of policy implementation in light of a detailed study of the Kurdistan Regional Government In addition it introduces the innovative clientelistic model of policy implementation a political and preferential tool which utilises a public nationalistic dichotomy in social welfare provision The book argues that politicians in the Kurdistan region deal with social policy programmes according to their political preferences attaching importance to policies on the basis of the way they feel about those social programmes and interest groups concerned As such as it stands policy implementation is subject to interference by politicians and high government officials under the pretext of supporting and monitoring the way such policy is implemented Through an investigation of the most prominent actors in the implementation of social security programmes this book demonstrates how beneficiaries of these programmes can themselves become focal points in the implementation process Indeed within the Kurdistan Regional Government s social policy context today the benefits of social security schemes are being distributed based on the socio political status of recipients not on their socio economic conditions and needs

Forest Certification: A Policy Perspective Chris Elliott,2000-01-01 This paper analyses the development of certification programmes in three countries Indonesia Canada and Sweden using the Advocacy Coalition Framework ACF as a theoretical reference point The ACF is an actor based framework for analysing policy processes and has not previously been applied in a developing country Actors in the three countries took different approaches to certification In Canada in a programme development process supported by the forest products industry a management systems approach was taken In Sweden performance standards were developed in a process initially driven by NGOs In Indonesia certification was led by an NGO within a framework established by government and a performance standards approach was used The paper concludes that forest certification can be best understood as a policy instrument that promotes and facilitates policy orientated learning among actors and provides indirect incentives for improved forest management Learning occurs both as the standards to be used for certification are developed and as they are implemented The benefits of learning and consensus building among actors such as NGOs forest companies private forest owners indigenous peoples governments etc who have traditionally been in conflict with each other can be significant On the other hand where fundamental changes in forest policy such as tenure and forest revenue reform are needed certification should not be seen as a substitute for these A further conclusion is that while public policies change over periods of decades the private policies of retailers and forest product companies can adapt more rapidly to changing circumstances The concept of a fast track of private policy change compared to the slower track of governmental policy change is therefore proposed and described A number of interesting theoretical and empirical avenues for further research on certification are discussed
