Politics Of Affirmative Action Women Equality And Category Politics:

The Politics of Affirmative Action Carol Lee Bacchi, 1996-09-24 This book makes a major contribution to an issue of central concern to feminists. It is well written, thoroughly researched and thoughtfully argued. Wide ranging and comprehensive in scope, the book is carefully structured using different countries to illustrate the specific ways in which affirmative action is co-opted and contained in practice. Jeanne Gregory Middlesex University. This timely and incisive book brings a theoretical lens to the debates around affirmative action. It presents a comparative analysis of those countries reputed to be leading the way in policies for women: the United States, Canada, Australia, Sweden, The Netherlands and Norway. Carol Lee Bacchi draws upon current social and feminist theory to present a lucid analysis of the implementation of reform. Taking account of the particular historical context of affirmative action policies, she considers why expressed commitment to affirmative action for women has failed to translate into meaningful reform. She describes how conceptual and identity categories are given meanings and positioned in debate in ways which work to contain the effects of the reform. Bacchi concludes that proponents of affirmative action need to direct more attention to the political uses of categories than to their abstract content and to concentrate their efforts upon exposing the effects of category politics.

The Discursive Politics of Gender Equality Emanuela Lombardo, Petra Meier, Mieke Verloo, 2009-06-02 This book explores the discursive constructions of gender equality and the implications of these understandings in a broad range of policy fields. Using gender equality as a prime example, a number of internationally renowned scholars offer a new vocabulary to identify and study processes of the reduction, amplification, shifting or freezing of meaning. The main aim of the book is to understand the dynamics and to reflect on the consequences of such discursive politics in recent policy making on gender equality. It explores both the potential opportunities that are opened up for the promotion of equality through discursive politics and the limitations they impose. Distinctive features of the volume include chapters covering a range of case studies in Europe, the USA and the Asia region, tackling contemporary political debates on equality, new insights of relevance to public policy practices such as gender mainstreaming with theorizing on intersecting inequalities. The Discursive Politics of Gender Equality will be of interest to students and scholars of political science, public policy, comparative politics, gender and women studies.

The Changing Politics of Gender Equality E. Breitenbach, A. Brown, F. Mackay, J. Webb, 2016-01-28 This comprehensive collection brings together key academics, activists and practitioners to review the changing politics of the project of gender equality. It gives account of the evolution of gender equality policies and practice at different levels of governance in Britain over the past three decades. Thinking and work around equal opportunities have been fundamentally shaped by changing political conditions. The contributors review past policies and practices before moving on to explore the opportunities and challenges for the future.

Women, Quotas and Politics Drude Dahlerup, 2013-05-13 This is the first world wide comparative study of the controversial new trends of gender quotas now emerging in global politics, presenting a comprehensive overview of changes in women's parliamentary representation across the world. This is important reading for all those working to increase women's influence in politics because it scrutinizes under what circumstances gender quotas do increase women's representation and why they sometimes fail. These distinguished international scholars also show how gender balance in politics has become important to a nation's international image and why quotas are being introduced in many post conflict countries. They present key case studies of Afghanistan, Iraq, Argentina, Sweden, South Africa, Belgium, covering almost all major regions of the world: Latin America, Africa, the Arab world, South Asia, the Balkans, The Nordic countries and Europe, New Zealand, Australia and the USA and Rwanda which in 2003 unexpectedly surpassed Sweden as the number one country in the world in terms of women's parliamentary representation. Using a comparative perspective, this book contains analyses of the discursive controversies around quotas; it gives an overview over various types of quotas in use from candidate quotas to reserved seat systems and it throws light over the troublesome implementation process. When do gender quotas lead to actual increase in the number of women parliament? When are quotas merely a symbolic gesture? What does it imply to be elected as a quota woman? Tackling these and many more key questions, this is a major new contribution to the field. Making an important contribution to our knowledge of gender politics worldwide, this book will be of interest to NGOs, students and scholars of democracy, policy making, comparative politics and gender studies.

Women, Policy and Politics Carol Lee Bacchi, 1999-06-28. This book offers a powerful new approach to policy studies. Drawing on recent perspectives from social constructionism, discourse analysis, the sociology of social problems and feminism, Carol Bacchi develops a step by step analytical tool for deconstructing policy problems. Her 'What's the Problem' approach encourages students to reflect critically upon the ways in which policy problems get constructed within policy debates and policy proposals.

Gender Politics in the Expanding European Union Silke Roth, 2008. In May 2004, after bringing their legislation into accordance with EU regulations, ten more countries joined the European Union. The contributors to this volume assess the impact of this historical development on gender relations in the new and old EU member states. Instead of focusing on either western or eastern Europe, this book investigates the similarities and differences in diverse parts of Europe. Although initially limited, gender equality was part of the original framework of the European Union, an organization often more open than national governments to feminist demands, as this volume illustrates with case studies from eastern and western Europe. The enlargement process thus provides some important policy instruments for increasing equality between men and women.

Critical Approaches to Education Policy Analysis Michelle D. Young, Sarah Diem, 2016-11-18. This volume informs the growing number of educational policy scholars on the use of critical theoretical frameworks in their analyses. It offers insights on which theories are appropriate within the area of critical educational policy research and how theory and method interact and are applied in critical policy analyses. Highlighting how different critical theoretical frameworks are used in educational policy research to reshape and redefine the way scholars approach the field, the volume offers work by emerging and senior scholars in the field of educational policy who apply critical frameworks to their research The chapters examine a wide range of current educational policy topics through different critical theoretical lenses including critical race theory critical discourse analysis postmodernism feminist poststructuralism critical theories related to LGBTQ issues and advocacy approaches

Class, Caste, Gender Manoranjan Mohanty, 2004-05-24 Annotation This volume of essays looks into the dynamic interconnection of class caste and gender in the Indian political process The focus is on interconnection that is a relationship involving more than one category while at the same time trying to understand each category by itself The complex issues of caste gender and class have been studied through a collection of essays that look into the people's struggle for social equality Social oppression has been analyzed in the context of protests against such exploitation Anti caste movements and women's movements have been studied in much detail The volume is divided into five sections and well known specialists have contributed pertinent essays This important book will contribute immensely in the understanding of the contemporary Indian political process

The Australian Study of Politics R. Rhodes, 2009-11-11 The Australian Study of Politics provides the first comprehensive reference book on the history of the study of politics in Australia whether described as political studies or political science It focuses on Australia and on developments since WWII also exploring the historical roots of each major subfield

Criminalising the Client Josefina Erikson, 2017-06-09 In 1998 Sweden was the first country in the world to criminalise the purchase of sexual services but not the sale of sex The law represented a new prostitution regime that problematised power relations in prostitution as inherently gendered and hierarchical and made the male buyers of sexual services responsible for the act of prostitution The Swedish case is critically important to the study of gendered institutional change and has been of empirical interest and global debate Using the feminist institutionalism approach to the analysis this study offers new insights to the Swedish case and provides a new analytical framework for micro level analysis of institutional change that addresses the struggle for meaning institutionalization of new gendered ideas and the strategic actions of feminist actors

Community and Local Governance in Australia Paul Smyth, Tim Reddel, Andrew Jones, 2005 This book examines the resurgence in Australia of locality based social policy concerned with the spatial dimensions of disadvantage after the political failures of the market oriented approach to regional reform The book proposes that these trends are leading to a new post competition policy regime in Australia that mirrors global policy trends

International Journal of Cross-Cultural Studies Siddhartha Sarkar, Mainstreaming Politics Carol Lee Bacchi, Joan Eveline, 2010 This book offers an innovative rethinking of policy approaches to gender equality and of the process of social change It brings several new chapters together with a series of previously published articles to reflect on these topics A particular focus is gender mainstreaming a relatively recent development in equality policy in many industrialised and some industrialising countries as well as in large international organisations such as the World Bank the International Monetary Fund and the International Labour Organization The book draws upon poststructuralist organisation and policy theory to argue that it is impossible to script reform initiatives such as gender mainstreaming. As an alternative it recommends thinking about such policy developments as fields of contestation shaped by on the ground political deliberations and practices including the discursive practices that produce specific ways of understanding the problem of gender inequality. In addition to the new chapters the editors Bacchi and Eveline produce brief introductions for each chapter tracing the development of their ideas over four years. Through these commentaries the book provides exciting insights into the complex processes of collaboration and theory generation. Mainstreaming Politics is a rich resource for both practitioners in the field and for theorists. In particular it will appeal to those interested in public policy, public administration, organisation studies, sociology, comparative politics and international studies. Poststructural Policy Analysis Carol Bacchi, Susan

Goodwin, 2016-10-24 This book offers a novel, refreshing and politically engaged way to think about public policy. Instead of treating policy as simply the government's best efforts to address problems, it offers a way to question critically how policies produce problems as particular sorts of problems with important political implications. Governing it is argued takes place through these problematizations. According to the authors, interrogating policies and policy proposals as problematizations involves asking questions about the assumptions they rely upon, how they have been made, what their effects are, as well as how they could be unmade. To enable this form of critical analysis, this book introduces an analytic strategy: the 'What's the Problem Represented to be' (WPR) approach. It features examples of applications of the approach with topics as diverse as obesity, economic policy, migration, drug and alcohol policy, and gender equality, to illustrate the growing popularity of this way of thinking and to provide clear and useful examples of poststructural policy analysis in practice. Gower Handbook of

Discrimination at Work Hazel Conley, 2016-04-29 Workplace discrimination is an experience that, despite four decades of equality legislation, continues to blight the lives of thousands every year. Discrimination persists on the protected grounds of sex, race, disability, age, sexual orientation, religion or belief, and gender reassignment, as well as where no legal protection exists, such as in relation to class background or migration status. The Handbook discusses recent changes in equality legislation, as well as considering the limitations of legal frameworks in addressing inequality. However, complying with the law is only the first step towards addressing discrimination in the workplace, and the book goes beyond the law and provides evidence of good practice in promoting organisational culture change, as well as considering future directions for policy on equality action. The Gower Handbook of Discrimination at Work looks at both social justice and business case perspectives, and its message is not a negative one. The contributors have considerable depth of understanding of workplace discrimination, both as academics and equality practitioners; their work has contributed to policy formation, and all are committed to improving the lives of people at work. They offer insights into existing international developments and make suggestions for the ways in which positive change can be realised. Practitioners such as human resources professionals and other managers involved in addressing equality at work, trade unionists, equality trainers, and academics concerned with researching or teaching in the areas of employment and equality will all find this book of interest Furthermore it will be of value to students in the fields of business and management employment law equality and diversity and human resource management

Affirmative Action Policies and Judicial Review Worldwide George Gerapetritis, 2015-08-03 This book discusses affirmative action or positive discrimination defined as measures awarding privileges to certain groups that have historically suffered discrimination or have been underrepresented in specific social sectors The book's underlying rationale is that one cannot place at the same starting point people who have been treated differently in the past because in this way one merely perpetuates a state of difference and in turn social gaps are exaggerated and social cohesion is endangered Starting out with an introduction on the meaning and typology of affirmative action policies the book goes on to emphasise the interaction of affirmative action with traditional values of liberal state such as equality meritocracy democracy justice liberalism and socialism It reveals the affirmative action goals from a legal and sociological point of view examining the remedial cultural societal pedagogical and economy purposes of such action After applying an institutional narrative of the implementation of affirmative action worldwide the book explains the jurisprudence on the issue through syntheses and antitheses of structural and material variables such as the institutional recognition of the policies the domains of their implementation and their beneficiaries The book eventually makes an analytical impact assessment following the implementation of affirmative action plans and the judicial response especially in relation to the conventional human rights doctrine by establishing a liaison between affirmative action and social and group rights The book applies a multi disciplinary and comparative methodology in order to assess the ethical standing of affirmative action policies the public interests involved and their effectiveness towards actual equality In the light of the above analysis the monograph explains the arguments considering affirmative action as a theology for substantive equality and the arguments treating this policy as anathema for liberalism A universal discussion currently at its peak

The Limits of Gendered Citizenship Elżbieta H. Oleksy, Jeff Hearn, Dorota Golańska, 2011-02-01 The underlying theme of this edited collection is gendered citizenship as well as the challenges and limits that confront the gendering of citizenship It critiques the notion of the genderless nation state citizen in both analytical and policy terms and contexts and necessarily engages with at least three major sets of contradictions or tensions limitations on achieving gender equal or gender equitable citizenship relations and differences between gender equality policy diversity policy and gender mainstreaming and interplays of academic analyses of and practical interventions on gendered citizenship Contributors from diverse scientific disciplines and academic backgrounds aim to provide a better understanding of the challenges that societies within Europe and elsewhere face vis vis diversity regionalism transnationalism and migration

Gender and Institutions Moira Gatens, Alison Mackinnon, 1998-11-09 This important interdisciplinary 1999 volume explores what might constitute a feminist approach to institutional design and reshaping What is the scope it asks in contemporary Australian society for ensuring that institutions acknowledge gender difference and deliver more equitable outcomes This feminist perspective on institutional design shows how gendered regulatory norms underpin and intersect with all other institutional settings The leading team of writers includes Deborah Mitchell Bettina Cass Chilla Bulbeck Carol Bacchi and Joan Eveline Topics discussed include institutions embodiment and sexual difference the welfare state housing policy household work republicanism and citizenship gender based discrimination This book makes a major contribution to debates about the reshaping of our institutions as we move towards the twenty first century     Gender, Development and Environmental Governance Seema Arora-Jonsson,2013 This book questions the conventional belief that development brings about greater gender equality and better environmental management Based on participatory research and in depth fieldwork Arora Jonsson studies struggles for local forest management the making of women s groups within them and how the women s groups became a threat to mainstream institutions Engaging seriously with academic debates on gender environment and development this volume contributes to a much needed dialogue among these fields     Firms, Boards and Gender Quotas Mari Teigen,Fredrik Engelstad,2012-02-10 Discusses gender quota reform from an economic political and philosophical point of view This title looks at whether the economic performance of companies is influenced positively or negatively It provides a comparative study of the access of women to top positions in business in Europe
