Politics Of Collegiality Retrenchment Strategies In Canadian Universities:

Politics of Collegiality Cynthia Hardy, 1996-03-22 In The Politics of Collegiality Hardy uses six case studies to explore how power and collegiality interact within institutional contexts during periods of fiscal restraint Examining the funding cutbacks implemented by McGill University Universit de Montr al University of British Columbia Simon Fraser University University of Toronto and Carleton University Hardy demonstrates that institutional context and retrenchment strategy are linked in such a way that what works in some institutions will not work in others By offering insights into how financial restrictions have been managed in particular universities these individual case studies provide a conceptual framework for understanding institutional decision making on a larger scale Hardy reveals that university administrators must recognize this broader context if conflict is to be avoided and the consensus needed to implement effective retrenchment plans created

The Power of Collegiality Nadja Bieletzki, 2017-12-16 Nadja Bieletzki explores how university presidents lead universities She provides insights into the upper echelons of higher education management and focuses especially on university presidents in Germany Special attention is given to the career background of university presidents and the way they conduct reform projects Based on the results from semi structured expert interviews and their qualitative analysis the author shows that university presidents do not use all their formal power although their position has been strengthened by law This can be explained by the collegial characteristics of universities which drive and restrict presidential actions Nadja Bieletzki was awarded the Ulrich Teichler Prize for Excellent Dissertations 2016

The Collegial Tradition in the Age of Mass Higher Education Ted Tapper, David Palfreyman, 2010-07-20 Much of our writing reflects a long term commitment to the analysis of the collegial tradition in higher education This commitment is reflected most strongly in Oxford and the Decline of the Collegiate Tradition 2000 which we are pleased to say will reappear as a considerably revised second edition Oxford The Collegiate University Conflict Consensus and Continuity to be published by Springer in the near future To some extent this volume The Collegial Tradition in the Age of Mass Higher Education is a reaction to the charge that our work has been too narrowly focussed upon the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Oxbridge Not surprisingly you would expect us to reject that critique while responding constructively to it The focus may be narrow and although the relative presence and more arguably the influence of Oxford and Cambridge may have declined in English higher education they remain important national universities Moreover as the plethora of so called world class higher education league tables would have us believe they also have a powerful international status This however is essentially a defensive response dependent upon the alleged reputations of the two universities This book is intent on making a more substantial argument To examine the collegial tradition in higher education means much more than presenting a nostalgic look at the past

Levin,2001-04-05 Long regarded as a local institution the community college has become a globalized institution It has been affected by global forces and by the interpretations of organizational members to both global forces and to the responses of intermediaries Globalization as a process finds an outlet within the community college where economic cultural and technological behaviors are advanced along lines consistent with and supportive of globalization Furthermore government actions have directed community colleges to respond and adapt to a global economy In this book seven community colleges are examined to demonstrate organizational change in the 1990s precipitated by globalization

Counting Out The Scholars William Bruneau,Donald C. Savage,Canadian Association of University Teachers,2002-03-07

Canada's universities have lost their autonomy Under the guise of accountability reformers from government and large corporations have undermined the original purposes of these institutions insisting that they operate according to a business model The chief tool used to effect this change is the performance indicator a method of evaluation and ranking well suited to measuring sales per square foot for example but useless in assessing qualities such as critical thinking creativity and wisdom Evaluating use of performance indicators in Canada the United States United Kingdom and New Zealand the authors challenge readers to look beyond this narrow business based measure of value and to consider more creative and effective methods of evaluation Counting Out the Scholars is a penetrating analysis of current methods of performance evaluation in the university one that offers alternatives to the prevailing orthodoxy Community College Faculty J. Levin, S. Kater, Richard L. Wagoner, 2006-01-31 John S Levin Susan T Kater and Richard L Wagoner collectively argue that as community colleges organize themselves to respond to economic needs and employer demands and as they rely more heavily upon workplace efficiencies such as part time labor they turn themselves into businesses or corporations and threaten their social and educational mission Universities for Sale Neil Tudiver, Canadian Association of University Teachers, 1999 In the 1990s Canadian universities experienced an aggressive campaign of corporatization Universities for Sale offers suggestions on how to resist corporatization Neil Tudiver shows how scholarly independence has in recent years been eroded to a point of crisis Left unchecked corporations play a larger and larger role in deciding which fields of study survive and which will disappear He looks at how professors defend free inquiry against the pressures of economic expediency Universities for Sale is a penetrating analysis of the ongoing issue of corporate influence on Canada's universities Critical Conversations on Knowledge, Curriculum and Epistemic Justice Margaret Blackie, Kathy Lockett, 2024-12-03 This edited collection that celebrates the legacy of Suellen Shay is located in Higher Education Studies and Development in South Africa the country where she lived and worked The book has international reach as the authors engage in contemporary debates around how to think about knowledge in education development work in professional education and more recently around the call to decolonise the curriculum Contributions draw on the social realist tradition in the sociology of education to discuss how curricula are or should be structured in order to make key forms of knowledge accessible to students The collection includes theoretical debates related to the field of higher education studies as well as chapters that analyse curricula and assessment in engineering the health professions tourism and music including the impact on curricula of interdisciplinary collaboration across different types of institution and knowledge This book will be important for scholars wanting to transform how universities and colleges think about curriculum design and practice It was originally published as a special issue of Teaching in Higher Education Governance of Higher Education Ian Austin, Glen A. The Changing Academic Profession in Hong Kong Gerard A. Postiglione, Jisun Jung, 2017-05-05 Hong Kong's universities have been transformed by the move from elite to mass higher education from government support to market driven finance from academic management to professional management from local to cross border and international outreach from China's education bridge to China's education window and from a colonial model of curricular specialization to a postcolonial model emphasizing broader intellectual development and service As the landscape of Hong Kong higher education has undergone change so have the backgrounds specializations expectations and work roles of academic staff The academic profession is ageing increasingly insecure more accountable more international at the same time more Mainland focused and less likely to be organized only along disciplinary lines The academic profession today is expected to be more innovative in teaching more productive in research and more entrepreneurial in fundraising New approaches to governance have evolved and blurred the boundaries between academic and managerial roles within the university The power to appoint members to university councils has become an area of contention It has come increasing differentiation and changing expectations about knowledge creation and application This has expanded the role of the academy and challenged the coherence and viability of the traditional
