Food Practices in Transition Gert Spaargaren, Peter Oosterveer, Anne Loeber, 2013-06-17 This edited volume presents and reflects upon empirical evidence of sustainability induced and related transition in food practices The material collected in the various chapters contributes to our understanding of the ways in which ideas and preferences sociotechnological developments and changes in the governance of food interact and become visible in practices of consumption retail and production Authority in the Global Political Economy V. Rittberger, M. Nettesheim, 2008-03-27 This volume analyzes changing patterns of authority in the global political economy with an in depth look at the new roles played by state and non state actors and addresses key themes including the provision of global public goods new modes of regulation and the potential of new institutions for global governance

The Oxford Handbook of Food, Politics, and Society Ronald J. Herring, 2014-12-31 Food has for most of our species history been intensely political who gets to eat what how often and through what means The scale of polity in question has shifted over time from very local institutions dividing up grain piles to an international community imagined in the Millennium Development Goals of the United Nations Simultaneously the numbers and interests of people asserting political stakes in food and agriculture have likewise shifted up and out Global networks advocate social justice in distal agrarian systems promotion of some farming techniques and prohibition of others food sovereignty or efficiencies of markets and trade Political consumerism allows the well endowed to vote with their dollars for changes in food systems far from home but depends on certification and labeling from unseen institutions As an object of governmentality food has never been so prominent The thirty five handbook chapters confront four major themes in the politics of food property technology justice and knowledge Ronald Herring s editorial introduction asks how food is political highlighting contention around the role of market state and information in societal decisions The first section of the handbook then examines technology science and knowledge in food production What is known and disputed about malnutrition poverty and food security The second section addresses ethics rights and distributive justice agrarian reform gender inequality entitlements and subsidies and the social vision of the alternative food movement The third section looks to intersections of agriculture and nature wild foods livestock agro ecological approaches to sustainability and climate change and genetic engineering The fourth section addresses food values and culture political consumerism labeling and certification the science and cultural politics of food safety values driving regulation of genetically modified foods and potential coexistence of GMOs and organic and conventional crops The fifth and final section looks at frontiers of global contentions rival transnational advocacy networks social movements for organic farming the who and why of international land grabbing junctures of cosmopolitan and local food narratives the supermarket revolution and the international agrifood industry in low income countries and politics of knowledge in agricultural futures

Coffee Activism and the Politics of Fair Trade and Ethical Consumption in the Global North Eleftheria J. Lekakis, 2013-08-22 This book explores the politics borne of consumption through the case of coffee activism and ethical consumption It analyses the agencies structures repertoires and technologies of promotion and participation in the politics of fair trade consumption through an exploration of the relationship between activism and consumption

Generating Social Capital M. Hooghe, D. Stolle, 2003-05-15 Social capital networks of civic engagements norms of reciprocity and attitudes of trust is widely seen as playing a key role for the health of democracy While many authors have examined the consequences of social capital there is a pressing need to explore its sources This collection brings together leading American and European scholars in the first comparative analysis of how social trust and other civic attitudes are generated The contributors to this volume examine the generation of social capital from two directions society based approaches that emphasize voluntary associations and institutional approaches that emphasize policy

Varieties of Political Consumerism Carolin V. Zorell, 2018-10-02 This book provides an analysis of the politics of consumption and how the educated consumer plays a vital role in advancing responsible market practices and consumption Based on a comprehensive interdisciplinary perspective it explores the extent drives and links of boycotting buycotting labelling schemes and Corporate Social Responsibility CSR in 20 European countries A central question addressed is whether macro societal patterns of orientation concerning the roles of the state companies and citizens can explain individual and cross national differences in boycotting and buycotting As the book shows there is not one type of political consumer but several and their occurrence is directly connected to national variations of labelling schemes and Corporate Social Responsibility Consumers need reference points and information on the political backgrounds of purchases and policy makers must address that need through political measures which fit to the national patterns in views about cooperation and market relationships

Ethics and Morality in Consumption Deirdre Shaw, Michal Carrington, Andreas Chatzidakis, 2016-04-14 Ethical consumerism is on the rise No longer bound to the counter cultural fringes ethical concerns and practices are reaching into the mainstream of society and being adopted by everyday consumers from considering carbon miles to purchasing free range eggs to making renewable energy choices The wide reach and magnitude of ethical issues in society across individual and collective consumption has given rise to a series of important questions that are inspiring scholars from a range of disciplinary areas. These differing disciplinary lenses however tend to be contained in separate streams of research literature that are developing in parallel and in relative isolation. Ethics in Morality and Consumption takes an interdisciplinary perspective to provide multiple vantage points in creating a more holistic and integrated view of ethics in consumption. In this sense interdisciplinary presupposes the consideration of multiple and distinct disciplines which in this book are considered in delineated chapters. In addition the Editors make an editorial contribution in the final chapter of the book by combining these separate disciplinary perspectives to develop a nascent interdisciplinary perspective that integrates these perspectives and presents platforms for further research.

Trust in Food U. Kjaernes, M. Harvey, A. Warde, 2007-01-30 The BSE epidemic, GM foods, avian flu, the growth of supermarkets and the crisis in obesity have shaken consumer trust in food. Uncovering surprising differences between countries, Trust in Food examines this and challenges the idea of the consumer as a sovereign individual demonstrating how consumption is institutionalized within society.

Culture, Catastrophe, and Rhetoric Robert Hariman, Ralph Cintron, 2015-10-01 This volume explores political culture especially the catastrophic elements of the global social order emerging in the twenty first century. By emphasizing the texture of political action the book theorizes how social context becomes evident on the surface of events and analyzes the performative dimensions of political experience. The attention to catastrophe allows for an understanding of how ordinary people contend with normal system operation once it is indistinguishable from system breakdown. Through an array of case studies the book provides an account of change as it is experienced, negotiated and resisted in specific settings that define a society's capacity for political action.

The Moralization of the Markets Nico Stehr, Christoph Henning, Bernd Weiler, 2009-10-01 Nothing affects the modern economy and society more than decisions made in the marketplace especially but not only decisions made by consumers. Although it is not startling to suggest that decisions made in production are affected by choices consumers make, consumers have long been viewed not only by academic economists as individual isolated rational actors that make or refrain from purchases purely on the basis of narrow financial considerations. Markets are not and never were morally neutral. Market relations have always had an often taken for granted moral underpinning. The moralization of the markets refers to the dissolution and replacement of the conventional moral underpinnings of market conduct for example in the music market, financial markets and corporate governance. It further implies not only the heightened importance of new ethical precepts but the significant change in the role of moral ideals in market behavior. These profound transformations of economic conduct are accompanied and co-determined by societal conflicts. The moralization of markets represents thus a new stage in the social evolution of markets. The book is divided into four parts in which the twelve chapters written by contributors from different social science disciplines deal with the context of the moralization of the markets, the major social institutions and present case studies that examine European and American attitudes and behavior towards tobacco and GMO expansion of the private and ethics in business and how workers respond to the new corporate norms This new paperback edition will be of interest to sociologists economists social scientists and the general consumer alike Rethinking Consumer Behaviour for the Well-being of All Council of Europe,2008-01-01 This guide invites the reader to think about consumption as one factor in the difficult task of building cohesive sustainable societies based on the principle of universal well being The Council of Europe hopes that this reassessment will prompt people to question their choices as consumers taking account of human rights decent working conditions the sustainable use of resources and our legacy to future generations Surely consumption should be a responsible socially committed act An eclectic mix of academic articles examples and illustrations makes this guide an unusual informative work which can be readily used as the basis for discussions on this pressing social issue This book inspired by a contribution from the European Inter Network of Ethical and Solidarity Based Initiatives IRIS is intended as a prototype readers are free to adapt its contents to their own circumstances to add relevant examples and to bring the ideas presented to life Promoting Solidarity in the European Union Malcolm G. Ross,Yuri Borgmann-Prebil,2010 The EU claims that solidarity is a fundamental value underlying the European social model yet often stands accused of undermining solidarity by advancing market freedoms This book provides the first extended study of the idea of solidarity in the EU context from interdisciplinary perspectives analyzing its impact on law and policy Political Virtue and Shopping M. Micheletti,2003-09-05 Political consumerism is turning the market into a site for politics and ethics It is consumer choice of producers and products on the basis of attitudes and values of personal and family well being as well as ethical or political assessment of business and government practice In the face of economic globalization and a regulatory vacuum consumers increasingly take responsibility in their own hands making the market an important venue for political action through their decisions of what to purchase This book opens the readers eyes to a new way of viewing everyday consumer choices and the role of the market in our lives illuminating the broader theoretical and historical context of concerns about sweatshops responsible coffee and ethical and free trade Contemporary forms of political consumerism boycotts labelling schemes stewardship certification socially responsible investing etc are described and evaluated Individual actions are shown to be important in the complexity of globalization The Politics of Economic Life Martin Beckstein,2015-09-07 In recent years economic life has become increasingly politicized now every company has a philosophy promising its customers some ethical surplus in return for buying their products consumers shop for change workers engage in individualized forms of employee activism such as whistleblowing and governments contribute to the re configuration of the economic sphere as a site of political contestation by reminding corporate and private economic actors of their duty to do their bit The Politics of Economic Life addresses this trend by exploring the ways in which practices of consumption work production and entrepreneurship are imbued with political strategy and ideology and assesses the potentials and perils of the politicization of economic activity for democracy in the 21st century Ethics in Consumer

Choice Nina Langen,2012-12-20 This dissertation elaborates differences and similarities of forms of ethical behaviour in general and analyses whether German consumers differentiate between different types of ethical behaviour in particular The thesis is characterised by its intensive combination of theoretical and empirical research It furthermore contributes to the literature as the method triangulation applied in the different surveys reveals previously unknown relationships between different kinds of ethical behaviour such as ethical consumption and charitable giving as well as between different forms of ethical products Choice experiment latent class analysis information display matrix and item based attitude assessment allowed the comparison of stated and revealed preferences as well as an analysis of the relevance of ethical product features within the context of different product and process attributes The dissertation provides insights into a research field which is becoming more and more relevant and improves the understanding of consumers assessment and the interdependencies of the possibilities of ethical behaviour This allows the development of recommendations for consumer policy makers business and NGOs concerned with the ethics of consumer choice as well as future research on ethical behaviour in general and ethical consumption in particular Political Communication in Postmodern Democracy K. Brants,K. Voltmer,2011-01-05 This edited collection examines the changing faces of political communication in contemporary democracy Based on comparative investigations of recent trends in the Netherlands and Great Britain the essays provide fresh insights and new empirical evidence into the public representation of media centred politics
