Politics Of Education In The Local Commu:

The Politics of Education in the Local Community Robert S. Cahill, Stephen P. Hencley, 1964 The book is the outcome of a seminar which took place at the University of Oregon in August 1963 and which involved representatives from the fields of political science sociology and educational administration Among the articles are one averring that educational systems have important unique aspects and one proposing that the over all community power structure is of little consequence for educational decision making along with calls for analysis of the local government The final chapter is a multi faceted discussion of the place of action research in a changing social system and makes a plea for joint interdisciplinary research by educators and social scientists

The Politics Of Linking Schools And Social Services Louise Adler, Sid Gardner, 2002-11-01 From the time the reform movement began in the progressive era with concerns about public health and universal access to education arguments have been raised for and against linking schools and social services and the merits or otherwise of each system A new argument for the collaboration is that integration will lead to substantially better services than those provided by separate organizations This volume brings together a wide array of cross national research and public policy issues to focus on a new framework of service provision It looks at the different networks of organizations of which schools and social services have been a part and at the political implications or results of bringing together the professionals from such organizations It takes into account the constraints resulting from the larger institutional network experience by such organizations The book also presents a range of perspectives on the way preparation is followed by four responses that present somewhat varying points of view The contributors come from a wide range of experiences including specialists in politics of education law urban studies children s issues and those providing reflections on practical experience

Equal Opportunity and the Politics of Education in Milwaukee Frederic Clayton Vorlop, 1970 A Political Education Elizabeth Todd-Breland, 2018-10-03 In 2012 Chicago s school year began with the city s first teachers strike in a quarter century and ended with the largest mass closure of public schools in U S history On one side a union leader and veteran black woman educator drew upon organizing strategies from black and Latinx communities to demand increased school resources On the other side the mayor backed by the Obama administration argued that only corporate style education reform could set the struggling school system aright The stark differences in positions resonated nationally challenging the long standing alliance between teachers unions and the Democratic Party Elizabeth Todd Breland recovers the hidden history underlying this battle She tells the story of black education reformers community based strategies to improve education beginning during the 1960s as support for desegregation transformed into community control experimental schooling models that pre dated charter schools and black teachers challenges to a newly assertive teachers union This book reveals how these strategies collided with the burgeoning neoliberal educational apparatus during the late twentieth century laying bare ruptures and enduring tensions between the politics of black achievement urban inequality and U S democracy

as a Political Tool in Asia Marie Lall, Edward Vickers, 2010-06-30 This book offers a fresh and comparative approach in questioning what education is being used for and what the effects of the politicisation of education are on Asian societies in the era of globalisation Education has been used as a political tool throughout the ages and across the whole world to define national identity and underlie the political rationale of regimes In the contemporary globalising world there are particularly interesting examples of this throughout Asia ranging from the new definition of Indian national identity as a Hindu identity to contrast with Pakistan's Islamic identity to particular versions of nationalism in China Japan Singapore and Vietnam In Asia education systems have their origins in processes of state formation aimed either at bolstering self strengthening resistance to the encroachments of Western and or Asian imperialism or at furthering projects of post colonial nation building State elites have sought to popularise powerful visions of nationhood to equip these visions with a historical back story and to endow them with the maximum sentimental charge This book explores all of these developments emphasising that education is seen by nations across Asia as elsewhere as more than simply a tool for economic development and that issues of national identity and the tolerance or lack of it of ethnic cultural or religious diversity can be at least as important as issues of literacy and access Interdisciplinary and unique in its analysis this book will be of interest to scholars of political science research in education and Asian Studies The Politics of Education in the Local Community. Edited by R.S. Cahill and S.P. Hencley

Robert S. CAHILL (and HENCLEY (Stephen P.)), Stephen P. HENCLEY, 1964 Politics, Education and Citizenship Mal Leicester, Sohan Modgil, 2005-08-10 Volume VI is concerned with political education and citizenship Papers from several countries lend an international perspective to currently significant concerns and developments including democracy and democratic education human rights national identity and education for citizenship Who's Afraid of Political

Education? Henry Tam, 2024-12-10 Democracy should enable citizens to play an informed role in determining how power is exercised for their common wellbeing but this only works if people have the understanding skills and confidence to engage effectively in public affairs Otherwise any voting system can be subverted to serve the interests of propagandists and demagogues This book brings together leading experts on learning for democracy to explore why and how the gap in civic competence should be bridged Drawing on research findings and case examples from the UK the US and elsewhere it will set out why change is necessary what could be taught differently to ensure effective political engagement and how a lasting impact in improving citizens learning for democratic participation can be made Research for Social Justice Elly

Malihah, Tutin Aryanti, Vina Adriany, Hani Yulindrasari, Alicia Izharuddin, 2019-10-24 Individuals are equipped with a wide range of knowledge that enhances their employability health family life and social engagement On this basis providing equality for all has been set to be achieved as one of the United Nations sustainable development priorities However the international understandings are not only of what equality and inclusivity entail but also the social vision to achieve social justice Best practices provide a meaningful cross national discussion with respect to the following topics power relations within research social inequalities in society science research for social justice the redefinition of the notion of social justice education for social justice spatial justice the research of gender and marginalized groups the re conceptualization of the epistemological foundation of research hegemonic discourses on research science technology for social justice and welfare as well as culture and social justice This edited book aims to provide a new perspective for other benefits of research because generally the research carried out only aims to answer scientific problems and often override aspects of humanities In response to these concerns the book attempts to re map the main objectives of the research The authors in this book offer new perspectives especially in formulating the purposes of the studies they will perform Therefore this book presents a unique review of research with a variety of approaches that are coherent with the state of society in the world followed by eleven scopes of various cases from a variety of perspectives that highlight theoretical and methodological questions about research and social justice This book presents outstanding applications through multiple types of approaches that are relevant to the current context of world community issues The articles in this book will be of interest to undergraduate and graduate students as well as researchers who are interested in the social field especially research for social justice     The Citizenship Education Program and Black Women's Political Culture Deanna M. Esquith, 2025-06-14 Everyday peacebuilding through democratic political education is a necessary but not sufficient condition for limiting negative political emotions such as anger fear and resentment and for cultivating the political virtues needed for an alternative more democratic orientation towards power one that values and exercises power with other members of emergent political communities not power over them These democratic political virtues include self restraint resistance humility respect for the civic dignity of others non violent protest and the radical poise needed to cultivate and coordinate this constellation of political virtues For those who have been forcibly displaced or are only dimly aware of their complicity in this type of political violence to maintain a radically poised stance is a continuing process of democratic political education This book demonstrates how this notion of Radical Poise in theory and practice can be developed through a hybrid process of political education in one country Mali to contest the growth of violence and fear there and elsewhere     Political Education Robert Brownhill, Patricia Smart, 2025-06-02 A debate has been in existence as to whether political education or indeed political argument of any kind should be kept out of the classroom There are those who argue that political education is synonymous with indoctrination and others who suggest that education is by its nature political For those who agree that there should be a distinct political aspect of the curriculum which instils political knowledge and awareness there is of course the question of where the emphasis should be placed How is it possible to achieve any kind of balance First published in 1989 Political Education analyses the debate about the introduction of courses in political education to secondary tertiary and adult education as well as to youth work It also examines the introduction of an element of political education to specific subjects It puts forward an argument for political education and discusses what it should consist of and how it should be undertaken This book will be of interest to students and researchers of education     Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Government Operations United States.
