Politics and Old Age: Older Citizens and Political Processes in Britain John A. Vincent, Guy Patterson, Karen Wale, 2024-11-01 This title was first published in 2001 Older people have been characterized by two mutually contradictory stereotypes One the one hand they have been portrayed as a powerful lobby growing demographically and able to demand large redistributions of the nation's income in their direction On the other hand they have been typified as a marginalized group at high risk of poverty and exclusion and in a political context largely powerless This book examines using original research conducted by the Older People and Politics Project OPPOL within Exeter University's Sociology Department the reality of the impact of the increasing number of older people on the British political process The project had three main investigative concerns how effective are pressure groups and lobbyists for older people how is the power and influence of older people perceived by older people themselves and the general public and how are politicians responding to older people and their needs

Politics, Power and Old Age John A. Vincent, 1999 This volume introduces ideas dilemmas and controversies about the way that lives of elderly people are shaped by patterns of power It is about politics in the broadest sense and about old age as a contested part of contemporary social life The author applies ideas about power and ageism in specific areas such as lifestyles personal identity appearance and intergenerational conflicts as well as pensioners movements party politics and elections He includes original research on the social construction and negotiation of identity in old age and brings together material from a range of British American and European studies of relevance to the theme of politics and old age Throughout he explores global and historical trends in ageing but relates these to personal dilemmas and interpersonal relationships The book is interdisciplinary and its challenging ideas will appeal to a broad range of students academics and professionals with a common interest in ageing and the care and well being of the elderly

Politics, Power, and Bureaucracy in France Ezra N. Suleiman, 2015-03-08 The interaction between politics and administration has generally been ignored by students of bureaucracy Ezra N Suleiman however views the French bureaucracy as a dynamic and integral part of the French political system Using survey data as well as historical and contemporary sources he concentrates on the highest officials and examines their relationships with both the political sector and the society After identifying the place of the state in French society the author deals with the recruitment of higher civil servants using comparative data to explain why the high social origins of French civil servants have remained constant His investigation of the important institutional mechanisms of the central administration stresses that even a centralized and powerful bureaucracy must be seen as a complex of institutions rather than as a monolithic organization Finally the author deals with the relations of the higher civil servants with other groups in society and with the regime of the Fifth Republic Originally published in 1974 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while development      Power, Politics And Crime William J Chambliss, 2018-05-15 In the United States today we are on the verge of fulfilling a nightmare scenario Parents are fearful of letting their children play in their own yards and elderly people are afraid to leave their homes The bogeyman in this rampant panic about crime is the young black male who in the media and public image is a superpredator lurking on every street corner ready to attack any prey that is vulnerable But is crime in America really as bad as the public has been made to believe Power Politics and Crime argues that the current panic over crime has been manufactured by the media law enforcement bureaucracies and the private prison industry It shows how the definition of criminal behavior systematically singles out the inner city African American But urban minorities aren't the only victims Although crime rates have been declining for 25 years vast amounts of money pour into the criminal justice industrial complex diverting scarce resources from other social services such as education social welfare and health care While in recent years downsizing has affected almost every segment of the public sector the criminal justice bureaucracies have seen an unprecedented expansion Through ethnographic observations analysis of census data and historical research William Chambliss describes what is happening why it has come about and what can be done about it He explores the genesis of crime as a political issue and the effect that crime policies have had on different segments of the population The book is more than a statement about the politics of crime and punishment it's a powerful indictment of contemporary law enforcement practices in the United States In addition to updating the data the author has added a discussion of the declining crime rate Contrary to presentations in the media and by law enforcement agencies the rate has been declining for over 25 years and therefore cannot be attributed to any get tough on crime policies so dear to the hearts of prosecutors and politicians Chapter Seven Crime Myths and Smokescreens has been completely revised and updated Updates include a discussion of the recent scandal in the Los Angeles Police Department which has resulted in criminal charges against police officers and the release of numerous convicted felons because of falsified evidence and testimony on the part of police officers The attack on Louima in the police station in New York as well as the shooting of Diallo are discussed in some detail as well as other recent exposures of police brutality and corruption The sections on white collar corporate and state crimes have been updated and recent examples added to the text      Old Age, New Science Hyung Wook Park, 2016-03-09 Between 1870 and 1940 life expectancy in the United States skyrocketed while the percentage of senior citizens age sixty five and older more than doubled a phenomenon owed largely to innovations in medicine and public health At the same time the Great Depression was a major tipping point for age discrimination and poverty in the West seniors were living longer and retiring earlier but without adequate means to support themselves and their families The economic disaster of the 1930s alerted scientists who were actively researching the processes of aging to the profound social implications of their work and by the end of the 1950s the field of gerontology emerged Old Age New Science explores how a group of American and British life scientists contributed to gerontology's development as a multidisciplinary field It examines the foundational biosocial visions they shared a byproduct of both their research and the social problems they encountered Hyung Wook Park shows how these visions shaped popular discourses on aging directly influenced the institutionalization of gerontology and also reflected the class gender and race biases of their founders

Emeritus Director Centre for Southern African Studies York University He writes with deep knowledge commendable compassion and often remarkable analytical insight This analysis of a complex political situation in Malawi since the defeat of Dr Banda deserves to be considered very carefully by anyone who has the future of Africa especially central Africa at questions at heart Professor George Shepperson Politics Is for Power Eitan Hersh, 2020-01-14 A brilliant condemnation of political hobbyism treating politics like entertainment and a call to arms for well meaning well informed citizens who consume political news but do not take political action Who is to blame for our broken politics The uncomfortable answer to this question starts with ordinary citizens with good intentions We vote sometimes and occasionally sign a petition or attend a rally But we mainly engage by consuming politics as if it s a sport or a hobby We soak in daily political gossip and eat up statistics about who s up and who s down We tweet and post and share We crave outrage The hours we spend on politics are used mainly as pastime Instead we should be spending the same number of hours building political organizations implementing a long term vision for our city or town and getting to know our neighbors whose votes will be needed for solving hard problems We could be accumulating power so that when there are opportunities to make a difference to lobby to advocate to mobilize we will be ready But most of us who are spending time on politics today are focused inward choosing roles and activities designed for our short term pleasure We are repelled by the slow and steady activities that characterize service to the common good In Politics Is for Power pioneering and brilliant data analyst Eitan Hersh shows us a way toward more effective political participation Aided by political theory history cutting edge social science as well as remarkable stories of ordinary citizens who got off their couches and took political power seriously this book shows us how to channel our energy away from political hobbyism and toward empowering our values Comparative Politics Daniele Caramani, 2017 With an unparalleled amount of empirical material this is the most comprehensive introduction to comparative politics written by the leading experts in the field
