1960s-1990s Otis L. Graham,2010-11-01 This volume of original essays tells the story of how the agenda of the environmental movement in America has changed from the time Rachel Carson sounded her famous clarion call in the early 1960s up to our current era when the globalization of environmental issues has affected both the severity of the problems we all face and the political difficulty of dealing with them Besides the editor whose Introduction and Epilogue frame the book the contributors include well known journalist Roy Beck activist civil servant Leon Kolankiewicz environmental scholar Michael E Kraft historian Martin V Melosi and political scientist David Vogel This volume was originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Policy History Environmental Health Perspectives ,1993 Northeast and Midwest United States John T. Cumbler,2005-04-19 An engaging personalized look at the interplay between people and nature in the northeastern and midwestern United States from prehistory to the present The Northeast and Midwest regions of the United States provide a fascinating case study for the emergent field of environmental history These regions with their varied resources were central to the early economic success of the nation Consequently the early industries in these regions altered and depleted the landscape as people changed their locations and occupations Fishing and whaling on the northeastern coast have given way to tourism and sailing The great stands of timber around the Great Lakes have been replaced by farms and dairies The textile mills powered by the falls of the Piedmont and once yielding wealth now stand empty That humans shape their environment and in turn must respond to the consequences is broadly obvious Using the voices of historical figures both notable and obscure this book brings to life the interaction between humans and their environments and illustrates the consequences of those interactions Part of ABC CLIO s unique Nature and Human Societies series this book enables readers to better understand humanity s effect on the environment Toxic Skies: Unmasking Environmental Justice in Air Pollution Maritza Johnson,2025-03-20 In this thought provoking book we delve into the concept of environmental justice and its link to the pervasive issue of air pollution By exploring the intricate relationship between the two we aim to shed light on the impact that air pollution has on different communities and the inequities that arise as a result Through powerful anecdotes and in depth analysis we examine the complex factors that contribute to environmental injustices and the detrimental consequences they have on human health and well being With a keen focus on the social economic and political aspects this book offers a comprehensive view of how environmental justice can serve as a catalyst for change Our aim is to raise awareness provoke dialogue and inspire action towards a more just and sustainable world Environmental Justice Kristin Shrader-Frechette,2002-09-26 Shrader Frechette offers a rigorous philosophical discussion of environmental justice Explaining fundamental ethical concepts such as equality property rights procedural justice free informed consent intergenerational equity and just compensation and then bringing them to bear on real world social issues she shows how many of these core concepts have been compromised for a large segment of the global population including Appalachians African Americans workers in hazardous jobs and indigenous people in developing nations She argues that burdens like pollution and resource depletion need to be apportioned more equally and that there are compelling ethical grounds for remedying our environmental problems She also argues that those affected by environmental problems must be included in the process of remedying those problems that all citizens have a duty to engage in activism on behalf of environmental justice and that in a democracy it is the people not the government that are ultimately responsible for fair use of the environment Environmental and Pollution Science Mark L.
