Poona Akhbars Volume 1:

War, Culture and Society in Early Modern South Asia, 1740-1849 Kaushik Roy, 2011-03-30 This book examines military success of the British in South Asia during the eighteenth and first half of the nineteenth centuries Placing South Asian military history in global comparative context it examines military innovations armies and how they conducted themselves navies and naval warfare major Indian military powers and the British explaining why they succeeded Lineages of Brahman Power Rosalind O'Hanlon, 2025-07-01 Traces the role that western India's influential Brahman communities played in shaping India's modern caste system Western India's Brahman communities have played a key role in the shaping of India's modern caste system In Lineages of Brahman Power Rosalind O'Hanlon focuses on their rise to power between the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries exploring the ways in which some Brahman intellectuals sought to defend the hierarchies of caste against the social changes of the early modern era while others looked for compromise Drawing on Marathi vernacular sources O'Hanlon also examines the household family and lineage as key sites for Brahman accumulation of skills and cultural capital This approach also reveals Brahman identity itself as contested as Brahman subcastes competed with each other not only for service positions and state patronage but also to define who could actually be considered a Brahman and of what kind This focus on Brahman social history is novel in that most historians focus on Brahman power as emerging out of their religious prestige and dominance of intellectual and literary cultures The emphasis on Brahman identity itself as complex and internally contested also helps to avoid essentializing Brahman power as always and everywhere the same The Oxford Companion to Modern Warfare in India Kaushik Roy, 2009 This volume studies the origin characteristics and evolution of modern warfare in the Indian subcontinent Using a cross cultural comparative analysis it puts India's military experience in a global perspective to assess the uniqueness of the emergence of modern warfare in India Proceedings of the ... Proceedings of Meetings Indian Historical Records Commission, 1943 Colonial masculinity Mrinalini Sinha, 2017-03-01 This book is about the processes and practices through which two differently positioned elites among the colonisers and the colonised were constituted respectively as the manly Englishman and the effeminate Bengali. It argues that the emerging dynamics between colonial and nationalist politics in the 1880s and 1890s in India is best captured in the logic of colonial masculinity. The figures of the manly Englishman and the effeminate Bengali were thus constituted in relation to colonial Indian society as well as to some aspects of late nineteenth century British society. These aspects of late nineteenth century British society are the emergence of the New Woman, the remaking of the working class, the legacy of internal colonialism and the anti feminist backlash of the 1880s and 1890s. A sustained focus on the imperial constitution of colonial masculinity therefore serves also to refine the standard historical scholarship on nineteenth century British masculinity. The book traces the impact of colonial masculinity in four specific controversies: the white mutiny against the Ilbert Bill in 1883, the official government response to the Native Volunteer movement in 1885, the recommendations of the Public Service Commission of 1886 and the Indian opposition to the Age of Consent Bill in 1891. In this book the author situates the analysis very specifically in the context of an imperial social formation. In doing so the author examines colonial masculinity not only in the context of social forces within India but also as framed by and framing political, economic and ideological shifts in Britain. The European Press and News in the Mediterranean and India, c. 1650-1800 Cornel Zwierlein, 2025-09-28 This book reconstructs the first attempts to integrate Europe and Asia in terms of newspaper distribution, reception and news coverage during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The East India Companies shared news via the overland route from Aleppo through Persia to India by using professional runners, riders and postal relay systems. This book reminds us of the special character of the European handwritten and printed newspapers in Italy, Germany, France and England as a precondition for what merchants in India and the Levant were likely to miss abroad. Comparative sections address such newspapers' relationship with the Moghul newsletter system and whether the European Enlightenment was meeting a global Indian Renaissance in terms of news circulation. The conclusion compares these Euro-Indian realities with similar handwritten news circulation and printed press in China and in the Americas. Contemporary India, 2004
