Expanding Religion Miklós Tomka, 2011-01-27 Reiterated international comparative surveys offer evidences about developments of religion related scene in Central and Eastern Europe The present volume is the first one which presents an extensive and detailed cross national analysis of sociological data comparing extensively countries regions and denominations in the past two decades It displays achievements and shortages of a religious revival in the post communist region as well as religion s role in family life social responsibility and public commitment It proves the combination of de Christianization based on previous persecution of religion and an ongoing modernization and the rise and the transformation of religion In some countries popular religiosity of traditional social strata is dominant In other countries there is a visible transition from old and low strata religiosity to a more restricted but socially more influential religiosity of young middle and upper strata groups In final outcome the volume substantiates the growing public role of religion in Eastern and Central Europe as well as the distinct impact of religiosity on individual behaviour These results contradict the idea of an overwhelming secularization but argue for a more complex process overcoming the communist past Discretion and Valour Trevor Beeson, 1974 Christianity and Modernity in Eastern Europe Bruce R. Berglund, Brian Porter-Szűcs, 2013-02-10 Religious history more generally has experienced an exciting revival over the past few years with new methodological and theoretical approaches invigorating the field The time has definitely come for this new religious history to arrive in Eastern Europe This book explores the influence of the Christian churches in Eastern Europe s social cultural and political history Drawing upon archival sources the work fills a vacuum as few scholars have systematically explored the history of Christianity in the region The result of a three year project this collective work challenges readers with questions like Is secularization a useful concept in understanding the long term dynamics of religiosity in Eastern Europe Is the picture of oppression and resistance an accurate way to characterize religious life under communism or did Christians and communists find ways to co exist on the local level prior to 1989 And what role did Christians actually play in dissident movements under communism Perhaps most important is the question what does the study of Eastern Europe contribute to the broader study of modern Christian history and what can we learn from the interpretative problems that arise uniquely from this region Religion and the Conceptual Boundary in Central and Eastern Europe T.

Bremer, 2015-12-11 This volume concentrates on the conceptual boundary through Europe which is determined by Western and Eastern Christianity The chapters show that the boundary has never been a stable and defined division but that it was also subject to change and development and a place of encounter and exchange between religions and cultures Focus on Religion in Central and Eastern Europe András Máté-Tóth, Gergely Rosta, 2016-11-07 Different religious groups in Central and Eastern Europe influenced societies in the region after the fall of Communism and continue to play a crucial role in culture politics social networks and value transformations As part of the REVACERN Religion and Values in Central and

Church, State, and Democracy in Expanding Europe Lavinia Stan, Lucian Turcescu, 2011-08-29 Lavinia Stan and Lucian Turcescu examine the relationship between religion and politics in ten former communist Eastern European countries Contrary to widespread theories of increasing secularization Stan and Turcescu argue that in most of these countries the populations have shown themselves to remain religious even as they embrace modernization and democratization Church state relations in the new EU member states can be seen in political representation for church leaders governmental subsidies registration of religions by the state and religious instruction in public schools Stan and Turcescu outline three major models the Czech church state separation model in which religion is private and the government secular the pluralist model of Hungary Bulgaria and Latvia which views society as a group of complementary but autonomous spheres for example education the family and religion each of which is worthy of recognition and support from the state and the dominant religion model that exists in Poland Romania Estonia and Lithuania in which the government maintains informal ties to the religious majority Church State and Democracy in Expanding Europe offers critical tools for understanding church state relations in an increasingly modern and democratic Eastern Europe

E. Gorman, 1987-06-16 This annotated bibliography covers the available literature on the relationship between Soviet and Eastern European churches and the societies in which they have existed since the end of World War II In order to shed some light on the mutual relations between the churches and society two survey chapters provide a general orientation The attitude of the churches toward their society is analyzed first then the reverse is attempted with a description of the societal attitudes toward the churches The bibliography proper first presents books and articles dealing with the entire region the on a country by country basis Because the sources dealing with the Soviet Union are most numerous they have been broken down into materials dealing with general and inclusive religious policies and issues the Russian Orthodox Church the Oriental Apostolic Churches Georgian and Armenian the Roman Catholic Church and the Protestants and sectarians This bibliography is among the first to deal with the historic and current status of the Christian churches in Eastern Europe Religion as Securitization in Central and Eastern Europe András Máté-Tóth, Kinga Povedák, 2024-09-18 Religion as Securitization in Central and Eastern Europe examines the significance of securitization theory as a reference point in understanding current religious socio cultural and political processes in Central and Eastern Europe CEE It explores contemporary social processes and discourses on security linked to religion and religious institutions CEE has experienced many confluences of security issues with religious interpretations and world views For instance the international refugee and migration crisis could not be separated from the counterpoint between Christianity and Islam in political discussions Similarly the debates on LGBT family recognition and the traditional family model are inseparable from the Christian family as a reference point The security needs of the region are particularly acute trigger points which can be instrumentalized by political power In other words the threat sensitivities of collective identity make the region particularly well suited to being a focus of securitization both from the host side and from the discourses that are enforced from above In this volume the authors approach the validity of securitization in relation to religion and religion itself as securitization from a broader perspective They show not only what religious facts and aspects have become threatening in the process of securitization but also that the function of religion in the CEE region can be described and understood primarily as securitization This unique collection of studies offers a comprehensive theoretical and methodological approach while the case studies are drawn from more than seven countries in the region by leading scholars The book will be of interest to scholars from a wide range of disciplines including political science history anthropology and religious studies It will also function as an important introductory work for students to this specific area of research

Orthodox Religion and Politics in Contemporary Eastern Europe Tobias Koellner,2018-12-07 This book explores the relationship between Orthodox religion and politics in Eastern Europe Russia and Georgia It demonstrates how as these societies undergo substantial transformation Orthodox religion can be both a limiting and an enabling factor how the relationship between religion and politics is complex and how the spheres of religion and politics complement reinforce influence and sometimes contradict each other Considering a range of thematic issues with examples from a wide range of countries with significant Orthodox religious groups and setting the present situation in its full historical context the book provides a rich picture of a subject which has been too often oversimplified

Church and Religion in Contemporary Europe Gert Pickel,Olaf Müller,2009-09-15

Global Trends in Eastern Europe Nikolai Genov,2016-04-22 Eastern Europe was once clearly defined by the centralized political and economic organization of the societies in the region They shared the same official ideology and were members of the same alliances After 1989 the region collapsed in an economic political and cultural implosion What were the moving forces of this profound change What are its consequences Could we try to reasonably foresee any future developments In this thought provoking book Nikolai Genov presents a systematic description and explanation of Eastern European societal transformations after 1989 They are interpreted as adaptations to four global trends upgrading the rationality of organizations individualization spreading of instrumental activism and universalization of value normative systems Adaptations to these trends have generally been successful However Genov notes that the process is marked by many failures as well They are mostly caused by path dependency in the societal development and by the varying quality of relevant decisions other destructive developments are due to contradictions in the global trends themselves Guided by the assumption that the societal and supranational integration mechanisms in Eastern Europe before 1989 could not resist the overwhelming power of global trends Genov s controversial findings question visions about the end of history and simultaneously strengthen the confidence that most complex macro social processes can be rationally managed A timely book allowing for a much needed engagement in contemporary debates on the controversial processes in Eastern European transitions
