offer unique insights into questions of existence      Scientism: Science, Ethics and Religion Mikael Stenmark, 2020-10-28

This title was first published in 2011. The intellectual and practical successes of science have led some scientists to think that there are no real limits to the competence of science and no limits to what can be achieved in the name of science. This view and similar views have been called Scientism. In this book, scientists' views about science and its relationship to knowledge, ethics, and religion are subjected to critical scrutiny. A number of natural scientists have advocated Scientism in one form or another. Francis Crick, Richard Dawkins, Carl Sagan, and Edward O. Wilson and their impact inside and outside the sciences is considered. Clarifying what Scientism is, this book proceeds to evaluate its key claims expounded in questions such as: Is it the case that science can tell us everything there is to know about reality? Can science tell us how we morally ought to live and what the meaning of life is? Can science in fact be our new religion? Ought we become science believers? The author addresses these and similar issues, concluding that Scientism is not really science but disguised materialism or naturalism; its advocates fail to see this, not being sufficiently aware that their arguments presuppose the previous acceptance of certain extra-scientific or philosophical beliefs.

Faith and Science in Russian Religious Thought Teresa Obolovitch, 2019

Faith and Science in Russian Religious Thought provides a comprehensive analysis of the relationship between science and faith in Russian religious thought. Teresa Obolovitch offers a synthetic approach on the development of the problem throughout the whole history of Russian thought, starting from the medieval period and arriving in contemporary times. She considers the relationship between science and religion in the eighteenth century, the so-called academic philosophy of the 19th and 20th centuries, the thought of Peter Chaadaev, the Slavophiles, and in the most influential literature figures such as Fedor Dostoevsky and Lev Tolstoy. The volume also analyses two channels of the formation of philosophy in the context of the relationship between theology and science in Russia. The first is connected with the attempt to rationalize the truths of faith and is exemplified by Vladimir Soloviev and Nikolai Lossky. The second, with the apophatic tradition, is presented by Pavel Florensky and Semen Frank. The book then describes the relation to scientific knowledge in the thought of Lev Shestov, Nikolai Berdyaev, Sergius Bulgakov, and Alexei Losev, as well as the original project of Russian Cosmism on the examples of Nikolai Fedorov, Konstantin Tsiolkovsky, and Vladimir Vernadsky. Obolovitch presents the current state of the discussion on this topic by paying attention to the Neoplatonic synthesis of Georges Florovsky and his followers and offers a brief comparative analysis of the relationship between science and religion from the Western and Russian perspectives.
