Written Corrective Feedback in Second Language Acquisition and Writing John Bitchener, Dana R. Ferris, 2012-03-15 What should language and writing teachers do about giving students written corrective feedback This book surveys theory research and practice on the important and sometimes controversial issue of written corrective feedback also known as error grammar correction and its impact on second language acquisition and second language writing development Offering state of the art treatment of a topic that is highly relevant to both researchers and practitioners it critically analyzes and synthesizes several parallel and complementary strands of research work on error feedback both oral and written in SLA and studies of the impact of error correction in writing composition courses and addresses practical applications Drawing from both second language acquisition and writing composition literature this volume is the first to intentionally connect these two separate but important lines of inquiry

Goals for Academic Writing Alister H. Cumming, 2006-01-01 This book documents the results of a multi year project that investigated the goals for writing improvement among 45 students and their instructors in intensive courses of English as a Second Language ESL then a year later in academic programs at two Canadian universities The researchers present a detailed framework to describe these goals from the perspectives of the students as well as their instructors The goals are analyzed for groups of students from particular backgrounds internationally for changes over time and in relation to the ESL and academic courses The authors use activity theory goal theory various sociolinguistic concepts and multiple data sources interviews observations stimulated recalls questionnaires and text analyses to provide a contextually grounded perspective on learning teaching writing second language development and curriculum policy The book will interest researchers educators and administrators of ESL university college and literacy programs around the world

Intercultural Language Use and Language Learning Eva Alcon Soler, Maria Pilar Safont Jorda, 2007-05-24 Eva Alc n Soler Maria Pilar Safont Jord Universitat Jaume I Spain The main purpose of the present book is to broaden the scope of research on the development of intercultural communicative competence Bearing this purpose in mind English learners are considered as intercultural speakers who share their interest for engaging in real life communication According to Byram and Fleming 1998 the intercultural speaker is someone with knowledge of one or more cultures and social identities and who enjoys discovering and maintaining relationships with people from other cultural backgrounds although s he has not been formally trained for that purpose Besides possessing knowledge of at least two cultures is the case of many learners in bilingual or multilingual communities In these contexts the objective of language learning should then focus on developing intercultural competence which in turn may involve promoting language diversity while encouraging English as both a means and an end of instruction see Alc n this volume This is the idea underlying the volume which further sustains Kramsch s argument 1998 against the native non native dichotomy Following that author we also believe that in a multilingual world where learners may belong to more than one speech community their main goal is not to become a native speaker of English but to use this language as a tool for interaction among many other languages and cultures

Aspects of Language Development in an Intensive English Program Alan Juffs, 2020-03-02 While there is much in the literature on ESL development this book is the first of its kind to track the development of specific language abilities in an Intensive English

Program IEP longitudinally and highlights the implications of this particular study's findings for future IEP implementation and practice and ESL and SLA research. The volume draws on many years worth of data from learners at an IEP at the University of Pittsburgh to explore selected aspects of language development including lexical grammatical speaking and writing abilities in addition to placement assessment practices and student learning outcomes. A concluding chapter points to the ways in which these findings can be applied to decision making around IEP curriculum development and the future role of IEPs in higher education more broadly. With its focus on students in IEP settings and the concentration on data from students evaluated over multiple semesters this volume offers a unique opportunity in which to examine longitudinal developmental patterns of different L1 groups on a variety of measures from the same learners and will be key reading for students and researchers in second language acquisition. Current Trends in the Development and Teaching of the four Language Skills Esther Usó-Juan, Alicia Martínez-Flor, 2008-08-22 Current Trends in the Development and Teaching of the four Language Skills builds connections from theory in the four language skills to instructional practices. It comprises twenty one chapters that are grouped in five sections. The first section includes an introductory chapter which presents a communicative competence framework developed by the editors in order to highlight the key role the four skills play in language learning and teaching. The next four sections each represent a language skill: Section II is devoted to listening, Section III to speaking, Section IV to reading, and Section V to writing. In order to provide an extensive treatment of each of the four skills, each section starts with a theoretical chapter which briefly illustrates advances in the understanding of how each skill is likely to be learned and taught, followed by four didactically oriented chapters authored by leading international specialists. These pedagogical chapters deal specifically with four key topics: 1) areas of research that influence the teaching of a particular skill, 2) an overview of strategies or techniques necessary for developing a particular skill, 3) an approach to the academic orientation of a particular skill, and 4) unique aspects of teaching each skill. Moreover, all chapters incorporate two common sections: pre-reading questions at the beginning of the chapter in order to stimulate readers' interest in its content, and a section entitled "suggested activities" at the end of the chapter in order to allow readers to put the ideas and concepts presented into practice. The accessible style and practical focus of the volume make it an ideal tool for teachers, teacher trainers, and teacher trainees who are involved in teaching the four language skills in a second or foreign language context.

Building a Community, Having a Home Jennifer Sano-Franchini, Terese Guinsatao Monberg, 2017-02-18. Documents how Asian American teacher scholars have emerged within and contributed to a number of areas in rhetoric and composition as well as the National Council of Teachers of English and the Conference on College Composition and Communication in diverse and substantial ways from the 1960s to contemporary times.

Understanding, Evaluating, and Conducting Second Language Writing Research Charlene Polio, Debra A. Friedman, 2016-11-18. Understanding, Evaluating, and Conducting Second Language Writing Research speaks to the rapidly growing area of second language writing by providing a uniquely balanced approach to L2 writing research. While other books favor either a qualitative or quantitative approach to second language acquisition (SLA) research, this text is comprehensive in scope and does not privilege one approach over the other, illuminating the strengths of each and the ways in which they might complement each other. It also provides equal weight to the cognitive and socio-cultural approaches to SLA. Containing an array of focal studies and suggestions for further reading, this text is the ideal resource for students beginning to conduct L2 writing research as well as for more experienced researchers who wish to expand their approach to conducting research.

Ethnographies of Academic Writing Research Ignacio Guillén-Galve, Ana Bocanegra-Valle, 2021-10-15. This book illustrates the use of ethnography as an analytical approach to investigate academic writing and provides critical insights into how academic writing research can benefit from the use of ethnographic methods. Throughout its six theoretical and practice-oriented studies, together with the introductory chapter, foreword, and afterword, ethnography-related concepts like thick description, deep theorizing, participatory research, research reflexivity, or ethics are discussed against the affordances of ethnography for the study of academic writing. The book is key reading for scholars, researchers, and instructors in the areas of applied linguistics.

academic writing academic literacies and genre studies It will also be useful to those lecturers and postgraduate students working in English for Academic Purposes and disciplinary writing The volume provides ethnographically oriented researchers with clear pointers about how to incorporate the telling of the inside story into their traditional main role as observers
