Revised and updated, the essays offer detailed regional studies of the different musical cultures of Africa and examine the ways in which music helps to define the identity of this particular area. Part One provides an in-depth introduction to Africa. Part Two focuses on issues and processes such as notation and oral tradition, dance in communal life, and intellectual property. The second edition has been expanded to include exciting new scholarship that has been conducted since the first edition was published. The Guide, 1984 Issues in Contemporary Journalism Education and Practice in Nigeria: Volume 1 Nosa Owens-Ibie, Eric Msughter Aondover, 2025-06-24 The twenty-first century is increasingly shaped by communications and media innovations. Societies and economies are now highly mediated and digitized like never before. There are phenomenal changes in the ways global citizens communicate and interact. The era is one in which the mass media industries are highly disrupted. With mediation, digitalization, and audience participation in the public sphere, old theories, concepts, curricula, and pedagogy of communication and media studies are increasingly put to the test. Within this context, there is a paradigm shift from Mass Communication as a discipline to Communication and Media Studies, along with other highly specialized yet interrelated disciplines taking into consideration the ongoing digital revolution harbingered by globalization and contemporary Information Communication Technologies (ICTs). This has created the need for new instructional and reading materials relevant for use by stakeholders in the tertiary educational system in Nigeria. Accordingly, Issues in Contemporary Journalism Education and Practice in Nigeria is a timely and most adequate response to address the felt needs of teachers and learners in universities and colleges globally.

The New Psychology of Leadership S. Alexander Haslam, Stephen D. Reicher, Michael J. Platow, 2010-09-13 Winner of the University of San Diego Outstanding Leadership Book Award 2012 Shortlisted for the British Psychological Society Book Award 2011 Shortlisted for the CMI Chartered Management Institute Management Book of the Year Award 2011 2012 According to John Adair the most important word in the leader's vocabulary is we and the least important word is I. But if this is true it raises one important question: why do psychological analyses of leadership always focus on the leader as an individual as the great I? One answer is that theorists and practitioners have never properly understood the psychology of we-ness. This book fills this gap by presenting a new psychology of leadership that is the result of two decades of research inspired by social identity and self-categorization theories. The book argues that to succeed, leaders need to create champion and embed a group identity in order to cultivate an understanding of us of which they themselves are representative. It also shows how by doing this they can make a material difference to the groups, organizations and societies that they lead. Written in an accessible and engaging style, the book examines a range of central theoretical and practical issues including the nature of group identity, the basis of authority and legitimacy, the dynamics of justice and fairness, the determinants of followership and charisma and the practice and politics of leadership. The book will appeal to academics, practitioners and students in social and organizational psychology, sociology, political science and anyone interested in leadership, influence and power.
