Lost Fields:

Structure of Typical American Oil Fields American Association of Petroleum Geologists, 1929 ePro Brian Tiplady, 2016-05-13 Patient self reported data has become increasingly important in today's clinical trials. Trials in some disease indications rely upon patient recorded diary data as the primary endpoint to demonstrate drug efficacy including for example indications such as insomnia, migraine and pain. In addition, improvements in quality of life measured using patient questionnaires can now be included as claims on drug labelling. Traditionally, these data have been collected using paper questionnaires and diaries issued to subjects. Regulators and the industry have become increasingly aware of the limitations of recording patient reported outcomes data on paper including data quality and integrity issues. As a result, there is a growing interest in collection of patient reported outcomes data using electronic means. ePRO Solutions include handheld PDAs, Interactive Voice Response (IVR) systems and other site based hardware such as touchscreen PCs. Recently, there has been much open debate with the regulators around the use of ePRO in clinical drug submissions. US and European agencies have approved new drugs that have included ePRO data in the submission dossier, but there are many questions around the adoption of the technology that concern the community. These include: How should instruments developed on paper be adapted for electronic use and what degree of validation should be done between paper and electronic forms? How can researchers ensure they are complying with regulatory requirements including the PRO guidance published by FDA in 2009 when using ePRO solutions? Can fewer patients be exposed in a clinical trial as a result of improved data quality obtained using electronic diaries? What type of solution should be used for certain patient populations and protocols and how can ePRO solutions be designed optimally to increase patient acceptability and compliance? Bill Byrom and Brian Tiplady's ePro addresses all these issues, reviews the new FDA guidance and provides a very contemporary view on this important subject.

Congressional Record United States. Congress, 1957 The Congressional Record is the official record of the proceedings and debates of the United States Congress. It is published daily when Congress is in session. The Congressional Record began publication in 1873. Debates for sessions prior to 1873 are recorded in The Debates and Proceedings in the Congress of the United States, 1789-1824, the Register of Debates in Congress, 1824-1837, and the Congressional Globe, 1833-1873. Writing Apache Modules with Perl and C Lincoln Stein, Doug MacEachern, 1999 Apache is the most popular web server on the Internet because it is free, reliable and extensible. The availability of the source code and the modular design of Apache makes it possible to extend web server functionality through the Apache API. For the most part, however, the Apache API has only been available to C programmers and requires rebuilding the Apache server from source. mod_perl, the popular Apache module used primarily for enhanced CGI performance, changed all that by making the Apache API available to Perl programmers. With mod_perl, it becomes simple to develop Apache modules with Perl and install them without having to rebuild the web server. Writing Apache Modules with Perl and C shows how to extend web server capabilities regardless of whether the programming language is Perl or C The book explains the design of Apache mod_perl and the Apache API It then demonstrates how to use them to perform for tasks like the following Rewriting CGI scripts as Apache modules to vastly improve performance Server side filtering of HTML documents to embed special markup or code much like SSI Enhancing server log functionality Converting file formats on the fly Implementing dynamic navigation bars Incorporating database access into CGI scripts Customizing access control and authorization to block robots or to use an external database for passwords The authors are Lincoln Stein and Doug MacEachern Lincoln is the successful author of How to Set Up and Maintain a World Wide web Site and the developer of the widely used Perl CGI pm module Doug is a consultant and the creator of the innovative mod_perl Apache module mysterious imagery This lyrical journey takes as its premise the emergence of the poetic image and finds an ideal metaphor in the intimate spaces of our homes Guiding us through a stream of meditations on poetry art and the blooming of consciousness itself Bachelard examines the domestic places that shape and hold our dreams and memories Houses and rooms cellars and attics drawers chests and wardrobes nests and shells nooks and corners No space is too vast or too small to be filled by our thoughts and our reveries In Bachelard's enchanting spaces We are never real historians but always near poets and our emotion is perhaps nothing but an expression of a poetry that was lost This new edition features a foreword by Mark Z Danielewski whose bestselling novel House of Leaves drew inspiration from Bachelard's writings and an introduction by internationally renowned philosopher Richard Kearney who explains the book's enduring importance and its role within Bachelard's remarkable career For more than sixty five years Penguin has been the leading publisher of classic literature in the English speaking world With more than 1 500 titles Penguin Classics represents a global bookshelf of the best works throughout history and across genres and disciplines Readers trust the series to provide authoritative texts enhanced by introductions and notes by distinguished scholars and contemporary authors as well as up to date translations by award winning translators

Country Women Cope with Hard Times Melissa A. Walker, 2012-10-15 Rare glimpses into the hardscrabble lives of rural Southern women and a model for oral history practice It was hard times French Carpenter Clark recalls a sentiment unanimously echoed by the sixteen other women who talk about their lives in Country Women Cope with Hard Times Born between 1890 and 1940 in eastern Tennessee and western South Carolina these women grew up on farms in labor camps and in remote towns during an era when the region's agricultural system changed dramatically As daughters and wives they milked cows raised livestock planted and harvested crops worked in textile mills sold butter and eggs preserved food made cloth sewed clothes and practiced remarkable resourcefulness Their recollections paint a vivid picture of rural life in the first half of the twentieth century for a class of women underrepresented in historical accounts Through her edited interviews with these women Melissa Walker provides firsthand descriptions of the influence of modernization on ordinary people struggling through the agricultural depression of the 1920s and 1930s and its aftermath Their oral histories make plain the challenges such women faced and the self sacrificing ways they found to confront hardship While the women detail the difficulties of their existence the drought years early freezes low crop prices and tenant farming they also recall the good times and the neighborly assistance of well developed mutual aid networks of which women were the primary participants

Under The Blade Thomas Lyson, 2018-05-04 Under the Blade The Conversion of Agricultural Landscapes examines the patterns causes and consequences of current land use decisions in the United States particularly the conversion of farmland to housing roads and other development Changes in land use are the result of complex interactions among law economics landscape characteristics social and political forces ethics and aesthetics By examining farmland loss from each of these perspectives and then integrating the results into policy recommendations Under the Blade makes an important contribution to the ongoing debate on the optimal use of a finite resource. In 1998 the last farm in Des Plaines Illinois was subdivided. Seven acres along the Niobrara River in north central Nebraska sold for USD5700 per acre, twenty times the price for agricultural use. Waukesha County Wisconsin, although still largely in agriculture, has been almost entirely zoned for small lot subdivisions. Nationwide the cumulative effect of thousands of individual land use decisions is an orgiastic devouring of the countryside that consumes at least 1.4 million acres of rural land each year and fragments a much larger area. The effects on landscape functions include loss of agricultural production, water pollution, increases in local runoff and flooding, loss of habitat and biodiversity, and the loss of natural beauty. In exchange we get malls, retail strips, and an ugly sprawl that degrades people and community. How have we come to this, and more importantly, how might we find a better sustainable approach to the use of land? Land use decisions are the result of complex interactions among law, economics, landscape characteristics, population growth, social and political forces, ethics, and aesthetics. Under the Blade: The Conversion of Agricultural Landscapes examines the loss of farmland and other rural lands from each of these perspectives and shows how interactions among different factors greatly complicate sustainable land management. Included throughout the seven main chapters of the book are descriptions of some of the tools and strategies that can be used to preserve farmland and guide development. The application of these tools is illustrated by 22 case studies of towns and regions throughout the United States, each with a somewhat different challenge, response, and degree of success or failure. Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a Protestant theologian hanged by the Nazis in 1945, stated that the ultimate test of a moral society is the kind of world that it leaves to its children. Our current choices in the use of the land are among the most important factors shaping that future world, and Under the Blade demonstrates that the quality of that future is far from certain.

Developments in Field Theory for Psychotherapists, Psychoanalysts and Counsellors Robert Snell, Richard Morgan-Jones, Del Loewenthal, 2023-09-12. This book explores developments in psychoanalytic field theory internationally and their relevance for therapeutic theory and practice. The roots of psychoanalytic field theory can be traced back to the work of Kurt Lewin, and it has taken particular shape in the hands of the Barangers, Bion, and Ferro. The book's focus is on developments in field theory post Bion. Post Bionian Field Theory in Italy, with contributions from Brazil, Serbia, and the USA, in the form of chapters by Boffito, Civitarese, Fagundes, Levine, Mazzacane, Mojovi, Morgan Jones, and Snell, and Penna and Hopper. Among the themes the book explores are the transformative potentials of play and the centrality of dreaming. The book is informed by a psychoanalysis not so much of decoding and archeological uncovering as one of being and becoming within a shared field in which therapist and patient are partners in creating, exploring, and developing. The chapter by Mojovic and the commentary by Penna and Hopper extend the use of field theory in other historical and geographical developments. Field theory and group analysis have productively been brought together notably in Argentina, where the two are most closely linked. This book will be essential reading for students and scholars of Psychology and Psychotherapy interested in field theory and contemporary psychoanalysis. The chapters in
