and the Pope's Ceiling a saga of artistic rivalry and cultural upheaval in the decade leading to the birth of Impressionism. If there were two men who were absolutely central to artistic life in France in the second half of the nineteenth century they were Edouard Manet and Ernest Meissonier. While the former has been labelled the Father of Impressionism and is today a household name the latter has sunk into obscurity. It is difficult now to believe that in 1864 when this story begins it was Meissonier who was considered the greatest French artist alive and who received astronomical sums for his work while Manet was derided for his messy paintings of ordinary people and had great difficulty getting any of his work accepted at the all important annual Paris Salon. Manet and Meissonier were the Mozart and Salieri of their day one a dangerous challenge to the establishment the other beloved by rulers and the public alike for his painstakingly meticulous oil paintings of historical subjects. Out of the fascinating story of their parallel careers Ross King creates a lens through which to view the political tensions that dogged Louis Napoleon during the Second Empire his ignominious downfall and the bloody Paris Commune of 1871. At the same time King paints a wonderfully detailed and vivid portrait of life in an era of radical social change. When Manet painted Dejeuner sur l'herbe or Olympia he shocked not only with his casual brushstrokes but with his subject matter: top-hatted white-collar workers and their mistresses were not considered suitable subjects for Art. Ross King shows how benign as they might seem today these paintings changed the course of history. The struggle between Meissonier and Manet to see their paintings achieve pride of place at the Salon was not just about artistic competitiveness it was about how to see the world. Full of fantastic tidbits of information and a colourful cast of characters that includes Baudelaire, Courbet and Zola with walk-on parts for Monet, Renoir, Degas and Cézanne. The Judgment of Paris casts new light on the birth of Impressionism and takes us to the heart of a time in which the modern French identity was being forged.

The Routledge History of Women in Europe since 1700 Deborah Simonton, 2006-04-27. The Routledge History of Women in Europe since 1700 is a landmark publication that provides the most coherent overview of woman's role and place in western Europe spanning the era from the beginning of the eighteenth century until the twentieth century. In this collection of essays leading women's historians counter the notion of national histories and provide the insight and perspective of a European approach. Important intellectual, political and economic developments have not respected national boundaries nor has the story of women's past or the interplay of gender and culture. The interaction between women, ideology and female agency, the way women engaged with patriarchal and gendered structures and systems and the way women carved out their identities and spaces within these informs the writing in this book. For any student of women's studies or European history. The Routledge History of Women in Europe since 1700 will prove an informative addition to their studies.

Manet and the Family Romance Nancy Locke, 2001. Edouard Manet's paintings have long been recognized for being visually compelling and uniquely recalcitrant. While critics have noted the presence of family members and intimates in paintings such as Le Déjeuner sur l'herbe, Nancy Locke takes an unprecedented look at the significance of the artist's family relationships for his art. Locke argues that a kind of mythology of the family or Freudian family romance frequently structures Manet's compositional decisions and choice of models. By looking at the representation of the family as a volatile mechanism for the development of sexuality and of repression, conflict and desire, Locke brings powerful new interpretations to some of Manet's most complex works. Locke considers, for example, the impact of a father-son drama rooted in a closely guarded family secret: the adultery of Manet's father and the status of Léon Leenhoff. Her nuanced exploration of the implications of this story that Manet, in fact, married his father's mistress makes us look afresh at even well-known paintings such as Olympia. This book sheds new light on Manet's infamous interest in gypsies, street musicians and itinerants as Locke analyzes the activities of Manet's father as a civil judge. She also reexamines the close friendship between Manet and the Impressionist painter Berthe Morisot, who married Manet's brother. Morisot becomes the subject of a series of meditations on the elusiveness of the self, the transience of identity and conflicting concerns with appearances and respectability. Manet and the Family Romance offers an entirely new set of arguments about the cultural forces that shaped these alluring paintings.

Policing Public Sex Ephraim Glenn Colter, Dangerous Bedfellows, 1996. As some activists have turned to regulation rather than education in the effort to curb the AIDS epidemic, the public culture at the foundation of queer culture has come under attack.

Moving Europeans, Second Edition Leslie Page Moch, 2009-09-18. Praise for the first edition: By far the best general book on its subject. Moving Europeans will remain a standard reference for some time to come. Charles Tilly. Moch has reconceived the social history of Europe. David Levine. Moving Europeans tells the story of the vast movements of people throughout Europe and examines the links between human mobility and the fundamental changes that transformed European life. This update of a classic text describes the Western European migration from the pre-industrial era to the year 2000. For this new edition, Leslie Page Moch reconsiders the 20th century in light of fundamental changes in labor, years of conflict and the new migrations following the end of colonial empires, the fall of communism and globalization. This new edition also features a greatly expanded and up-to-date bibliography.

Walking the Victorian Streets Deborah Epstein Nord, 2018-09-05. Literary traditions of urban description in the nineteenth century revolve around the figure of the stroller, a man who navigates and observes the city streets with impunity. Whether the stroller appears as fictional character, literary persona or the nameless omnipresent narrator of panoramic fiction, he casts the woman of the streets in a distinctive role. She functions at times as a double for the walker's marginal and alienated self and at others as connector and contaminant, carrier of the literal and symbolic diseases of modern urban life. In Walking the Victorian Streets, Deborah Epstein Nord explores the way in which the female figure is used as a marker for social suffering, poverty and contagion in texts by De Quincey, Lamb, Pierce, Egan and Dickens. What then of the female walker and urban chronicler? While the male spectator enjoyed the ability to see without being seen, the female stroller struggled to transcend her role as urban spectacle and her association with sexual transgression. In novels, nonfiction and poetry by Elizabeth Gaskell, Flora Tristan, Margaret Harkness, Amy Levy, Maud

Pember Reeves Beatrice Webb Helen Bosanquet and others Nord locates the tensions felt by the female spectator conscious of herself as both observer and observed Finally Walking the Victorian Streets considers the legacy of urban rambling and the uses of incognito in twentieth century texts by George Orwell and Virginia Woolf
