POSTMODERNISM

I. Introduction

Postmodernism is a cultural and intellectual movement that emerged in the mid- to late-20th century as a reaction against modernism. It is characterized by a rejection of modernist principles and a skepticism toward grand narratives or absolute truths. Modernism was generally based on idealism, a utopian vision of human life and society, and a belief in progress. It assumed that certain ultimate universal principles or truths such as those formulated by religion or science could be used to understand or explain reality. After World War II, postmodernism evolved in response to the perceived shortcomings of modernism, whose radical aesthetic endeavors had become connected with totalitarianism or had been incorporated into popular culture. The employment of postmodern ideas in political science is referred to as postmodernism. Many situations considered political in character, according to postmodernists, cannot be fully examined in standard realist and liberal approaches to political science. The fundamental characteristics of what is now known as postmodernism may be discovered as early as the 1940s, most notably in the work of Jorge Luis Borges. Most academics currently agree, however, that postmodernism began to compete with modernism in the late 1950s and surpassed it in the 1960s. Postmodernism has remained a dominating, if not unquestioned, influence in art, literature, film, music, drama, architecture, history, and continental philosophy since then.

Postmodernism emphasizes the importance of individual experience and subjectivity, as

Politics And Truth Political Theory And The Postmodernist Challenge:

Politics and Truth Theresa Man Ling Lee,1997-08-28 The political momentum gathered by the postmodernist challenge to Enlightenment ideals has made the notion of truth more central than ever in politics Postmodernism maintains that the philosophical validation of ideas by way of truth is intrinsically linked to the legitimation of power In this political context Lee considers a series of related questions Why does it matter politically how truth is validated Does the claim to having truth necessarily imply a certain claim to authority by those who possess truth Is truth therefore power Is a foundationalist notion of truth antidemocratic by implication Is a contextualist notion necessarily democratic as the postmodernists suggest Politics and Truth examines the treatment of these problems in the work of thinkers ranging from Plato and Hobbes to Weber Foucault and Arendt The book concludes with a consideration of ideology in post Mao China that shows the elusive if not illusory openness of contextualism Government and Politics - Volume II Masashi Sekiguchi,2010-08-27 Government and Politics is the component of Encyclopedia of Social Sciences and Humanities in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty one Encyclopedias The Theme on Government and Politics in the Encyclopedia of Social Sciences and Humanities deals with the discipline of general and introductory descriptions on a wide range of political phenomena in rather conventional ways It covers the following topics The first two topics Forms and Modes of Government and Structures of Government deal with institutional and structural aspects of political phenomena The third topic Political Aspects of Government is about dynamic political processes The fourth Ideas and Ideologies in Politics investigates political thoughts and ideologies in the modern world The fifth topic International Politics intend to give readers an international perspective since contexts and systems which have international or transnational characters are obviously important background against which a political aspect of building a sustainable society must be considered These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College students Educators Professional practitioners Research personnel and Policy analysts managers and decision makers and NGOs The Politics of Postmodernism Linda Hutcheon,2003-12-16 Working through the issue of representation in art forms from fiction to photography Linda Hutcheon sets out postmodernism s highly political challenge to the dominant ideologies of the western world A Democratic Theory of Truth Linda M. G. Zerilli,2025-04-25 A critique of the concept of truth presupposed by the post truth debate and a bold new vision for a more pluralistic citizenry We say that we live in a post truth era because disinformation threatens our confidence in the existence of a shared public world Affirming objective truth may therefore seem necessary to save democracy According to political theorist Linda M G Zerilli such affirmation can stifle political debate and silence dissent In fact Zerilli argues that the unqualified insistence on objective truth is as dangerous for democracy as denying it Drawing on Arendt Foucault and Wittgenstein A Democratic Theory of Truth challenges the concept of truth presupposed by the post truth debate It argues that we the people have an essential role in discovering and evaluating any truth relevant to the political realm The result is a striking defense of plurality dissent and opinion in contemporary democratic societies considered The first considers left handers as subjects of science in particular studies which purport to show that left handers die on average younger than right handers The second case considers Icelanders as subjects of science in the context of a partly failed attempt to construct a genetic database encompassing the entire nation The book will be of interest to bioethicists and philosophers who are concerned with the interaction between science and its human subjects as well as scholars concerned with Foucault's work on science

Inconceivable Effects Martin Blumenthal-Barby, 2013-08-15 In Inconceivable Effects Martin Blumenthal-Barby reads theoretical literary and cinematic works that appear noteworthy for the ethical questions they raise Via critical analysis of writers and filmmakers whose projects have changed our ways of viewing the modern world including Hannah Arendt Franz Kafka Walter Benjamin the directors of Germany in Autumn and Heiner Müller these essays furnish a cultural base for contemporary discussions of totalitarian domination lying and politics the relation between law and body the relation between law and justice the question of violence and our ways of conceptualizing the human A consideration of ethics is central to the book but ethics in a general philosophical sense is not the primary subject here instead Blumenthal-Barby suggests that whatever understanding of the ethical one has is always contingent upon a particular mode of presentation Darstellung on particular aesthetic qualities and features of media Whatever there is to be said about ethics it is always bound to certain forms of saying certain ways of telling certain modes of narration That modes of presentation differ across genres and media goes without saying that such differences are intimately linked with the question of the ethical emerges with heightened urgency in this book

learning in the UK was largely recognised as being situated mainly within the LEA adult education centre university extra mural departments and the WEA However this picture has changed The major change has been a shift from education to learning as the key organising concept A greater range of settings are now recognised as sites producing learning and alongside this has grown a debate about the purpose and form of study within adult learning This has led people to question both the concept of adult learning and the boundaries of its provision This book reviews and assesses the changes which are taking place It explores the disputes surrounding adult learning discussing how boundaries have blurred thereby creating new opportunities such as APL and credit transfer and including a significantly wider range of activities within the definition of learning It also assesses the extent to which despite the changes in boundaries inequalities in learning opportunities still persist A Cultural Theory of International Relations Richard Ned Lebow, 2008-12-11 An original theory of politics and international relations based on ancient Greek ideas of human motivation
