Gelboin, 2012-12-02 Polycyclic Hydrocarbons and Cancer Volume 1 Environment Chemistry and Metabolism brings together information from many diverse disciplines in the environmental chemical biological and medical sciences to provide a comprehensive account of the link between polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons PAHs and cancer This volume consists of 19 chapters divided into seven sections based on the following themes Energy Sources Environmental Occurrence and Monitoring Tobacco Carcinogenesis Chemistry Carcinogenicity and Theory Metabolism and Activation Enzymology and Pharmacokinetics The first three chapters focus on the energy sources occurrence and surveillance and environmental monitoring of PAHs The discussion then turns to the link between smoking and cancer the carcinogenicity of 5 methylchrysene synthesis and reactions of diol epoxides and related metabolites of carcinogenic hydrocarbons and enzymes of oxygenation The final chapter is devoted to the pharmacokinetics of chemically reactive metabolites This book will be of interest to investigators and educators concerned with scientific aspects of PAH research government officials and elected representatives as well as industry leaders who must confront and solve the problems related to PAHs and others in various fields such as chemistry environmental science biochemistry and enzymology pharmacology molecular and cell biology and genetics Biological Report, 1986 Journal of the National Cancer Institute, 1983 Principles and Practice of Environmental Medicine A.B. Tarcher, 2013-11-11 Throughout the world scientists and the general public are concerned with environmental illness Part II presents an overview of public concern about the adverse effects of chemical and physical agents commonly toxic agents found in contaminated air water food and soil In the past attention has focused on hazardous wastes The problem of hazardous wastes is also discussed as originating in the workplace As a consequence Part III characterizes the body's defense against occupational medicine has become a well recognized such exposure Defenses at the portals of entry are an established clinical discipline Much less attention has been paid to nonoccupational hazards There nutrition Detoxication and immunologic defense is a growing awareness however of the dangers of mechanisms are described Part IV indicates the exposure to toxic chemical and physical agents in importance of and provides instruction on the home community and general environment method of including occupational and environmental especially for the fetus the infant the very young and factors in the routine medical history The role of the elderly and the chronically ill those most susceptible as a factor in an individual's susceptibility Environmental medicine FOCUSing on the response to toxic exposure is discussed Handbook of Chemical Risk Assessment Ronald Eisler, 2000-04-12 Written over a period of 17 years the Handbook of Chemical Risk Assessment exhaustively examines and analyzes the world literature on chemicals entering the environment from human activities The three volumes cover chemicals recommended by environmental specialists of the U S Fish and Wildlife Service and other resource managers The choices were based on the real or potential impact of each contaminant and on the knowledge available about their mitigation The information for each chemical includes source and use physical chemical and metabolic properties concentrations in field collections of abiotic materials and living organisms deficiency effects lethal and sublethal effects and proposed regulatory criteria for the protection of human health and sensitive natural resources Each chapter selectively reviews and synthesizes the technical literature on a specific priority contaminant and its effects on the environment Successful risk assessment relies heavily on extensive and well documented databases They often include too much or too little information about too many chemicals Of the hundreds of thousands of chemicals discharged into the environment only a small number have sufficient information to attempt preliminary risk assessment Sold only as a three volume set the Handbook of Chemical Risk Assessment provides you with the exact amount of information you need in a single resource

Chemical Carcinogenesis and Mutagenesis I ,2012-12-06 I have been privileged to witness and participate in the great growth of knowledge on chemical carcinogenesis and mutagenesis since 1939 when I entered graduate school in biochemistry at the University of Wisconsin Madison I immediately started to work with the carcinogenic aminoazo dyes un der the direction of Professor CARL BAUMANN In 1942

I joined a fellow graduate student ELIZABETH CAVERT in marriage and we soon commenced a joyous partnership in research on chemical carcinogenesis at the McArdle Laboratory for Cancer Research in the University of Wisconsin Medical School in Madison. This collaboration lasted 45 years. I am very grateful that this volume is dedicated to the memory of Elizabeth. The important and varied topics that are reviewed here attest to the continued growth of the fields of chemical carcinogenesis and mutagenesis including their recent and fruitful union with viral oncology. I feel very optimistic about the application of knowledge in these fields to the eventual solution of numerous problems including the detection and estimation of the risks to humans of environmental chemical carcinogens and related factors.

Environmental Toxicology and Chemistry, 2005. Molecular Biology of Mutagens and Carcinogens. Beatrice Singer, D. Grunberger, 2012-12-06. This book originated in numerous Gordon Research Conferences and many other meetings of scientists working in chemistry, biophysics, biochemistry, and biology related to mutagenesis and carcinogenesis. It seemed the appropriate time to sit back and summarize the results of several decades of research in laboratories in different countries. We are very grateful to the Rockefeller Foundation for inviting us to formulate and begin writing the book at the Center for International Studies in Bellagio, Italy, where we were Resident Scholars. We are fortunate to have had the assistance of so many colleagues around the world who cheerfully sent original data, figures, and preprints and listened patiently to us as we worked out the various conflicting ideas in this fast-moving field. The names of these scientists are found within the tables, figures, and references. There is one person whose contributions we especially wish to acknowledge: Professor Heinz Fraenkel-Conrat. He was present at the inception of this book and throughout the writing, encouraged and criticized in approximately equal proportion. Finally, his editing and amalgamation of our two styles gave us great comfort.

Working Group on the Evaluation of the Carcinogenic Risk of Chemicals to Humans, 1983. Toxicological Risk Assessment. David B. Clayson, Daniel R. Krewski, Ian C. Munro, 2019-07-30. First Published in 1986, this two-volume set explores the methods of toxicological risk assessment. Carefully compiled and filled with a vast repertoire of notes, diagrams, and references, this book serves as a useful reference for toxicologists and other practitioners in their respective fields.

Reviews of Environmental Contamination and Toxicology. George W. Ware, 2012-12-06. Reviews of Environmental Contamination and Toxicology publishes authoritative reviews on the occurrence, effects, and fate of pesticide residues and other environmental contaminants. It will keep you informed of the latest significant issues by providing in-depth information in the areas of analytical chemistry, agricultural microbiology, biochemistry, human and veterinary medicine, toxicology, and food technology.
