Power Gender Value:

Power, Gender, Values International Association for Philosophy and Literature. Meeting, 1987      Gender and Power in Rural Greece Jill Dubisch, 2019-01-29 Women in contemporary Greek society have been conventionally depicted as oppressed and socially inferior circumscribed in behavior and segregated from the world of men In 1967 Ernestine Friedl's classic article The Position of Women Appearance and Reality argued that this view was overly simplified and that in Greek villages women in fact exercise power in household decisions and in determining the economic and marital future of their children Since that article feminists and anthropologists have continued to discuss the appearances of prestige vs the realities of power In this volume scholars from a variety of backgrounds return the debate to the setting of Greece for the first time since Friedl's work Introduced by Jill Dubisch the book contains eight original essays and a republication of the Friedl article Among other topics the essays examine changes now occurring in Greek gender roles the ways women deal with oppression and act as mediators between the domestic sphere and life outside the home and the extension of the language and symbolism of gender beyond male and female roles The contributors are Juliet du Boulay Anna Caraveli Muriel Dimen Jill Dubisch Michael Herzfeld Robinette Kennedy Elftherios Pavlides and Jana Hesser and S D Salamone and J B Stanton Jill Dubisch is Associate Professor of Anthropology at the University of North Carolina in Charlotte Originally published in 1986 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905      Changing Gender Patterns of Work in Global Value Chains Stephanie Barrientos, 2019-05-23 This book focuses on the changing gender patterns of work in a global retail environment associated with the rise of contemporary retail and global sourcing This has affected the working lives of hundreds of millions of workers in high middle and low income countries The growth of contemporary retail has been driven by the commercialised production of many goods previously produced unpaid by women within the home Sourcing is now largely undertaken through global value chains in low or middle income economies using a cheap feminised labour force to produce low price goods As women have been drawn into the labour force households are increasingly dependent on the purchase of food and consumer goods blurring the boundaries between paid and unpaid work This book examines how gendered patterns of work have changed and explores the extent to which global retail opens up new channels to leverage more gender equitable gains in sourcing countries      Gender, Interaction, and Inequality Cecilia L. Ridgeway, 2013-03-09 Causal explanations are essential for theory building In focusing on causal mechanisms rather than descriptive effects the goal of this volume is to increase our theoretical understanding of the way gender operates in interaction Theoretical analyses of gender's effects in interaction in turn are necessary to understand how such effects might be implicated with individual level and social structural level processes in the larger system of gender inequality. Despite other differences the contributors to this book all take what might be loosely called a microstructural approach to gender and interaction. All agree that individuals come to interaction with certain common socially created beliefs, cultural meanings, experiences and social rules. These include stereotypes about gendered activities and skills, beliefs about the status value of gender rules for interacting in certain settings and so on. However, as individuals apply these beliefs and rules to the specific contingent events of interaction, they combine and reshape their implications in distinctive ways that are particular to the encounter. As a result, individuals actively construct their social relations in the encounter through their interaction. The patterns of relations that develop are not completely determined or scripted in advance by the beliefs and rules of the larger society. Consequently, there is a reciprocal causal relationship between constructed patterns of interaction and larger social structural forms. The constructed patterns of social relations among a set of interactants can be thought of as micro level social structures or more simply microstructures.

Gender and Political Economy Ellen Mutari, Heather Boushey, William Fraher, 1997. Papers presented at a Gender, Race, Economics and Public Policy conference coordinated by the New School for Social Research.

Power/Gender H. Lorraine Radtke, Henderikus J. Stam, Professor Henderikus J. Stam, 1994-01-01. This book investigates the complex strands that inextricably link gender and power relations, demonstrating how gender is constructed through the practices of power. The contributors argue that female and male are shaped not only at the micro level of everyday social interaction but also at the macro level where social institutions control and regulate the practice of gender. Power/Gender explores how theorizing on power is affected when gender is taken into account, post-Foucauldian theory of gender and power, whether it is possible to separate gender and power, the connections between gender and the practice of power in political contexts and how these connections work in the specific contexts of women's lives and whether the construction of sex or gender is an expression of power relations.
