Global Challenge and Local Response Walter B. Stöhr, 1990 The volume grew out of research undertaken as a part of the UN University s

European Perspectives Project It addresses the consequences of the failure of large scale industrial enterprise and the inability of central government policies to cope with the results of economic restructuring in a series of comparative case studies showing how local communities throughout Europe East and West rural and industrial have responded to economic dislocation and decline and how these local initiatives have become the basis for economic regeneration Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Planning the Twentieth-century American City Mary Corbin Sies, Christopher Silver, 1996 Arguing that planning in practice is far more complicated than historians usually depict the authors examine closely the everyday social political economic ideological bureaucratic and environmental contexts in which planning has occurred In so doing they redefine the nature of planning practice expanding the range of actors and actions that we understand to have shaped urban development Postmodern Geographies Edward W. Soja, 1989 Written by one of America's foremost geographers Postmodern Geographies contests the tendency still dominant in most social science to reduce human geography to a reflective mirror or as Marx called it an unnecessary complication Beginning with a powerful critique of historicism and its constraining effects on the geographical imagination Edward Soja builds on the work of Foucault Berger Giddens Berman Jameson and above all Henri Lefebvre to argue for a historical and geographical materialism a radical rethinking of the dialectics of space time and social being Soja charts the respatialization of social theory from the still unfolding encounter between Western Marxism and modern geography through the current debates on the emergence of a postfordist regime of flexible accumulation The postmodern geography of Los Angeles exposed in a provocative pair of essays serves as a model in his account of the contemporary struggle for control over the social production of space

Urban Policy in the Time of Obama James DeFilippis, 2016-11-08 With his background as a community organizer and as a state legislator representing Chicago's South Side Barack Obama became America's most urban president since Teddy Roosevelt But what has been his record in dealing with the issues most impacting our metropolitan areas today Looking past the current administration what are the future prospects of the nation's cities and how have they been shaped by our policies in this century Seeking to answer these questions the contributors to Urban Policy in the Time of Obama explore a broad range of policy arenas that shape both directly and indirectly metropolitan areas and urbanization processes This volume reveals the Obama administration's surprisingly limited impact on cities through direct policy initiatives such as Strong Cities Strong Communities Promise Neighborhoods and Choice Neighborhood Initiatives There has been greater impact with broader policies that shape urban life and governance including immigration reform education and health care Closing with Cedric Johnson's afterword illuminating the Black Lives Matter movement and what its broader social context says about city governance in our times Urban Policy in the Time of Obama finds that most of the dominant policies and policy regimes of recent years have fallen short of easing the ills of America's cities and calls for a more equitable and just urban policy regime Contributors Rachel G Bratt Tufts University Christine Thurlow Brenner University of Massachusetts Boston Karen Chapple

Geography And Development

Arthur Morris, 2005-08-15 First published in 1998 Written in a highly accessible style this book examines economic development processes across the world The old certainties of what constitutes development and whether it is the same for all peoples no longer exist Goals once imposed by agencies like the World Bank are increasingly questioned and the spatial development planning characteristics of the 1960s and 70s is increasingly seen as an intrusion into free and competitive markets Indeed a question now being asked is should development be promoted at all This book examines these fundamental issues and presents and evaluates the different theoretical approaches to development Each country has its own tale to tell and by using valuable case study material the author shows how different policies have impacted on the geography of regions Processes of development in the newly industrialised countries NICS of South Korea and Singapore are examined as well as the flexible specialisation model characteristic of many Mediterranean countries and the post industrial service economies based on high technology The book argues convincingly that the fundamental spatial and temporal patterns of development in modern times are no longer the importance of physical resources but the complex human resources and the determination to work Anchored firmly in the needs of students this book will be widely welcomed by undergraduates taking courses in human geography and development studies

Rural Analysis and Management

Francisco J. Tapiador, 2007-09-28 This handbook possesses two virtues that are becoming increasingly difficult to find together The first one is providing a novel and original scheme to analyze the rural areas of the planet in the context of Earth sciences The handbook is so original in its plan that it actually defines what modern rural science is The scheme followed albeit new is rooted in a venerable geographical tradition and presents a sensible balance between the academic and the applied viewpoints This novel way of studying rural areas represents by itself a valuable contribution to this complex field The second virtue of the book is the ability of synthesizing the most important aspects of the issues tackled and there are many issues this book tackles from physical to human geography and from deontology to matrix algebra When writing a handbook in such a vast field as rural science it is indeed tempting to accumulate meaningless information assisted by the wealth of available online information On the other side the danger of forgetting essential aspects is always present None of these problems seems to have affected the making of this book The pictures and tables always have a place the text never loses its coherence and no comment seems superfluous Also the ambitious scope of the book is seemingly effortlessly solved by a rational clear and logical scheme that dissects all the relevant issues up to the required point

Cross-Border Governance in the European Union Barbara Hooper, Olivier Kramsch, 2004-08-02 This book discusses and evaluates the problems of governance within the European Union's cross border regions from diversity of perspectives and over a range of selected case studies

Regions in Recession and Resurgence Michael Chisholm, 2015-03-27 The world economy has undergone rapid evolution in recent decades along with changes in the importance of industries and their organization and sharp changes in the fortunes of regions There are differences of opinion regarding the mainsprings of change and development and the role of governments in fostering national output In order to show the relevance of these changes to regional economies the book focuses on the different schools of economic thought from the neo classical through Keynesian to Marxist radical ideas and monetarist supply side thinking providing a brief description of their structure in non spatial terms The way these theories map into contrasting ideas regarding the mechanisms of regional economic growth is then explained The book concentrates on developed economies and explicitly seeks to confront theory with fact fact with theory Bringing together non spatial economic theory regional growth theory and relevant empirical data this book is intended for students in geography and regional economics but will also be of interest for those studying politics and government

After Zero Neyran Turan, Stephen Ramos, 2009 Design disciplines are challenged by the condition of the zero point Zero context cities from scratch and zero carbon developments all force designers to tackle fundamental questions regarding the strategic relevance and impact of a design intervention As much as the zero point presents naivety and embodies contradictory notions it also creates a ground for doubt self critique and rejuvenation for architecture and urbanism As cities are built before they can even be imagined what do these projects suggest for the design disciplines Rather than reductive aestheticization or total rejection what are possible critical ways to reflect on this condition Beyond a possible focus on the ambitions of these projects it is important to see them as symptomatic of a much broader condition within contemporary architecture and urbanism Along with the challenges inherent in the zero point perhaps more meaningful are the provocations of the after the zero condition which clearly marks the need to seriously explore fundamental inquiries regarding form and context physical social political After Zero is an opportunity to imagine alternative futures and a revitalized project for the city
