Regional Fictions Stephanie Foote, 2001-03-29 Out of many one e pluribus unum is the motto of the American nation and it sums up neatly the paradox that Stephanie Foote so deftly identifies in Regional Fictions Regionalism the genre that ostensibly challenges or offers an alternative to nationalism in fact characterizes and perhaps even defines the American sense of nationhood In particular Foote argues that the colorful local characters dialects and accents that marked regionalist novels and short stories of the late nineteenth century were key to the genre s conversion of seemingly dangerous political differences such as those posed by disaffected Midwestern farmers or recalcitrant foreign nationals into appealing cultural differences She asserts that many of the most treasured beliefs about the value of local identities still held in the United States today are traceable to the discourses of this regional fiction and she illustrates her contentions with insightful examinations of the work of Sarah Orne Jewett Hamlin Garland Gertrude Atherton George Washington Cable Jacob Riis and others Broadening the definitions of regional writing and its imaginative territory Regional Fictions moves beyond literary criticism to comment on the ideology of national local ethnic and racial identity

Jacket Strengthening Regional Trade Integration in South Asia Owais Hasan Khan,2021-03-05 This book brings forth the philosophical conceptual and practical contours of the trade regionalism provisions under the GATT WTO It analyses SAARC as the regional integration organisation of South Asia along with identifying major challenges and bottlenecks faced by it in the process of achieving regional integration It presents ways and methods through which SAARC can be made a more effective regional organisation The book predominantly focuses on trade regionalism However other areas of integration which have impacts on the trade regionalism are also examined like social and political integrations etc The book takes off from the premise that trade regionalism under SAARC has failed and has been marred by political and security concerns among its member nations It has failed to achieve its objective on all the three counts which are promoting peace development and economic cooperation However with the developing countries as members SAARC has great potential for trade integration Certain structural normative and organisation alteration along with favourable ideation can still make SAARC achieve its full potential The book also deals with the comparative analysis of SAARC regional integration with the regional integration under European Union and ASEAN Regarding comparative regionalism the discussion has been confined only to the EU and ASEAN The EU has been chosen because it is comparatively established as one of the most successful regional organisations in the contemporary world Whereas ASEAN has been chosen because of its similarity to the SAARC s economy society and political structure The analysis presented in the book is from the perspectives of international law and international relations theories and practise This book thus is of particular relevance to the students researchers academicians policymakers and practitioners of international trade law international relations and South Asian studies
