of ancient societies where children comprised a large percentage of the population children are almost completely missing in many current archaeological discourses To remedy this The Archaeology of Childhood aims to instigate interdisciplinary dialogues between archaeologists and other disciplines on the notion of childhood and children and to develop theoretical and methodological approaches to analyze the archaeological record in order to explore and understand children and their role in the formation of past cultures Contributors consider how the notion of childhood can be expressed in artifacts and material records and examine how childhood is described in literary and historical sources of people from different regions and cultures While we may never be able to reconstruct every last aspect of what childhood was like in the past this volume argues that we can certainly bring children back into archaeological thinking and research and correct many erroneous and gender biased interpretations

The Archaeology of Violence Sarah Ralph, 2013-01-17 The Archaeology of Violence is an interdisciplinary consideration of the role of violence in social cultural and sociopolitical contexts The volume draws on the work of archaeologists anthropologists classicists and art historians all of whom have an interest in understanding the role of violence in their respective specialist fields in the Mediterranean and Europe The focus is on three themes contexts of violence politics and identities of violence and sanctified violence In contrast to many past studies of violence often defined by their subject specialism or by a specific temporal or geographic focus this book draws on a wide range of both temporal and spatial examples and offers new perspectives on the study of violence and its role in social and political change Rather than simply equating violence with warfare as has been done in many archaeological cases the volume contends that the focus on warfare has been to the detriment of our understanding of other forms of non warfare violence and has the potential to affect the ways in which violence is recognized and discussed by scholars and ultimately has repercussions for understanding its role in society

Market Capitalism Gaye Naylor,2011-04-13 The area claimed by the British Empire as Western Australia was primarily colonized through two major thrusts the development of the Swan River Colony to the southwest in 1829 and the 1863 movement of Australian born settlers to colonize the northwest region The Western Australian story is overwhelmingly the story of the spread of market capitalism a narrative which is at the foundation of modern western world economy and culture Due to the timing of settlement in Western Australia there was a lack of older infrastructure patterns based on industrial capitalism to evoke geographical inertia to modify and deform the newer system in many ways making the systemic patterns which grew out of market capitalist forces clearer and easier to delineate than in older settlement areas However the struggle between the forces of market capitalism settlers and indigenous Australians over space labor physical and economic resources and power relationships are both unique to place and time and universal in allowing an understanding of how such complicated regional interregional and global forces shape a settler society Through an examination of historical records town layout and architecture landscape analysis excavation data and material culture analysis the author created a nuanced understanding of the social economic and cultural developments that took place during this dynamic period in Australian history In examining this complex settlement history the author employed several different research methodologies in parallel to create a comprehensive understanding of the area Her research techniques will be invaluable to researchers struggling to understand similarly complex sociocultural evolutions throughout the globe      American Journal of Archaeology and of the History of the Fine Arts ,1902      CAA2014: 21st Century Archaeology F. Archaeology and Public Perception of a Transscientific Problem Isaac Judah Winograd,Geological Survey (U.S.),1987 See journals under US Geological survey Circular 990      Archaeology, Heritage and Tourism in West Africa Samuel Oluwole Ogundele,2024-10-11 West Africa is a rich storehouse of heritage resources belonging to different time periods Archaeologists attempt to exhume analyse and interpret aspects of human history found in artifacts and their contexts The longstanding assumption that archaeology is simply a science of the past with little thought for the present must be rejected This book makes a striking argument for a curricular revolution which taps into the strengths of such allied fields as heritage tourism and museum management which come together to constitute Cultural Resource Management CRM This account reveals in an inspiringly clear fashion that the era of conceptualising archaeology as a near complete academic exercise is over Trans disciplinary knowledge application such as that which is found in CRM has the capacity to create employment
