Second World War In Color:

The Second World War in Color Stewart Binns, Adrian Wood, 2001-01-01 World War II has appeared only in black white in countless books films and grainy newsreels even though much of it was shot in color by both military units and amateur filmmakers This volume contains more than 200 compelling color images from the grueling conditions of the front lines to aerial dogfights and blazing cities to the devastation of Hiroshima following the dropping of the atomic bomb This is the first time these largely unseen stills have been compiled into a remarkable record In addition to the drama of the color images there are harrowing testaments and recollections by hundreds of individuals of different nationalities who tell what it was like to fight mourn suffer and finally celebrate during those long six years when the world was at total war Color in Art (Second) (World of Art) John Gage, 2023-10-17 A wide ranging and engaging introduction to the place and power of color in life and art by John Gage author of the award winning Color and Culture The complex phenomenon of color has received detailed attention from the perspectives of physics chemistry physiology psychology linguistics and philosophy However the people who work most closely with color artists have rarely been canvassed for their opinions on this mysterious subject John Gage sets out to address this omission by focusing on the thoughts and practices of artists Color in Art is concerned with the history of color but is not itself a history instead each chapter develops a theme from a different scientific discipline as seen from the viewpoint of such diverse artists such as Vincent van Gogh Wassily Kandinsky Sonia Delaunay Bridget Riley and Clifford Possum Tjapaltjarri Drawing on examples through the ages from ancient times to the present the many topics covered include flags synesthesia theosophy theater design film chromotherapy and chromophobia Featuring a new foreword by art writer Kelly Grovier outlining contemporary developments in the study of color and an updated bibliography this new edition of this classic text offers a wide ranging and engaging introduction to the place and power of color in life and art

America at War in Colour Stewart Binns, Adrian Wood, 2002-11-29 For over fifty years World War II has been seen as a black and white war but specially commissioned research has now unearthed a remarkable color record of the conflict Color photography was still in its infancy when the United States entered World War II in December 1941 and the short supply of color film stock made color photographs even rarer Now over 300 startling color images of America at war have been revealed These powerful photographs show the reality of wartime America both at home and abroad young GIs marines and airforcemen being sent off to fight in Europe and the Pacific scenes of life at home during wartime and harrowing images of death and destruction in sharp contrast with joyful GIs liberating Europe The fact that these images are in color brings an added dimension to the scenes of war making them somehow more real to modern readers than sepia toned black and white shots America at War in Color goes far beyond the familiar presenting images that have never been seen before The book will show what daily life was like how it felt to prepare for war and if you were lucky what it was like to come home It is both a unique record of this massive conflict and a reminder to today s generations of the heroism horror and devastating cost of Dorn, 2015-12-25 American Education Democracy and the Second World War examines how U S educational institutions during World War II responded to the dilemma of whether to serve as weapons in the nation's arsenal of democracy or citadels in safeguarding the American way of life By studying the lives of wartime Americans as well as nursery schools elementary and secondary schools and universities Charles Dorn makes the case that although wartime pressures affected educational institutions to varying degrees these institutions resisted efforts to be placed solely in service of the nation's war machine Instead Dorn argues American education maintained a sturdy commitment to fostering civic mindedness in a society characterized by rapid technological advance and the perception of an ever increasing threat to national security Ceremonial Plans for Interment of the Unknowns, World War II and Korea, May 28-30, 1958, Washington, D.C.
