The Secret World of Drawings Gregg M. Furth, 1988 Dr Furth investigates the use of drawings as a viable aid in counseling emotionally disturbed and terminally ill children and adults Cover These techniques for using drawings to explore the unconscious have been developed over many decades by Carl Jung's student Susan Bach and by Gregg Furth and others Like Jung I believe that the mind has available to it the experience of all previous life This is why people sometimes dream in languages consciously unknown to them or in a universal language of symbols whose meaning they do not know when awake Bernie S Siegel book cover

A Jungian Approach to Spontaneous Drawing Patricia Elwood, 2019-08-28 In A Jungian Approach to Spontaneous Drawing Patricia Anne Elwood provides an accessible and thought provoking introduction to exploring spontaneous images focusing on the value of this tool for insight into the unconscious Illustrated with drawings of clients throughout the book poignantly demonstrates how one can connect and access the spheres within through drawing and how this process can reveal the unexpected Elwood begins by accessibly introducing key Jungian concepts and exploring Jung's belief in the power of spontaneity as an invaluable tool in one's journey to the soul As well as illuminating spontaneity an oft forgotten aspect of Jung's psychology she explores themes including structure and dynamics symbols and archetypal patterns A Jungian Approach to Spontaneous Drawing also examines common motifs including houses trees and people and presents extended studies of work with children and adults and how their drawings relate and reveal Jungian ideas Offering both practical and theoretical perspectives this book demonstrates the universal benefits of spontaneous drawing for all age groups helping people to find true release from unconscious blockages and traumas lying dormant in the depths of their own psyche A Jungian Approach to Spontaneous Drawing will be essential reading for Jungian analysts Jungian psychotherapists and analytical psychologists in practice and in training as well as art therapists with an interest in Jung and those working with children and adults It would also be of immense interest to students on courses including art psychotherapy counselling psychology Jungian psychology with art therapy and all those in the helping professions
