Animals in Heaven? Susi Pittman,2009-11-05 It is always hard to say good bye As Catholics we know that our human loved ones are called by Christ to join Him in eternity dwelling in heavenly bliss before God enlightened by the light of glory sharing in the fullness of the eternal life Christ has prepared for us But what about our pets and the animals that fill the earth and our lives with such special beauty Does God have a place for them Where do animals go when they die Are they just dust What is the destiny of creation Does God really care about any of creation besides man Would God the Author of all life cast the non human creation He called good into nothingness Isn't it illogical to believe that God would find worthless that which is hard wired to give Him praise Is it so hard to understand that animals created by God with a particular good would not also have knowledge of their Creator It is a universal concern for stewards of creation who in their humanness consider such questions in their hearts I write this book as a way to explore tenets of the Catholic faith that address creation of bringing insight and spiritual truths to animal lovers and lovers of creation and as evidential support of the truth that all creation was given its order time place and purpose from its Creator who sustains and preserves it at all times always

Hunting the Wren Elizabeth Atwood Lawrence, 1997 A unique interdisciplinary study this book examines the British and European tradition of the wren hunt in which a bird ordinarily revered and protected for most of the year was killed around the time of the annual solstice In focusing on this ancient ritual Elizabeth Atwood Lawrence draws on her training in cultural anthropology and biology to cast a fresh light on the complexities of human-animal relationships Following an introductory chapter on animal symbolism Lawrence proceeds in subsequent chapters to describe the wren both as a biological entity and as the subject of numerous tales and legends to delineate the details of the wren hunt ceremony and the various meanings ascribed to it and finally to relate the ceremony to important contemporary issues in human-animal interactions and current attitudes toward the living environment Whereas most other studies tend to concentrate solely on human perceptions of animals and fail to include the animal's role in the relationship. Lawrence's approach shows how the participation of both animal and human determines the symbolic status of the animal, which in turn influences the treatment of that animal within a particular society. At a time when human destructiveness toward nature has reached tragic proportions, Lawrence contends it is critical that we understand the processes by which certain cultural beliefs, in combination with observations about the natural history of a particular animal, result in emotional and mental responses that may ultimately determine the fate of that species. The author argues persuasively that the wren hunt, with its ancient roots, associated beliefs, and complex meanings in the preindustrialized world, still has much to teach us.

Biocommunication of Animals Guenther Witzany, 2013-11-08 Every coordination within or between animals depends on communication processes. Although the signaling molecules, vocal and tactile signs, gestures, and their combinations differ throughout all species according to their evolutionary origins and variety of adaptation processes, certain levels of biocommunication can be found in all animal species. a) Abiotic environmental indices such as temperature, light, water, etc., that affect the local ecosphere of an organism and are sensed and interpreted. b) Trans-specific communication with non-related organisms. c) Species-specific communication between same or related species. d) Intraorganismic communication. i) e) sign-mediated coordination within the body of the organism. This book gives an overview of the manifold levels of animal communication, exemplified by a variety of species, and thereby broadens the understanding of these organisms.
