Primeval Forest:

The Forest and the City Cecil C. Konijnendijk, 2008-05-20 Amsterdamse Bos Bois de Boulogne Epping Forest Grunewald Zoni nwood throughout history cities in Europe and elsewhere have developed close relationships with nearby woodland areas In some cases cities have even developed and in some cases are promoting a distinct forest identity This book introduces the rich heritage of these city forests as cultural landscapes and shows that cities and forests can be mutually beneficial Essential reading for students and researchers interested in urban sustainability and urban forestry this book also has much wider appeal For with city forests playing an increasingly important role in local government sustainability programs it provides an important reference for those involved in urban planning and decision making public affairs and administration and even public health From providers of livelihoods to healthy recreational environments and from places of inspiration and learning to a source of conflict the book presents examples of city forests from around the world These cases clearly illustrate how the social and cultural development of towns and forests has often gone hand in hand They also reveal how better understanding of city forests as distinct cultural and social phenomena can help to strengthen synergies both between cities and forests and between urban society and nature Forests in Europe Council of Europe, 1995-01-01

Old-Growth Forests Christian Wirth, Gerd Gleixner, Martin Heimann, 2009-07-07 Many terms often used to describe old growth forests imply that these forests are less vigorous less productive and less stable than younger forests But research in the last two decades has yielded results that challenge the view of old growth forests being in decline Given the importance of forests in battling climate change and the fact that old growth forests are shrinking at a rate of 0.5% per year these new results have come not a moment too soon This book is the first ever to focus on the ecosystem functioning of old growth forests It is an exhaustive compendium of information that contains original work conducted by the authors In addition it is truly global in scope as it studies boreal forests in Canada temperate old growth forests in Europe and the Americas and global tropical forests Written in part to affect future policy this eminently readable book is as useful for the scientist and student as it is for the politician and politically interested layman The Nature Guide to the Bialowieza Primeval Forest, Poland Dirk Hilbers, 2005 Natuurgids van het oerbos op de grens van Wit Rusland en Polen Albert Schweitzer Nils Ole Oermann, 2017 This new biography provides a rich and varied insight into the life work and thought of Albert Schweitzer an individual of mythical stature who was active as a theologian musician philosopher physician and missionary Schweitzer's life was not however a straight path from his provincial birthplace in Alsace to his university studies in Strasbourg then leading directly to his missionary work at a jungle hospital in Lambarene and ending with the Nobel Peace Prize in Oslo In every life there are detours and setbacks and Schweitzer's life was no exception The actual course of Schweitzer's life however is barely discernible in his autobiography Out of my Life and Thought This idealized life story has been told and retold by biographers and journalists with relatively little critical scrutiny Drawing on published and unpublished material including newly released personal papers shedding light on Schweitzer's dealings with the East German authorities and his role in the anti nuclear movement as well as a number of interviews most notably with his daughter Rhena Oermann succeeds in creating not only a more realistic but also a more humane portrait of Albert Schweitzer Wanderings in the Great Forests of Borneo Odoardo Beccari, 1904 First pan pacific co ,1927 Forest Ecosystems Juan A. Blanco, Yueh-Hsin Lo, 2012-03-07 The common idea for many people is that forests are just a collection of trees However they are much more than that They are a complex functional system of interacting and often interdependent biological physical and chemical components the biological part of which has evolved to perpetuate itself This complexity produces combinations of climate soils trees and plant species unique to each site resulting in hundreds of different forest types around the world Logically trees are an important component for the research in forest ecosystems but the wide variety of other life forms and abiotic components in most forests means that other elements such as wildlife or soil nutrients should also be the focal point in ecological studies and management plans to be carried out in forest ecosystems In this book the readers can find the latest research related to forest ecosystems but with a different twist The research described here is not just on trees and is focused on the other components structures and functions that are usually overshadowed by the focus on trees but are equally important to maintain the diversity function and services provided by forests The first section of this book explores the structure and biodiversity of forest ecosystems whereas the second section reviews the research done on ecosystem structure and functioning The third and last section explores the issues related to forest management as an ecosystem level activity all of them from the perspective of the other parts of a forest OTS. United States. Department of Commerce. Office of Technical Services, Sustainability and Diversity of Forest Ecosystems Tohru Nakashizuka, 2009-03-12 Biodiversity is decreasing at the fastest rate in the history of the earth largely as a result of human activity The sustainable use of ecosystems allowing maintenance of biological diversity is an urgent problem that must be solved Among terrestrial ecosystems forests support the richest biological diversity The interaction of humans and forests has a long history but recent changes have been the most drastic ever The rapid decrease and deterioration of forest ecosystems has been caused by social economic and ecological factors which may vary locally but are common globally The mechanisms causing biodiversity loss through forest utilization and the results of that loss of biodiversity are still virtually unknown although such knowledge is crucial to developing sustainable management strategies The work featured in this book presents the results achieved by the RIHN project together with reports on other international activities and related efforts as ecologists forestry scientists environmental economists and sociologists share in discussions of the issues Forests and Insect Conservation in Australia Tim R. New, 2018-08-27 Losses of forests and their insect inhabitants are a major global conservation concern spanning tropical and temperate forest regions throughout the world This broad overview of Australian forest insect conservation draws on studies from many places to demonstrate the diversity and vulnerability of forest insects and how their conservation may be pursued through combinations of increased understanding forest protection and silvicultural management in both natural and plantation forests The relatively recent history of severe human disturbance to Australian forests ensures that reasonably natural forest patches remain and serve as models for many forest categories They are also refuges for many forest biota extirpated from the wider landscapes as forests are lost and merit strenuous protection from further changes and wider efforts to promote connectivity between otherwise isolated remnant patches In parallel the recent attention to improving forest insect conservation in harmony with insect pest management continues to benefit from perspectives generated from better documented faunas elsewhere Lessons from the northern hemisphere in particular have led to revelations of the ecological importance and vulnerability of many insect taxa in forests together with clear evidence that conservation can work in concert with wider forest uses A brief outline of the variety of Australian tropical and temperate forests and woodlands and of the multitude of endemic and often highly localised insects that depend on them highlights needs for conservation both of single focal species and wider forest dependent radiations and assemblages The ways in which insects contribute to sustained ecological integrity of these complex ecosystems provide numerous opportunities for practical conservation
