This proposed book aims to present an analysis of several crisis issues induced by global climate changes and implications at the micro level particularly from the perspective of ground based study Climate crisis leads to several socio ecological issues which need to discuss with some empirical case studies from the contextual global evidences Climatic crisis generates several social responses which are associated with mitigating issues in addition to sustainable development goals Under these circumstances several loopholes interlinked with climatic crisis need to expose in the present day context This book argues that it is important to understand the issues from multiple dimensions It identifies some important dimensions to discuss in the process Themes we purpose to cover are several field based studies are included for which micro level field based data would incorporate to understand current crisis induced by climate change thus exposing the vulnerabilities of the communities which would be incorporated in different chapters with adequate representation of qualitative methods modelling based geospatial approach Therefore some secondary data based studies have also been included to provide a broader picture Additionally this book aims to provide an interdisciplinary understanding of the issues mainly from the lenses of Geography Economics and Sociology as well as Environmental Studies too Given the focus of this study it is believed that an approach that harmonizes the cognitive domain from different discipline is appropriated A combination of chapters using qualitative as well as quantitative methods also made this book exclusive from others We believe that this edited book surely contributes the knowledge domain with some relevant chapters discussion in the contemporary time and leads to reduce the gap of knowledge

The New England Farmer ,1867      Tufas and Speleothems H. M. Pedley, Mike Rogerson, 2010 Our understanding of calcium carbonate precipitation within freshwater carbonate systems is being revolutionized by new quantitative approaches at both field and laboratory scale These systems cover a diverse range of topical research areas including tufas speleothems stromatolites and microbial processes Progress by various international research groups has been impressive with major contributions to such areas as climate change absolute dating carbon sequestration and biofilm construction and precipitation A diverse sample of interrelated research is presented that provides a tantalizing glimpse of the interplay between microbial geochemical and physical processes that control the development of tufas and speleothems This volume will provide a cross disciplinary platform that will stimulate further exchanges about new concepts methodologies and interpretations associated with freshwater carbonates In particular it will help reinforce the importance of cross discipline research the driving force behind the new field of Geobiology
