Interviews from the Edge Mark

Yakich, John Biguenet, 2019-03-21 Interviews from the Edge presents a selection of conversations drawn from 50 years of the international journal New Orleans Review that dive head first into the most enduring aesthetic and social concerns of the last half century From reflections on the making of literature and films to personal accounts of writing inside racial divides and working against capital punishment the writers poets and activists featured in this book offer not only a fresh perspective on our present struggles but also perhaps a way through them for writers and readers alike I think it s frightfully important and this is really much more difficult than it sounds only to say what you absolutely believe Christopher Isherwood Most American writers probably do not think of their writing as a kind of activism And it shouldn t have to be I don t think we can impose that on writers but it can be I think for many writers the ones I admire it is Viet Thanh Nguyen Do you become a writer because you desire to become famous and make a lot of money Or do you become a writer because there s something you discovered this spark this flash that you want to share with other human beings knowing that they can enter into the words too Sister Helen Prejean The hardest part of developing a style is that you have to learn to trust your voice If I thought of my style I d be crippled Somebody else said to me a long time ago in France Find out what you can do and then don t do it James Baldwin As I have grown older I have come to see that the romantic notion of the outsider in love with death doesn t solve a thing It only makes life worse We have to find ways to create communities Valerie Martin
