Government-wide Index to Federal Research & Development Reports ,1967-05 Immunobiology of the Shark Sylvia L. Smith, Robert B. Sim, Martin F. Flajnik, 2014-12-04 Immunity studies in sharks over the past three decades have produced some remarkable discoveries If one message rings true it is that alternative animal model systems such as sharks and their relatives have contributed very substantially to a better understanding of the development evolution of our own immune system Immunobiology of the Shark describes the cellular genetic and molecular specifics of immune systems in sharks Diverse approaches were employed to study the immunobiology of the shark from basic microscopic observations to detailed genome annotation The book also raises a series of fascinating questions which can be addressed experimentally using today s technology This book will be a valuable resource for mainstream immunologists comparative immunologists geneticists ecologists evolutionary biologists and investigators engaged in shark research The book also aims to illustrate the magnificence of these animals as model systems and underscores the importance of their study to further understand their complex and often enigmatic biology

Fishery Bulletin ,1998 Forest and Stream ,1897 The Sharks of North America Jose I. Castro, 2011-07-28 A complete reference to all the sharks inhabiting North American waters with excellent color illustrations of all the species

Minorities in Shark Sciences Jasmin Graham, Camila Caceres, Deborah Santos de Azevedo Menna, 2022-11-10 Minorities in Shark Sciences showcases the work done by Black Indigenous and People of Color around the world in the fields of shark science and conservation Edited by three minority researchers it provides positive role models for the next generation Highlighting new and important research done in the fields of biology ecology and evolution the book places emphasis on scientists with diverse backgrounds and expertise from around the world The heart of this book is that community and minority voices are important and have always been to science regardless of diplomas universities accolades western standards of academia Despite the use of the term Minorities most of the world s population do not identify as white nor male and in fact all minorities together comprise the global majority of humans For those in these historically underserved and underrepresented demographics it is meaningful to be highlighted and be given credit for their contributions This book showcases to the world the many Black Indigenous People of Color and LGBTQ scientists leading marine conservation both in terms of scientific research and science communication It has been shown in the literature that diversity in scientists creates diversity in thought which leads to innovation Strong minority voices are exactly what is needed to bring greater attention to the conservation of sharks and this book illustrates innovative science by people who were historically excluded from STEM It highlights the unique perspectives these scientists bring to their field that allow them to interact with stakeholders particularly in the areas of conservation and outreach As we continue to amplify these often forgotten voices through research outreach and engagement we hope to stimulate innovation and transformative change in the field of shark conservation and marine science

Sharks Sandra Markle, 2011-03-01 Discover the amazing survival skills of the sea's most fearsome predators Here are thirteen of the world's most amazing meat eaters of the sea from the all time favorite the great white to the chilling little cookie cutter shark One is huge Another is small One has a giant snout or tail or head Another has tiny horns or little skin flaps Readers will learn how each of these traits big or little helps a particular type of shark survive in the fish eat fish world of the sea Sandra Markle teams up with world renowned marine life photographer Doug Perrine to give young readers an entertaining exciting introduction to sharks

The Senses of Fish Gerhard von der Emde, Joachim Mogdans, B.G. Kapoor, 2012-12-06 Fish comprise more than 50% of all living vertebrates and are found in a wide range of highly diverse habitats like the deep sea the shoreline tide pools tropical streams and sweetwater ponds During evolution the senses of fish have adapted to the physical conditions of the environment in which different species live As a result the senses of fish exhibit a remarkable diversity that allows different species to deal with the physical constraints imposed by their habitat In addition fish have evolved several new sensory systems that are unique to the aquatic environment In this book examples of adaptation and refinement are given for six sensory systems The visual system The auditory system The olfactory system The mechanosensory lateral line system The taste system The electrosensory system In each case the environmental conditions under which a particular group of fish lives are analyzed This is followed by a description of morphology and physiology of the sensory system and by an evaluation of its perceptual capabilities Finally the sensory adaptations to the particular conditions that prevail in the habitat of a species are highlighted The various examples from different groups of fish presented in this book demonstrate the impressive capability of fish sensory systems to effectively overcome physical problems imposed by the environment

Sharks, Skates, and Rays William C. Hamlett, 1999-05-21 Successor to the classic work in shark studies The Elasmobranch Fishes by John Franklin Daniel first published 1922 revised 1928 and 1934 Sharks Skates and Rays provides a comprehensive and up to date overview of elasmobranch morphology Coverage has been expanded from anatomy to include modern information on physiology and biochemistry The new volume also provides equal treatment for skates and rays The authors present general introductory material for the relative novice but also review the latest technical citations making the book a valuable primary reference resource More than 200 illustrations supplement the text

The Changing Visual System P. Bagnoli, W. Hodos, 2012-12-06 In late May and early June 1991 a NATO Advanced Study Institute was held at a hotel in the hilltop village of San Martino al Cimino a few kilometers from the city of Viterbo in the Lazio region of Italy The title of the course was the same as this volume and brought together specialists working at all phases of the life span embryology infancy childhood middle life and senescence in both animals and humans to exchange ideas facts and theories in the search for common principles Such principles could prove important for understanding developmental changes in the central nervous system and visual behavior within the context of a continuum of life span processes rather than viewing them as events or mechanisms that occur only in a certain period For example changes that are associated with aging were considered as extensions or continuations of processes that began at an earlier stage of the life span rather than being seen as processes that only began late in life
