Broadcasting the End of Apartheid Martha Evans, 2014-07-15 South Africa came late to television when it finally arrived in the late 1970s the rest of the world had already begun to boycott the country because of apartheid While the ruling National Party feared the integrative effects of television they did not foresee how exclusion from globally unifying broadcasts would gradually erode their power South Africa was barred from participating in some of television's greatest global attractions including sporting events such as the Olympics and contests such as Miss World With the release of Nelson Mandela from prison came a proliferation of large scale live broadcasts as the country was permitted to return to international competition and its readmittance was played out on television screens across the world These events were pivotal in shaping and consolidating the country's emerging post apartheid national identity Broadcasting the End of Apartheid assesses the socio political effects of live broadcasting on South Africa s transition to democracy Martha Evans argues that just as print media had a powerful influence on the development of Afrikaner nationalism so the liveness of television helped to consolidate the post apartheid South African national identity Beer, Sociability, and Masculinity in South Africa Anne Kelk Mager,2010 Beer connects commercial social and political history in this sobering look at the culture of drinking in South Africa Beginning where stories of colonial liquor control Mager looks at the current commerce of beer its valorizing of male sociability and sports and the corporate culture of South African Breweries Sport in Museums Kevin Moore,John Hughson,Christian Wacker,2022-06-24 This book explores in breadth and depth the role of sport in museums It surveys the history of sport in museums including the growth in sport museums and halls of fame driven by major sports teams and sport organisations The book considers the humanistic benefits of the promotion of sporting heritage within museums and presents cases museums stories and best practice from around the world Sport in Museums is essential reading for all students researchers curators and historians with an interest in sport It is also a useful resource for researchers and advanced students working in museum studies heritage studies or cultural history Sport and Protest in the Black Atlantic Michael J. 1986 William Dickey, 2020-12-01 1986 was a pivotal year in South African history. It was the year of the vigilante, the year of the necklace, but also the year the talking began. Drawing on newspaper articles, memoirs, and little-known histories, William Dickey presents a compelling diary of a very bad year. He focuses on ordinary people showing what life was actually like under an authoritarian regime from the six hours a day that black workers in KwaNdebele spent on buses to the rebel sporting tours that provided a distraction for white South Africans. Some stories foreshadow the miracle of 1990; for instance, the deputy commander of Pollsmoor Prison takes Nelson Mandela on a scenic drive around Cape Town years before his eventual release. Other stories shine a light on our current conflicts. Written in crisp prose, 1986 is a model of historical excavation deftly evoking the spirit of the times.

Thabo Mbeki Mark Gevisser, 2013-06-07 What happens to a dream deferred? This question from one of Thabo Mbeki's favourite poems by Langston Hughes provides the thread for this magisterial biography of the second president of a democratic South Africa. In the long shadow of Nelson Mandela, Mbeki attempted to forge an identity for himself as the symbol of modern Africa. Mark Gevisser brings to life the voices and places that made Thabo Mbeki the frontier of the Eastern Cape, Swinging Britain, and neo-Stalinist Moscow in the 1960s; the fraught world of African exile; the confusion of the transition. He examines the meaning of home and exile, of fatherhood and family. He tells the story of South Africa's black elite over a turbulent century, from black Englishman to revolutionaries to heads of state, and Mbeki's own transition from doctrinaire communism to economic liberalism. Thabo Mbeki: The Dream Deferred is a work of deep scholarship and a gripping, highly readable story. By tracing the path of Mbeki's life, it sheds new light on his political personality and provides unprecedented insight into the dramatic role he has played in South African history.

Tackling Rugby Myths Greg Ryan, 2005 The All Blacks' failure to win the 2003 Rugby World Cup led many devotees of the New Zealand game to question old certainties and the current direction of the national game. Central to these debates has been a sense that the continuity and invincibility of New Zealand rugby has been somehow eroded, mirroring similar changes within society as a whole. Rugby and New Zealand identity have been bundled together for over a century, with both nation and game endowed with qualities of egalitarianism, innovation, and rural pragmatism that have been useful on the world stage. The book tackles some of the myths surrounding this image of the game, disentangling assumptions from historical fact and coming up with some interesting angles on rugby's past.
