The Lure of the Labrador Wild Dillon Wallace, 1905 Dillon Wallace 1863 1939 was an American lawyer outdoorsman author of non fiction fiction and magazine articles His first book The Lure of the Labrador Wild 1905 was a best seller as were many of his later books In 1900 Dillon Wallace met Leonidas Hubbard an assistant editor with Outing magazine 1 Hubbard asked Wallace to join him on an exploratory trip through Labrador the plan was to follow the Naskaupi River to Lake Michikamau a region that had yet to be explored by Europeans They departed in July 1903 but took the wrong river from the very start following the much smaller and more difficult Susan River Short on supplies with winter coming on Hubbard became ill and died of starvation Wallace made it back alive Wikiped June 2014 The Lure of the Labrador Wild Dillon Wallace, 2014-11-05 were to be draped upon the tablet when erected and left with it in the wilderness Our plan was to ascend and explore the lower Beaver River to the point where Hubbard discovered it and where in 1903 we abandoned our canoe to re cross to the Susan River Valley a few days before his death Here it was our expectation to follow the old Hubbard portage trail to Goose Creek and thence down Goose Creek to the Susan River Of our journey up the Beaver River suffice it to say that we met with many adventures but proceeded without serious accident until one day our canoe was submerged in heavy rapids the lashings gave way and to our consternation the precious tablet together with the flag and pennant was lost in the flood After two days vain effort to recover the tablet and flags we continued on the river until at length further ascent seemed unpractical From this point with packs on our backs we made a difficult foot journey of several days to the Susan River valley I shall not attempt to describe my feelings when at last we came into the valley where Hubbard died and where we had suffered so much Man changes with the fleeting years and a civilized world changes but the untrod wilderness never changes Before us lay the same rushing river I remembered so well the same starved forest of spruce with its pungent odor and there was the clump of spruce trees in which our last camp was pitched just as I had seen it last Malone and Blake remained by the river bank while I approached alone what to me was sacred ground Time fell away and I believe that I expected when I stepped beside the boulder before which his tent was pitched when we said our last farewell on that dismal October morning ten years ago to hear Hubbard s voice welcome me as of The Lure of the Labrador Wild Dillon Wallace, 2016-05-07 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important
