and the Black Charles Dickens's Great Expectations and Gustave Flaubert's Sentimental Education Using these texts as source material and supporting evidence for a new and comprehensive theory of space in fiction she examines the links between the nineteenth century novel's interest in creating substantial life-like worlds and contemporary developments in science art and society Mucignat's book is an evocative analysis of the way novels marshal their technical and stylistic resources to produce imagined geographies so complex and engrossing that they intensify and even transform the reader's experience of real life places Une journée sur la terre: L'arrivée Maurice Girodias, 1990 Naturalist Fiction David Baguley, 1990 This is the first major study of naturalist fiction as a distinct literary genre It focuses mainly on French naturalist literature analysing a number of key works in detail but also draws examples from other national traditions particularly from the English novel Professor Baguley questions and revises many traditional assumptions on important theoretical issues such as the nature of literary history the concepts of realism and naturalism and the relations between science and literature He demonstrates the prevalence of certain recurrent generic patterns themes and techniques in the general body of naturalist literature ranging from disquieting tragic developments to the most outrageous ironic and parodic effects He argues persuasively that far from being a mere record of the external aspects of reality naturalist fiction is a literature of scandalous provocation which employs the strategies of realist art to convey a profoundly disturbing vision of that reality Roman 20-50, 2005 Première journée à Rufisque Jean-Richard Bloch, 1926
