Separate Vision:

A Separate Vision Deborah Pope, 1999-03-01 The emergence of large numbers of women writers expressing a deliberately female consciousness has marked one of the significant directions of literature in this century. A central idea embraced by these writers has been the particular isolation or marginality felt by women. In A Separate Vision Deborah Pope focuses on four representative poets: Louise Bogan, Maxine Kumin, Denise Levertov, and Adrienne Rich to explore the ways in which women writers' treatment of isolation extends our perception of women's experience and our understanding of the alienated human sensibility. In the work of these poets, Pope identifies four distinct phases of isolation: split self and validation. These phases represent a progression from negation to affirmation from a sense of powerlessness and severe restriction to one of literal and psychological freedom. She shows how the dynamics of this progression have operated in each poet's development, with each starting from the negative stance of victimization and moving in varying degrees toward validation. But Pope also finds that in each woman's work, one phase of isolation is predominant. She sees the tension and confessionality in the poetry of Bogan, the earliest of the four, as most representative of victimization. Kumin's poems on her alienation from familial and social experiences exemplify personalization. The split self is manifested most clearly in Levertov, whose work shows a woman torn between her social female self and her inner artistic self. Rich, the most committed feminist of this group, is also the strongest exemplar of validation. Her recent poems are charged with personality and power, and the isolation in her writing is the isolation of those in the forefront of exploration and change. This progress toward a positive sense of women's isolation is a significant movement in contemporary poetry. With what Pope describes as their vigorous revisioning of our patterns of human experience, women poets are today showing us new ways of understanding and realizing human dignity and worth.

Split/Vision John S. Wilbur Jr., 2004-06 Split Vision is John Wilbur's Vietnamese experience. A former U.S. Navy SEAL, he served eighteen months in Vietnam at the height of the war years, 1967-68, where he fought and lived among the Vietnamese of the Mekong Delta. That became like home. 32 years later, he returns alone as a tourist. After a jarring start arriving at Ho Chi Minh City, he encounters a split vision in discovering a new and different country while searching for the old. In his travels, Wilbur's narration reveals an internal journey that moves rhythmically between the now and then. Drawn back to the Mekong, he muses over its ancient river and rice culture, recalls the dark nights hunting for the VC along the great brown rivers, living through the TET Offensive, a fight to near death, promises broken, redemption and renewal among the irresistible humanity of a people torn by war and decades of oppression. The discovery of the North, the surprise of Hanoi, chance encounters, and unusual coincidences create a vivid and vibrant montage Delving into the nation s complex social cultural and political history Wilbur s journey makes you understand the country s bitter past struggling present and hopeful future A Different Vision: African American economic thought Thomas D. later authors editors sought guidance in the earlier vision accounts and the oracular material reflects these endeavours Tiemeyer s investigation is guided by the question what is the latter material doing with the former Is it enforcing contradicting or adding to it Using a ratio composed of the difference between the intratexts and intertexts of Zech 1 8 Tiemeyer shows how this ratio is higher in the oracular material than in the visionary material This difference points to the different origin and the different purpose of the two sets of material While the earlier vision report draws on images found primarily in other biblical vision reports the later oracular material has the characteristics of scribal interpretation By drawing on earlier material it seeks to anchor its proposed interpretations of the various vision accounts within the Israelite textual tradition It is clear that the divine oracles were added to give modify and specify the meaning of the earlier vision report
