Serivces In The Transition Economies:

The Development of Services in Transition Economies Carolin Wobben, 2007-11 Seminar paper from the year 2003 in the subject Business economics General grade NN Hamburg University of Economy and Policy course Human Development 18 entries in the bibliography language English abstract It is by now more than a decade ago that the formally centrally planned economies in Central and Eastern Europe have started to transform into market economies when the collapse of the Soviet system was confirmed in 1989 In fact they constitute a unique historical example with a large set of economies undergoing this extremely drastic systemic change within a very short period of time The adoption of a new model based on free market economy supports the rebuilding of one Europe which will benefit from high economic and social growth potential as well as political stability and security One essential characteristic of a free market economy is a high proportion of services Realizing this quality in the transition economies signifies a great challenge as their service sector was extremely underdeveloped in the planned economies In this paper the development of the service sector in the transition economies of Central and Eastern Europe are depicted on the background of the economic characteristics of their socialist past In this portrayal both domestic growth and international trade of services will be accounted for Finally it will be discussed in which way the service sector represents a strong impetus in the fight against unemployment and hence contributes to a sustainable development in the future

Structure And Performance Of The Services Sector In Transition Economies Ana M. Fernandes, 2007

Services Policies in Transition Economies Felix Eschenbach, Bernard M. Hoekman, 2006 The authors analyze the extent to which the EU 15 and 16 transition economies used the WTO General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS to commit to service sector policy reforms They compare GATS commitments with the evolution of actual policy stances over time While there is substantial variance across transition economies on both actual policies and GATS commitments the authors find an inverse relationship between the depth of GATS commitments and the quality of actual services policies as assessed by the private sector In part this can be explained by the fact that the prospect of EU accession makes GATS less relevant as a commitment device for a subset of transition economies But for many of the non EU accession candidates the WTO seems to be a weak commitment device One explanation is that the small size of the markets concerned generates weak external enforcement incentives The authors findings suggest greater collective investment by WTO members in monitoring and the need for transparency to increase the benefits of WTO membership to small countries World Bank web site

Robert Mitchell Stern, 2001 Examines the growing role of services in the world economy Hidden Challenges to Education Systems in Transition Economies Sue E. Berryman, 2000-01-01 This book provides diagnostic and strategic analysis of the challenges to educational systems in the transition economies of the Eastern and Central Europe and Central Asia At the outset of the transition many of these countries educational systems had solved problems such as limited access gender inequalities and poor quality outputs that still plague other regions of the world Many policy makers believed that education was not a problem sector in transition countries This report presents originally unforeseen results which suggest that deep and broad problems are emerging in the sector and were threatening many countries achievements in education The region s education systems which once were a good fit with the planned economies and authoritarian political systems are proving to be a poor fit with market economies and more open political systems Inequities in learning opportunities are increasing at a time when human capital is becoming ever more important in the region s recovery and development The danger is that in some countries of the region these education problems left unchecked could threaten to create a vicious circle that will make poverty and social exclusion a powerful generational inheritance Services Policy Reform and Economic Growth in Transition Economies ,

Liberalizing Trade in Services Bernard M. Hoekman,2006 Abstract Since the mid 1980s a substantial amount of research has been undertaken on trade in services Much of this is inspired by the World Trade Organization or regional trade agreements especially the European Union but an increasing number of papers focus on the impacts of services sector liberalization This paper surveys the literature focusing on contributions that investigate the determinants of international trade and investment in services the potential gains from greater trade and liberalization and efforts to cooperate to achieve such liberalization through trade agreements It concludes that there is increasing evidence that services liberalization is an important source of potential welfare gains but relatively little research has been done that can inform the design of international cooperation both trade agreements and development assistance so as to more effectively promote development objectives
