Sophocles,Richard Claverhouse Jebb,1908 Death Philippe Huneman,2023-02-14 This book addresses several key issues in the biological study of death with the intent of capturing their genealogy the assumptions and presuppositions they make and the way that they open specific new research avenues The book is divided into two sections the first considers physiology and the second evolutionary biology In the first part Huneman reconstructs a conceptual genealogy of experimental physiology based on an in depth analysis of Bichat s investigations of death processes In the second part he explains that biologists in the late 1950s put forth a research framework that evolutionarily accounts for death in terms of either an effect of the weakness of natural selection or a by product of natural selection for early reproduction He illustrates how the biology of death is a central field and that studying it provides insight into the way that the epistemic structure of this knowledge has been constituted persists until now and may conflict with some traditional philosophical ideas Virginia Reports ,1902
