Al-Hind, Volume 3 Indo-Islamic Society, 14th-15th Centuries André Wink,2003-11-15 This third volume of Andre Wink s acclaimed and pioneering Al Hind The Making of the Indo Islamic World takes the reader from the late Mongol invasions to the end of the medieval period and the beginnings of early modern times in the late fifteenth and early sixteenth century It breaks new ground by focusing attention on the role of geography and more specifically on the interplay of nomadic settled and maritime societies In doing so it presents a picture of the world of India and the Indian Ocean on the eve of the Portuguese discovery of the searoute a world without stable parameters of pervasive geophysical change inchoate and instable urbanism highly volatile and itinerant elites of nomadic origin far flung merchant diasporas and a famine and disease prone peasantry whose life was a gamble on the monsoon Sufi Saints and State Power Sarah F. D. Ansari,1992-01-31

In this book Dr Sarah Ansari examines the system of political control constructed by the British in Sind between 1843 and 1947 In particular she explores the part of the local Muslim elite the pirs or hereditary sufi saints Using a wealth of historical material and in depth interviews the author looks at the development of the institution of the pir its power base and the mechanics of the system of control into which the pirs were drawn The overall success of the political system depended on the willingness of the elite to participate and Dr Ansari argues that it did indeed work in Sind This enabled the British to govern while allowing the pirs to adapt to colonial rule and later independence without serious damage to their interests The author demonstrates that only in the heightened nationalist atmosphere of the 1940s did the system break down Al-Hind:

The Making of the Indo-Islamic World André Wink,2025-02-27 This book provides a new answer to an old and often asked question why did the bulk of conversion to Islam take place not in the imperial heartlands of the Indo Islamic world but among the indigenous populations of the Indus borderlands and the coastal maritime and insular peripheries of the Indian Ocean and the Malay Indonesian archipelago The answer is found in the conjunction of geographical political and economic factors affecting the Indo Islamic states of the 13th to 17th centuries both in their medieval origins and their interaction with the Portuguese Estado da India and the East India Companies Indo-Islamic society André Wink,1990 This third volume of Andre Wink's acclaimed and pioneering Al Hind The Making of the Indo Islamic World takes the reader from the late Mongol invasions to the end of the medieval period and the beginnings of early modern times in the late fifteenth and early sixteenth century. It breaks new ground by focusing attention on the role of geography and more specifically on the interplay of nomadic, settled and maritime societies. In doing so it presents a picture of the world of India and the Indian Ocean on the eve of the Portuguese discovery of the searoute, a world without stable parameters of pervasive geophysical change, inchoate and instable urbanism, highly volatile and itinerant elites of nomadic origin, far flung merchant diasporas and a famine and disease prone peasantry whose life was a gamble on the monsoon.

History of civilizations of Central Asia Asimov, Muhammad Seyfeydinovich, Bosworth, Clifford Edmund, UNESCO, 1998-12-31. Part One: The Historical Social and Economic Setting. During the eight centuries covered in this volume, the new faith of Islam arose in Arabia and gradually spread eastwards and northwards, eventually affecting much of Central Asia, the southern fringes of Siberia and the eastern regions of China. These were also the centuries in which nomadic and military empires arose in the heart of Asia, impinging on the history of adjacent well established civilizations and cultures: China, India, Islamic Western Asia and Christian eastern and central Europe, to an unparalleled extent. Lamaist Buddhism established itself in the Mongolian region and in Tibet, and Islam among the Turkish people of Transoxania, southern Siberia and Xinjiang. It was in Eastern Europe, above all in Russia, that the Turco-Mongol Golden Horde was to have a major enduring influence on the course of the region's history.
