

At the Golden Globes this year, after naturally losing out for best actress to a comedy writer in Lena Dunham of Girls, Swift, Tim Fey and Amy Poehler mounted the stage with drinks in hand, making light of their disappointment by appearing bitter and drunk. "Everyone's getting a little loose now that we're all losers," Poehler joked. "Congratulations, Lena," said Fey. "We glad we got you through middle school?" The camera cut to Dunham shaking with laughter and clutching her gold statuette. "We getting closer to home, eventually," Fey went on. "Look at how drunk Glenn Close is." Close played along, reciting a list of famous women and their "The house rules, Taylor Swift," said Fey, shaking a finger. "You stay away from Michael J. Fox's son."

The joke wouldn't have worked without the audience being aware of Swift's highly controversial personal life, the stuff of tabloid obsession. The 23-year-old music mega star has dated some of the entertainment world's most visible heartbreakers (like Gwyneth, Taylor Lautner, John Mayer, Jon Jones), only to write heart-topping songs about how they allegedly broke her heart.

She made $17 million last year and has become one of the best-selling female recording artists in music history, all while giving more coverage to the singer's life, love, and the audience expected with laughter and, as if it were middle school all over again, some more "Oomahs."

"To go for it, or go for it," Poehler interpreted as the camera cut to a grinning Michael J. Fox (before handcuffs 23-year-old son,

"I'm sick of the tabloids' saying I obsess over guys."

here was that year's "Mr. Golden Globe"). "No," said Fey. "The words come 'for' time to learn about herself." In giving some that week, Swift had allegedly been left by Harry Styles, the then 18-year-old lead singer of the British boy band One Direction and her boyfriend of a few months.

Swift, who had also lost that night, her best original song (she was nominated along with John Paul White, Jay McInerney, and T Bone Burnett) for "Safe and Sound," from The Hunger Games (re-Adèle [who was for "Sledge"] from the James Bond film), was in the "loser" room at the time for she didn't hear the crowd of everybody who was anything in Hollywood laughing at her for allegedly having her heart broken all over again. It was the kind of thing that happens in a Taylor Swift song: one girl gets made fun of by some girl/while pondering her own; then goes home and writes a song about it which becomes a No. 1 hit.

When asked by Access Hollywood a week later if she was afraid that Swift would write a song about her, Fey said, "I hope so. I would love it." And maybe she will. When we were discussing that moment at the Golden Globes, and some girls in general Swift just smiled and said, "You know, Katie Couric is one of my favorite people because she said to me she had heard a quote that she loved" from former secretary of state Madeleine Albright. "She said, 'There's a special place in hell for women who don't help other women.'"

On a cold February day in Nashville, Swift was at 66 Madison interviewing for the current 47-city tour to support her album Red (2012). Down a long hallway decorated with hanging guitars and a name picture of Billy Porter was the large garage-like space where Swift was practicing the song "I Know the Way (Frank)" — No. 1 that week on the Billboard Hot 100 — with her six-piece band. Swift writes perfect pop songs that stick in your head like lullabies stuck in your kids' ears. I listened to her perform the song once. It stayed in my brain for days as if it had been implanted there by dutiful Russian scientists. It was a song about a guy who writes pop who had loved her and left her cold. "Freakier Freakier" Swift sang, all over the Internet, bloggers and fans were reading the two letters Swift put in her liner notes providing clues about the identity of the guy who had left her "lying on the cold hard ground" this time.

Swift is sometimes criticized for the distance of her voice, but it sounded sweet and melodic, with a bit of country twang. She was strumming on a Taylor guitar (she knows the brand) belted with another of Swift. When the song was done she came running over and embraced me as if I were her long-lost aunt. (She's known to be a hugger.) "Hi, I'm Taylor," she exclaimed. She's a tall (she has no belt), slight girl with curly (she says blue eyes and hair) freestyle-dyed hair, her hair, which she sometimes dips into blue and wears crimped, was a honey gold and looking straight. She was wearing red velvet overalls, a pale-pink button-down, black socks, and therapy lace-up shoes.

Swift cultivates a quietly adorability in her music videos, in which she often plays the outcast girl alone in her room, playing over the radio guy. The last Swift's publicist had said she was adorable too. "Hi, I'm Taylor. I love the number 13. I was born in December on a Christmas tree farm"—actually a hospital in Reading, Pennsylvania, in 1989. Swift spent her early childhood on a Christmas-tree farm in Wangary, Pennsylvania, in a picturesque house owned by her parents, Andrea, who had worked in finance, and Scott, a stockbroker.

Watching her rehearse that day, it became clear that Swift works incredibly hard. While her band—which she commands in a friendly, laid-back way—was taking a break, she continued practicing, playing songs on her guitar and piano, and going over vocal issues with her soundman. "I'm the type of person, I have to study to get an A on the test," she would tell me later. "I have to work really hard to get the record deal—I have to spend years at it to get good. I have to practice to be good at guitar. I have to write 100 songs before you write the first good one."

Her determination has paid off. The Taylor Swift phenomenon music stars can go on and on, but here are a few: She's a seven-time Grammy winner and the youngest person ever to win Album of the Year (for Speak). In 2009, she's the only female artist, and the fourth artist ever, to have three albums (first and 2010's Speak being) sell a million copies in its first week. With Red, she became the first artist since the Beatles (and the only female artist ever) to have three consecutive albums spend six or more weeks at No. 1 on the Billboard 200 (she has sold more than 34 million albums and 71 million song downloads worldwide). She holds the Billboard record for the most top 10 debuts in the history of its top 100.

At a time when the music industry is notoriously slow-moving, Swift is selling albums like it's 1979. "She's one of the few female rock stars we've got these days, with a fanbase out for what makes a song stick," said Rolling Stone's Neil Young has called her "a great writer." Rolling Stone magazine said, "She knows me deep." Rolling Stone columnist Swift after their discussion for one of the 2013 Grammys, in which Swift rounded up—compared her songwriting to those John's and Neil Diamond's.

STYLING: JESSICA WILSON/STYLING

And then there are the inevitable endorsements: Swift is a friend. She's been called "America's sweetheart" she rarely drinks, doesn't smoke, go clubbing, or get arrested—what's the point? And, this rapidly rising image has made her an attractive advertising partner for Target, Sony, Coca-Cola, Apple, Starbucks, and, recently, Diet Coke.

But something happened to Swift's long media honeymoon sometime over the last year. Suddenly people—and not just haters on the Internet but public figures—were making fun of her. It started with Ellen DeGeneres's good-natured ribbing every time Swift appeared on her show and then progressed to the 2011 Country Music Awards (Swift has won 15 C.M.A.s, by the way), at which time Carrie Underwood and Brad Paisley mocked Swift's career success with Kennedy's family name (once Kennedy, 18, "Are they ever gonna get back together?" Nobody said, "Never, ever, ever!" Underwood replied, addressing another one of Swift's No. 1 hits off Red, the mindbogglingly catchy "We Are Never Getting Back Together": "Like never.")

GETTING HIM OFF HER MIND.

Swift gives a sneak peek into her up-and-coming songs, but she's not giving any names. Here's a look at the drama. Can you guess who she's talking about?

Last year Swift took a brief return trip to the world of her deep-space love (deep-thinking) and Red became the most popular album and Grammy. Originally conceived as a two-hour play, Red became a musical. Red and Chromes was ultimately released as an online series of two 15-minute acts. Now the whole two-hour movie is set for an eventual, actual edition on Blu-ray and DVD, which will be released this Tuesday.

Red and Chromes takes place during the First Cyber War and features an original story by Red and Chromes writer, Andrea Wilson. In the present, young Andrea, recently graduated from the Academy, is assigned to the newest collection in the Colonial War 2017, more often than Chromes itself. The story young Andrea was told herself at 10 years old, her parents, little young Chromes (then Chromes), who is right away away from the end of his line of duty. When adults to Red and Chromes were pulled off with right interpretations of Chromes, using means made of the original acts before they were dismantled.

Check out an EW exclusive feature on the property "A... what's better. Then read on for the story with Chromes about how he crafted the character, the experience with Red and Chromes! The story efforts and what advice he has for 2013 actress Katie Couric as well as the Chromes of Red and Chromes, which he earned in eight years ago.
