Pointing Where Language Culture And Cognition Meet:

Pointing Sotaro Kita, 2003-06-20 Pointing has captured the interest of scholars from various fields who study communication. However, ideas and findings have been scattered across diverse publications in different disciplines and opportunities for interdisciplinary exchange have been very limited. The editor's aim is to provide an arena for such exchange by bringing together papers on pointing gestures from disciplines such as developmental psychology, psycholinguistics, sign language, linguistics, linguistic anthropology, conversational analysis, and primatology. Questions raised by the editors include: Do chimpanzees produce and comprehend pointing gestures in the same way as humans? What are cross-cultural variations of pointing gestures? In what sense are pointing gestures human universal? What is the relationship between the development of pointing and language in children? What linguistic roles do pointing gestures play in signed language? Why do speakers sometimes point to seemingly empty space in front of them during conversation? How do pointing gestures contribute to the unfolding of face-to-face interaction that involves objects in the environment? What are the semiotic processes that relate what is pointed at and what is actually meant by the pointing gesture? The relationship between the two are often not as simple as one might think. Do pointing gestures facilitate the production of accompanying speech? The volume can be used as a required text in a course on gestural communication with multidisciplinary perspectives. It can also be used as a supplemental text in an advanced undergraduate or graduate course on interpersonal communication, cross-cultural communication, language development, and psychology of language.

Ethnomethodological Conversation Analysis in Motion Pentti Haddington, Tiina Eilittä, Antti Kamunen, Laura Kohonen-Aho, Tuire Oittinen, Iira Rautiainen, Anna Vatanen, 2023-09-29 This volume discusses current and emerging trends in Ethnomethodological Conversation Analysis (EMCA). Focusing on step-by-step procedures of talk and interaction in real time, EMCA explores how people through locally produced public and common-sensical practices accomplish activities together and thereby make sense and create social order as part of their everyday lives. The volume is divided into four parts and it provides a timely methodological contribution by exploring new questions, settings, and recording technologies in EMCA for the study of social interaction. It addresses the methodical diversity in EMCA, including current practices as well as those testing its boundaries and paving the way for the development of future interaction research. At the same time, the book offers readers a glimpse into the ways in which human and non-human participants operate with each other and make sense of the world around them. The authors represent diverse fields of research such as language studies, sociology, social psychology, human-computer interaction, and cognitive science. Ultimately, the book is a conversation opener that invites critical and constructive dialogue on how EMCA's methodology and toolbox could be developed for the purpose of acquiring richer perspectives on endogenous social action. This is key reading for researchers and advanced students on a range of courses on

Rendle-Short, 2016-12-14 How is the task of giving a presentation accomplished In this insightful book Johanna Rendle Short unpacks this seemingly simple task to show the complexity that underlies it Examining the academic presentation as a case in point she details how seminar presenters interact with the audience and objects around them to produce a coherent whole Through detailed examination of talk in interaction the book throws light on one instance of talk as situated practice demonstrating both the ordinariness of the academic presentation and its intricate complexity While audience members recognize that a seminar is underway this book shows how this recognition comes about The Academic Presentation will greatly interest scholars of talk and interaction analysis situated talk ethnomethodology and conversation analysis

Skyping the Family Richard Harper, Rod Watson, Christian Licoppe, 2019-08-13 This collection is one of the first in depth studies of video calling in family and domestic life It explores the reasons that people themselves provide to explain their video calling investigates how these reasons make that calling accountable and how in turn these reasons come to be things talked about in the calls themselves The research shows how video calling is part of the currency of contemporary family affection such calls are not just about keeping in touch they are a way of loving too and they are sometimes a way of fighting as well Skyping or Facetiming might be frequent and can seem mundane just a question of routine but what they entail is a measure of important things to families This makes this collection of interest to anyone concerned with family life and the evolving ways in which technology has a role in it Originally published as a special issue of Pragmatics 27 3 2017
