Policing the Poor Neil Websdale, 2001 A hard hitting examination of community policing and its negative impact on the urban poor

Public Housing That Worked Nicholas Dagen Bloom, 2014-08-04 When it comes to large scale public housing in the United States the consensus for the past decades has been to let the wrecking balls fly The demolition of infamous projects such as Pruitt Igoe in St Louis and the towers of Cabrini Green in Chicago represents to most Americans the fate of all public housing Yet one notable exception to this national tragedy remains The New York City Housing Authority America s largest public housing manager still maintains over 400 000 tenants in its vast and well run high rise projects While by no means utopian New York City s public housing remains an acceptable and affordable option The story of New York s success where so many other housing authorities faltered has been ignored for too long Public Housing That Worked shows how New York s administrators beginning in the 1930s developed a rigorous system of public housing management that weathered a variety of social and political challenges A key element in the long term viability of New York s public housing has been the constant search for better methods in fields such as tenant selection policing renovation community affairs and landscape design Nicholas Dagen Bloom presents the achievements that contradict the common wisdom that public housing projects are inherently unmanageable By focusing on what worked rather than on the conventional history of failure and blame Bloom provides useful models for addressing the current crisis in affordable urban housing Public Housing That Worked is essential reading for practitioners and scholars in the areas of public policy urban history planning criminal justice affordable housing management social work and urban affairs

Fatal Family Violence and the Dementias Neil Websdale, 2024-03-05 This book explores dementia related aggression violence and homicide through a detailed analysis of gray mist killings The term gray mist killing refers to intimate partner homicides IPHs committed by spouses partners suffering from dementia homicides of dementia sufferers committed by their caregiving spouses partners or other family members and IPHs attributable to the complications of caring for a co resident family member suffering from dementia Killings by people with dementia raise questions about the role of biological psychological and sociological forces This book therefore encourages discussions around the relative weighting of these interrelated forces and why the criminal justice system and the courts have a hard time handling these killings It also adds to our understanding of the social responses to people with dementia the orchestration of services the nature of caring and the interaction between sufferers and those familial community and state actors that provide support and care The vividly detailed case studies from the US UK and Australia uniquely inform criminological debates about violence homicide and the social responses to these complex phenomena They are organized around the apparent motives for the killing such as mercy theft prior intimate partner violence mental illness and exhaustion The social responses of families communities and state actors are examined and contextualized against what researchers and dementia specialists suggest are promising or best practices for intervention Apparent triggers or circumstantial precipitants for the killings invite discussion of signals risks and preventive interventions The book culminates in an attempt to make sense of gray mist killings as well as a discussion of broader implications and significance in relation to globalization violence against women the rising prevalence of the dementias declining birthrates climate change and sustainable economic development Drawing from a variety of disciplines this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of criminology sociology psychology psychiatry anthropology gender studies social work law public policy and gerontology It should also appeal to judges prosecutors lawyers social workers gerontologists law enforcement adult protective services physicians psychologists and psychiatrists The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Victim Advocacy in the Courtroom Mary Lay Schuster, 2011 Neither Angels nor Demons Kathleen Ferraro, 2015-12-01 She is a victim of intimate partner violence a woman who has been harmed She is a criminal offender a woman who has harmed others Superficially it seems she is two separate women Victim and offender are binary categories used within law social science and public discourse to describe social experiences with a moral dimension Such terms draw upon cultural narratives of good and bad people and have influenced scholarship public policy and activism The duality of good and bad women separated into mutually exclusive extremes of angels and demons has helped segregate thinking about and responses to each group In this groundbreaking study Kathleen J Ferraro exposes the limits of such thinking by exploring the link between victimization and offending from the perspective of the women charged with the crimes Interviewing forty five women charged with criminal offenses more than half of whom killed their abusers the others participated in a range of violent crimes related to domestic violence Ferraro uses their stories to illuminate complex interactions with violent partners their children and the legal system She shows that these women are neither stereotypical angels nor demons but rather human beings whose complicated lives belie the abstract categorizations of researchers legal advocates and the criminal justice system Ferraro begins with a general discussion of blurred boundaries and the complexity of experience and moves from there to discuss women's interactions with the criminal processing system In the course of her study she reexamines and finds wanting many standard ways of evaluating women s violent behavior including mutual combat battered woman syndrome and cycle of violence She argues that a more complex nuanced understanding of intimate partner violence and how it contributes to women s offending will contribute to public policy less focused on control and accountability of individuals than on developing social conditions that promote everyone s safety and well being and foster a sense of hope Hard Lives, Mean Streets ,2010-07-31 Although homelessness is a serious social problem in the United States there is little direct information about the actual experiences of violence past and current among homeless people This volume based on the Florida Four City Study brings together interview material from 737 women including structured quantitative interviews as well as in depth qualitative interviews The authors investigate how many homeless women have experienced violence in their lives either as children or as adults and then examine factors associated with experiences of violence the consequences of violence and types of interactions of homeless people with the justice system The volume concludes with pragmatic and compassionate policy recommendations
