involved in the field of development studies Fiscal Year 1990 Budget for Veterans' Programs United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Veterans' Affairs,1989 Saving for College & the Tax Code Andrew P. Roth,2001 Placing the recent rush to use tax incentives as a new source of student financial assistance in both its historical and theoretical contexts this book documents the rise of tax advantaged college savings plans and how they signal the shift to solving the challenge of middle class affordability and its replacement of the twin goals of access and equity as public policy s greatest higher education funding priority Including an in depth analysis of the affordability crisis a detailed encapsulation of the public versus private responsibility to pay for higher education debate and its historic roots and the theoretical studies of student aid and the tax code the book develops concrete definitions of the various types of tax advantaged college savings plans their origin and development and a detailed taxonomy of all such state sponsored programs in the United States Unique to this book the taxonomy is based upon detailed State Profiles of all tax advantaged college savings plans in existence circa 1999 Building upon the State Profiles and their taxonomic summary the book analyzes the rhetoric of the documents surrounding each state s program s adoption in order to understand what the state s say such programs mean Further each program s characteristics are evaluated against a Continuum of Publicness in order to ascertain the state s position regarding the public versus private responsibility debate The results is both a rhetorical and behavioral data set documenting the states policy position elevating solving the challenge of middle class affordability above the issues of access and equity Although the concept of publicness is discovered to be highly ambiguous thebook concludes with a Best Practices description of an ideal tax advantaged college savings plan that maximizes public responsibility to pay for higher education Such a program will be of great interest to all policy analysts and public officials concerned about maintaining the historic American commitment to access and equity Coalitions and Compliance Kenneth C. Shadlen,2017-08-04 Coalitions and Compliance examines how international changes can reconfigure domestic politics Since the late 1980s developing countries have been subject to intense pressures regarding intellectual property rights These pressures have been exceptionally controversial in the area of pharmaceuticals Historically fearing the economic and social costs of providing private property rights over knowledge developing countries did not allow drugs to be patented Now they must do so an obligation with significant implications for industrial development and public health This book analyses different forms of compliance with this new imperative in Latin America comparing the politics of pharmaceutical patenting in Argentina Brazil and Mexico Coalitions and Compliance focuses on two periods of patent politics initial conflicts over how to introduce drug patents and then subsequent conflicts over how these new patent systems function In contrast to explanations of national policy choice based on external pressures domestic institutions or Presidents ideological orientations this book attributes cross national and longitudinal variation to the ways that changing social structures constrain or enable political leaders strategies to construct and sustain supportive coalitions The analysis begins with assessment of the relative resources and capabilities of the transnational and national pharmaceutical sectors and these rival actors efforts to attract allies Emphasis is placed on two ways that social structures are transformed so as to affect coalition building possibilities how exporters fearing the loss of preferential market access may be converted into allies of transnational drug firms and differential patterns of adjustment among state and societal actors that are inspired by the introduction of new policies It is within the changing structural conditions produced by these two processes that political leaders build coalitions in support of different forms of compliance
