Religions Of Atlanta:

Religions of Atlanta Gary Laderman,1996      Modern Societies & the Science of Religions Gerard

Wieggers,2018-11-13 This book brings together studies by seventeen specialists in the science of religions in which they relate the changes in their discipline to the changes which have occurred in a select number of modernising societies worldwide. It attempts to study these developments in their relation to and as conditioned and constrained by cultural change, changes in educational systems, technology, population, for example, migration, economic patterns, politics, and last but not least, religious systems. The essays focus on, respectively, France, Germany, the Netherlands, Spain, the USA, Turkey, Israel, Morocco, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, Indonesia, Japan, and China. Written in honour of Dr Lammert Leertouwer, professor of History of Religions and the Comparative Study of Religions at Leiden University from 1979 until his retirement in 1997, the book is particularly important for all those who are interested in the religious, social, and political contexts of the academic Study of Religions in general and in the various countries dealt with in particular.

The Christian Leader, 1929      Manufacturing Religion Russell T. McCutcheon,1997 This book offers a powerful critique of traditional religion scholarship and particularly the oft-repeated bromide that religion is a sui generis phenomenon.

The Documentary History of Judaism and Its Recent Interpreters Jacob Neusner,2012-07-10 The result for the history of Judaism of a documentary reading of the Rabbinic canonical sources illustrates the working of that hypothesis. It is the first major outcome of that hypothesis, but there are other implications, and a variety of new problems emerge from time to time as the work proceeds. In the recent past, Neusner has continued to explore special problems of the documentary hypothesis of the Rabbinic canon. At the same time, Neusner notes others join in the discussion that have produced important and ambitious analyses of the thesis and its implications. Here, Neusner has collected some of the more ambitious ventures into the hypothesis and its current recapitulations. Neusner begins with the article written by Professor William Scott Green for the Encyclopaedia Judaica second edition, as Green places the documentary hypothesis into the context of Neusner's entire oeuvre. Neusner then reproduces what he regards as the single most successful venture of the documentary hypothesis, contrasting between the Mishnah's and the Talmud's programs for the social order of Israel, the doctrines of economics, politics, and philosophy set forth in those documents, respectively. Then come the two foci of discourse: Halakhah or normative law and Aggadah or normative theology. Professors Bernard Jackson of the University of Manchester, England, and Mayer Gruber of Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, treat the Halakhic program that Neusner has devised, and Kevin Edgecomb of the University of California, Berkeley, has produced a remarkable summary of the theological system Neusner discerns in the Aggadic documents. Neusner concludes with a review of a book by a critic of the documentary hypothesis.

International Handbook of Inter-religious Education Kath Engebretson, Marian de Souza, Gloria Durka, Liam Gearon,2010-08-17 This Handbook is based on the conviction of its editors and contributing authors that understanding and acceptance, as well as collaboration between religions, has essential educational value. The development of this Handbook rests on the further assumption that interreligious education has an important role in elucidating the global demand for human rights justice and peace Interreligious education reveals that the creeds and holy books of the world's religions teach about spiritual systems that reject violence and the individualistic pursuit of economic and political gain and call their followers to compassion for every human being It also seeks to lead students to an awareness that the followers of religions across the world need to be and to grow in dialogical relationships of respect and understanding An essential aim of interreligious education is the promotion of understanding and engagement between people of different religions and therefore it has great potential to contribute to the common good of the global community Interreligious education has grown from the interfaith movement whose beginning is usually identified with the World Parliament of Religions held in Chicago in 1893 This was the first time in history that leaders of the eastern and western religions had come together for dialogue and to consider working together for global unity

Postcolonial Theology of Religions Jenny Daggars, 2013-07-18 This original and ambitious book considers the terms of engagement between Christian theology and other religious traditions beginning with criticism of Christian theology of religions as entangled with European colonial modernity Jenny Daggars covers recent efforts to disentangle Eurocentrism from the meeting of the religions and investigates new constructive possibilities arising in the postcolonial context In dialogue with Asian and feminist theologies she reflects on ways forward for relations between the religions and offers a particularist model for theology of religions standing within a classical Trinitarian framework
