Remediation Understanding New Media:

Remediation J. David Bolter, Richard Grusin, 1999 Remediation emphasises how all forms of media constantly borrow from and refashion other types of media The authors argue that the new media of the 90s pay homage to earlier forms and thereby achieve their own cultural significance

Remediation Jay David Bolter, Richard Grusin, 2000-01-06 A new framework for considering how all media constantly borrow from and refashion other media Media critics remain captivated by the modernist myth of the new they assume that digital technologies such as the World Wide Web virtual reality and computer graphics must divorce themselves from earlier media for a new set of aesthetic and cultural principles In this richly illustrated study Jay David Bolter and Richard Grusin offer a theory of mediation for our digital age that challenges this assumption They argue that new visual media achieve their cultural significance precisely by paying homage to rivaling and refashioning such earlier media as perspective painting photography film and television They call this process of refashioning remediation and they note that earlier media have also refashioned one another photography remediated painting film remediated stage production and photography and television remediated film vaudeville and radio

Interactive Media: The Semiotics of Embodied Interaction Shaleph O'Neill, 2008-09-18 The author discusses the existing theoretical approaches of semiotically informed research in HCI what is useful and the limitations He proposes a radical rethink to this approach through a re evaluation of important semiotic concepts and applied semiotic methods Using a semiotic model of interaction he explores this concept through several studies that help to develop his argument He concludes that this semiotics of interaction is more appropriate than other versions because it focuses on the characteristics of interactive media as they are experienced and the way in which users make sense of them rather than thinking about interface design or usability issues Rethinking Media Change David Thorburn, Henry Jenkins, 2004-09-17 The essays in Rethinking Media Change center on a variety of media forms at moments of disruption and cultural transformation The editors introduction sketches an aesthetics of media transition patterns of development and social dispersion that operate across eras media forms and cultures The book includes case studies of such earlier media as the book the phonograph early cinema and television It also examines contemporary digital forms exploring their promise and strangeness A final section probes aspects of visual culture in such environments as the evolving museum movie spectacles and the virtual window The contributors reject apocalyptic scenarios of media revolution demonstrating instead that media transition is always a mix

Reconfiguring the Museum Ana-Maria Herman, 2023-02-10 Digital media technologies have provided an occasion not only for novel ways to display and exhibit collections but also for new politics to arise as museums and urban settings change While some believe these changes are driven by humans others see digital media technologies at the heart of these changes Reconfiguring the Museum offers a third explanation that considers both the social and technical together and thereby captures the experimental nature of introducing novel digital media technologies to museums and the uncertainty messiness contingency and complexity involved In this sociotechnical case study of a novel augmented reality app first designed to exhibit collections from the Museum of London across the sprawling capital city and later remade for the McCord Museum to display collections throughout Montreal Ana Maria Herman reveals how the app introduced unexpected new relations between the museums their collections advertising agencies sponsors technology companies corporations urban spaces and end users She shows how museum practices related to curating designing building visiting and modifying exhibitions were transformed and how in such unsettled arrangements what we think of as old cultural politics can unexpectedly re emerge while new digital politics related to big data surveillance and automated processes may not necessarily materialize A detailed account of emerging actors and practices involved in making digital exhibitions Reconfiguring the Museum offers practical considerations for museum culture and heritage practitioners charged with creating digital displays and accounting for their success or failure
