Hargreaves,David Hopkins,2004-12-23 The Education Reform Act 1988 and recent legislation aim to raise levels of pupil achievement in particular through the introduction of the National Curriculum and improved self management by schools For governors heads and teachers bringing together these changes will require as part of the new partnership strategies for managing development and change to make the school more effective School development plans are a means of realizing this goal The distinctive feature of a development plan is that it brings together in an overall plan national and LEA policies and initiatives the school s aims and values its existing achievements and its needs for development By co ordinating aspects of planning which are otherwise separate the school acquires a shared sense of direction and is able to control and manage the tasks of development and change This book based on the DES project draws on the experience of LEAs and schools which have pioneered school development plans Besides giving advice on constructing and implementing a school development plan the authors provide a full and practical account of how planning and development need to be managed and what this implies for the way the school is organized at present They also describe how schools can be supported in this process and how development planning fits into current movements for school improvement and effectiveness

Women's Economic Empowerment Inna Michaeli,2022-01-03 Challenging the simplistic story by which feminism has become complicit in neoliberalism this book traces the course of globalization of women s economic empowerment from the Global South to the Global North and critically examines the practice of empowering low income women primarily migrant indigenous and racialised women The author argues that women's economic empowerment organizations become embedded in the neoliberal reorganization of relations between civil society, state and market and in the reconfiguration of relations between the personal and the political. Also examined are the contractual nature of institutional arrangements in neoliberalism, the ontological divide between economy and society and the marginalisation of feminist economics that persists in the field of women's economic empowerment. The book will be of interest to scholars and students of social sciences, gender studies, sociology and economics. This book is based on the author's doctoral dissertation at the Humboldt University of Berlin, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences. From access to empowerment UNESCO, 2021-12-31 Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women and Girls DAC Guidance for Development Partners OECD, 2022-05-06 Gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls are prerequisites to the realisation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. This Guidance is a practical handbook for development partners supporting those global ambitions. Youth and Community Empowerment in Europe Peter Evans, Angelika Kruger, 2012 This title offers new insights into the complex issue of social inclusion of young people in different national situations. Women's Empowerment in Agrifood Governance (WEAGov) Assessment Framework: Insights from the India Pilot Study Ragasa, Catherine, Kyle, Jordan, Yasmin, Sabina, Pande, Harshita, Sharma, Aanshi, Basu, Sampurna, Najjar, Dina, 2025-02-21 Women's equal participation and leadership in political and public life can boost a country's long term economic growth, foster social inclusion and help countries reach the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Beyond these important outcomes, women's inclusion in public life is a basic human right. Women deserve a role in making decisions, controlling resources and shaping policies. Despite the importance of women's voices and their empowerment in policy and decision making processes, available metrics show that women's policy and political empowerment remains low. Moreover, these metrics are inadequate in systematically tracking women's voices and empowerment across different levels of decision making. IFPRI developed an assessment framework, Women's Empowerment in Agrifood Governance (WEAGov), to assess women's voices and empowerment in national policy processes in agrifood systems. This paper presents results from the pilot testing of WEAGov in India from January to March 2024. In this paper, we present how the WEAGov tool works in the Indian context, analyze trends in the data that we collected during the pilot and provide an overview of the status of women's voices and empowerment in the agrifood policy process as of March 2024. The pilot testing in India provides useful lessons on improving the measurement of these outcomes and offers valuable policy insights on critical entry points for increasing women's voices and empowerment in the national agrifood policy process design, implementation and evaluation.
