Experimental Studies on Partnership Dissolution, R&D Investment, and Gift Giving Nadja Trhal,2019-03-21 In recent years traditional economic theory has been enriched by behavioral components There is huge and rapidly growing evidence from empirical and experimental studies that mere profit maximization is in many cases not a good proxy of real life decision making and interaction in economic situations Yet although the concept of homo oeconomicus has subsequently been dismissed by many authors behavior is not random or arbitrary but follows systematic patterns and rules that researchers in the field of behavioral economics aim at understanding This thesis adds to the understanding of actual economic decision making by analyzing behavior in three different economic applications The first application concerns experimental studies on the performance of partnership dissolution mechanisms The second application studies the effects of policy instruments on a firm s incentives to invest in R D Finally the third application tests the impact of responsibility for being in a disadvantageous situation through deliberate risk taking on solidarity behavior of economic agents Potential readership includes scholars of experimental economics in the fields of mechanism design industrial organization and social preferences as well as interested students and practitioners involved in these areas

Why Are Artists Poor? Hans Abbing, 2025-10-01 Most artists earn very little Nevertheless there is no shortage of aspiring young artists Do they give to the arts willingly or unknowingly Governments and other institutions also give to the arts to raise the low incomes But their support is ineffective subsidies only increase the artists poverty The economy of the arts is exceptional Although the arts operate successfully in the marketplace their natural affinity is with gift giving rather than with commercial exchange People believe that artists are selflessly dedicated to art that price does not reflect quality and that the arts are free But is it true This unconventional multidisciplinary analysis explains the exceptional economy of the arts Insightful illustrations from the practice of a visual artist support the analysis Gift-Giving in Japan Katherine Rupp, 2003-06-10 Gift giving is extremely important in Japanese society not only at personal and household levels but at the national and macroeconomic levels as well This book is the first in English to document the extraordinary scale complexity and variation of giving in contemporary Japan Gift Giving in Japan is based on eighteen months fieldwork in the Tokyo metropolitan area as well as short term research in other parts of Japan The core of the study is the experience of family representatives of different ages classes genders occupations neighborhoods and religions The author also interviewed experts including the author of gift giving etiquette books Buddhist and Shinto priests department store and funeral home employees and workers at Tokyo s Tsukiji fish market She participated in neighborhood festivals election rallies house building rites and other ceremonies of which gift giving was an integral part Recent anthropological interest in drawing a strong contrast between commodities and gifts both reflects and reinforces the conception of the gift as part of the giver and the related distinction between the realm of the gift and the realm of the marketplace The author argues that Japanese practices of giving and receiving challenge assumptions related to this idea of the gift
