

Descriptive writing

Teacher notes: The Jungle

Descriptive writing is an important and enjoyable aspect of English.

This resource pack exposes pupils to descriptive writing. It prompts them to use comprehension and prediction, as well as identify and analyse writers' methods.

It also allows students to use the text as a prompt for their own creative writing.

The resources will:

- expose pupils to descriptive writing
- give pupils the opportunity to practice inference and descriptive skills
- give pupils the opportunity to practice reading and comprehension skills
- give pupils the opportunity to analyse writers' methods
- use texts as prompts for writing

National Curriculum Objectives:

- Develop an appreciation and love of reading, and read increasingly challenging material
- Reading high-quality works from English literature, both pre-18th and contemporary, including prose, poetry and drama
- Choosing and reading books independently for challenge, interest and enjoyment
- Learning new vocabulary, relating it explicitly to known vocabulary and understanding it with the help of context and dictionaries
- Checking their understanding to make sure that what they have read makes sense

The Jungle

The jungle was a symphony of sound, a chaotic crescendo¹ of chirping cockatoos, bustling bees, and screeching parrots². The dense foliage formed above like a green canopy, blocking out the sun and casting the forest floor in a dappled³ light. The air was thick with the scent of damp earth and rotting vegetation, a heady mixture that was both stimulating⁴ and overwhelming.

As I ventured deeper, the trees seemed to close in around me, their thick trunks and gnarled roots forming a natural barrier. The ground beneath my feet was spongy and uneven, the mossy earth giving way to a bed of fallen leaves that crackled underfoot.

The jungle was alive with movement, a never-ending ballet of fluttering butterflies and scurrying insects. The leaves rustled and whispered secrets, as if they were alive and aware of my presence. I felt as if I was being watched, as if the jungle was a living, breathing entity that was using me as I came across a clearing, and the jungle opened up to reveal a small pond, its surface like a mirror reflecting the sky above. The water was a deep, dark blue, and it was alive with diving fish and croaking frogs. The lily pads floating on the surface looked like green islands in a sea of blue. The water was surrounded by ferns and wildflowers, their colours so vibrant that they seemed to glow in the sunlight. The sight was so picturesque that it felt like a dream.

As I continued on my journey I came across a group of monkeys swinging from branch to branch. Their fur was a rich, golden brown, and their eyes were bright and curious. They chattered and laughed, their voices like a chorus of children at play, *mischievous little boys*⁵, darting through the trees causing chaos and joy.

It was a place of contrasts, a place where beauty and danger existed side by side. The bright, colourful birds were also known to be fierce predators, while the delicate flowers were also home to venomous⁶ snakes. The jungle was a place where the strong survived and the weak were left behind. It was a harsh, unforgiving place, yet it was also a place of

Pre-university Engineering Education

Marc J. de Vries,Lena Gumaelius,Inga-Brit Skogh,2016-07-28 Pre university engineering education has become the topic of increasing interest in technology education circles It can provide content for the E in STEM Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics education which is in the interest of technology educators at different educational levels as it builds the bridge between them and the science and mathematics educators In this book goals for pre university engineering education are explored as well as existing practices from a variety of countries The coming years will show if pre university engineering education will catch on The trend towards STEM integrated education that today can be seen in many countries will certainly create a further need and stimulus for that to happen Hopefully this book can contribute to such a development of both formal and informal K 12 engineering education Not only for preparing the next generation of engineers but also for the technological literacy of future citizens New Literacies and the English Curriculum Len Unsworth, 2011-11-03 In an age where the use of electronic media is expanding and the nature of traditional texts and text based learning is changing new literacies are becoming increasingly important in the school classroom This volume examines how new literacies can be used in the English curriculum and presents a series of research based studies applied to every level of school age education The chapters examine early literacy picture books the internet secondary school English and the problems of assessment in the new literacy age This forward thinking volume will be of interest to teachers and academics researching education literacy applied linguistics and social semiotic theory Pastoral Review , 1913 Worlds of Difference Peter Pericles Trifonas, 2015-12-22 The varying interests of competing minority groups often part company with regard to how to achieve an equitable community Worlds of Difference rethinks the traditional interpretation of the principle of educational equity in light of this difficulty Theorists and educational practitioners influenced by many disparate schools of thought reflect upon the possibilities of a curriculum of difference in relation to questions of language culture and media at the forefront of global education issues today Collectively the authors argue that education in theory and practice must reawaken an ethical consciousness that affirms the negative values of difference but still recognizes the uniqueness and particularity of each group Australian National Bibliography: 1992 National Library of Australia, 1988 The Pastoral Review , 1918 Convegno celebrativo del centenario della nascita di Mauro Picone e di Leonida Tonelli (Roma, 6-9 maggio 1985) . , 1905 Multiliteracies in Motion David R. Cole, Darren Lee Pullen, 2009-12-04 The realities of new technological and social conditions since the 1990s demand a new approach to literacy teaching Looking onward from the original statement of aims of the multiliteracies movement in 1996 this volume brings together top quality scholarship and research that has embraced the notion and features new contributions by many of the originators of this approach to literacy Drawing on large research projects and empirical evidence the authors explore practical and educational issues that relate to multiliteracies such as assessment pedagogy and curriculum The viewpoint taken is that multiliteracies is a complementary socio cultural approach to the new literacies that includes pedagogy and learning The differences are addressed from a multiliteracies perspective one that does not discount or undermine the new literacies but shows new ways in which they are complementary Computers and the internet are transforming the way we work and communicate and the very notion of literacy itself This volume offers frontline information and a vital update for those wishing to understand the evolution of multiliteracies and the current state of literacy theory in relation to it Handbook of Research on Digital Tools for Writing Instruction in K-12 Settings

Anderson, Rebecca S., Mims, Clif, 2014-04-30 More emphasis is being placed on writing instruction in K 12 schools than ever before With the growing number of digital tools in the classroom it is important that K 12 teachers learn how to use these tools to effectively teach writing in all content areas The Handbook of Research on Digital Tools for Writing Instruction in K 12 Settings will provide research about how students use digital tools to write both in and out of school settings as well as discuss issues and concerns related to the use of these learning methods This publication is beneficial to educators professionals and researchers working in the field of K 12 and teacher education The Australasian Annual Digest ,1898
