Handbook on Policing in Central and Eastern Europe

Policing in Central and Eastern Europe has changed greatly since the fall of the Berlin Wall. Today Central and Eastern European countries are consistent members of the European Union, while others have been trying to harmonize with the EU and other national experiences for a more democratic policing and developments in accordance with Western European and international policing standards, especially in regard to issues of legitimacy and legitimacy.

Changes in the police training system (theory and education), internationalization of policing, the internationalization of crime and deviance, new police organizational structures and agencies have impacted new cultures of policing (from exclusively state to plural policing). This study reflects numerous developments in the last ten decades to form the culture of these changes within Central and Eastern Europe, and their impact on police culture, as well as on society as a whole.

The development of police research has varied widely throughout Central and Eastern Europe; in some countries, it has developed significantly, while in others it is still in its infancy. This work will allow for a transfer of ideas and models of police organization and policing to other law enforcement bodies, with an aim to provide consistent and comparable data across all of the countries discussed. For the twenty countries covered, this systematic work provides their country-based information on police organization and social control, crime and disorder trends in the last ten years with an eye on policing, police training and police education, various changes to policing in the last ten years, police and the media, present trends in policing (public and private, institutional, plural policing), policing culture and social communities, recent research trends in research on policing, a synthesis of research on police and policing (researchers and the police), inclusion of police researchers in policy making and police practices and future developments in policing.

Policing In Central And Eastern Europe Report On A Study Tour Publication Series:

Democratizing the Police Abroad David H. Bayley, 2001 Community Policing in Indigenous Communities Mahesh K. Nalla, Graeme R. Newman, 2013-03-04 Indigenous communities are typically those that challenge the laws of the nation states of which they have become often very reluctantly a part Around the world community policing has emerged in many of these regions as a product of their physical environments and cultures Through a series of case studies Community Policing in Indigenous Communities explores how these often deeply divided societies operate under the community policing paradigm Drawing on the local expertise of policing practitioners and researchers across the globe the book explores several themes with regard to each region How community policing originated or evolved in the community and how it has changed over time The type of policing style used whether informal or formal and uniformed or non uniformed whether partnerships are developed with local community organizations or businesses and the extent of covert operations if any The role played by community policing in the region including the relative emphasis of calls for service the extent to which advice and help is offered to citizens whether local records are kept of citizen movement and locations and investigation and arrest procedures The community's special cultural or indigenous attributes that set it apart from other models of community policing Organizational attributes including status in the hierarchy of control within the regional or national organization of policing The positive and negative features of community policing as it is practiced in the community Its effectiveness in reducing and or preventing crime and disorder The book demonstrates that community policing cannot be imposed from above without grassroots input from local citizens It is a strategy not simply for policing with consent but for policing in contexts where there is often little if any consent It is an aspirational practice aimed to help police and communities within contested contexts to recognize that positive gains can be made enabling communities to live in relative safety Policing in Central and Eastern Europe David Fogel, 1994 Policing in Central and Eastern Europe Milan Pagon, 1996 Die Willkür des Staates Stephan Hensell, 2009-01-15 Dieses Buch ist aus einem Projekt am Institut für Friedensforschung und Sicherheitspolitik an der Universität Hamburg IFSH hervorgegangen das von 2003 bis 2006 von der Deutschen Forschungsgemeinschaft DFG sowie der Wissenschaftsförderung der Universität Hamburg finanziell unterstützt wurde Es ist gleich eine bearbeitete Fassung meiner Dissertation die ich im Januar 2008 an der Humboldt Universität zu Berlin eingereicht habe Der DFG der Universität Hamburg und meinen Kolleginnen und Kollegen vom IFSH gilt mein Dank für die wohlwollende Förderung des Projektes Denken möchte ich auch meinen Freunden Mitarbeitern und Gesprächspartnern in Albanien und Georgien die mich bei nicht leichten Feldforschungen vor Ort unterstützt haben Mein Dank gilt ferner dem längst nicht mehr auf Hamburg beschränkten Mitgliederkreis der Arbeitsgemeinschaft Kriegsursachenforschung AKUF an der Universität Hamburg für die ebenso produktive wie freundschaftliche Zusammenarbeit der letzten Jahre Nicht zuletzt danke ich aufrichtig meiner Familie vor allem meinem desperate workingwife für die Unterstützung und große Geduld während der Arbeit an diesem Buch Polish Legal Journal ,2000 The Contributions of Specialized Institutes and Non-Governmental Organizations to the United Nations Criminal Justice Program M. Cherif Bassiouni,2023-08-28 The increase of crime at the national transnational and international levels has heightened concern in the international community and generated greater interest in international criminal justice policy Since the 1950s the United Nations has been developing the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme which was designed to respond to these concerns But United Nations resources and support for the programme have been limited notwithstanding the services and contributions of the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch As the United Nations celebrates its Fiftieth Anniversary it is fitting to have a book that describes the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme The information it contains highlights the significant contributions of a number of organizations whose work may not be sufficiently known outside the circles of scholars experts and professionals in the field of international criminal justice The book is thus also a deserving tribute to these organizations giving greater publicity to what they have contributed over the years with scant United Nations recognition Without these organizations and the active NGOs the United Nations would hardly have leave to claim part of what is now an important though still insufficient contribution to international criminal justice United Nations Documents Checklist ,1996-10

Security Entrepreneurs Alexandra Gheciu,2018-05-10 Focusing on four East European polities Bosnia Serbia Bulgaria and Romania this book examines the dynamics and implications of processes of commercialization of security that have occurred following the collapse of communist regimes These processes have been central to post communist liberalization and have profoundly shaped those states and their integration into European institutional structures and global economic and political circuits They have also affected and been shaped by the behaviour and power of regional and global actors e g European institutions regional and global corporations in Eastern Europe By virtue of the fact that they combine in complex ways local national regional and global dynamics and actors processes of security commercialization in the former Eastern bloc can be seen as instances of glocalization Several aspects of security commercialization are particularly important To begin with private actors specifically private security companies PSCs have been reconstituted as partial agents of public power As such they have come to be systematically involved in performing security practices traditionally associated with the state In addition a potent commercial logic has come to permeate public security institutions This has led to redefinition of the relationship between the state and its population in ways that defy conventional wisdom about the role of the state and pose difficult normative challenges More broadly processes of security commercialization in Eastern Europe which involve important performative dimensions have led to the emergence of complex hybrid networks of security providers that transcend domestic international public private boundaries and behave in many ways as entrepreneurs Die Grenzen der Gesetzeshüter Stephan Hensell,2005
