Morley, 2016-06-03 This book breaks new ground in human resource management through focusing on specific themes written by a range of European experts drawing on a common survey As such it is a major progression from previous texts that lack a coherent cross national database Representing a truly collaborative European project it includes themes such as flexibility training and development industrial relations regional aspects and the problems of organising and undertaking comparative human resource management research

Comparative Human Resource

Management Michael J. Morley, Noreen Heraty, 2021-06-29 Context is increasingly recognised as a critical explanatory variable in accounting for commonalities and differences in human resource management. Giving expression to it in research models holds the prospect of enhancing theory development, deepening our appreciation of embedded practices in diverse territories and opening up new lines of enquiry. However, contextualisation presents a significant research challenge and increasingly international academic research networks that bring together scholars from different countries in the co-production of knowledge represent a key approach to rising to this challenge. This volume documents aspects of the development of one such network, namely the Cranet Network on International Human Resource Management, and presents a series of recent contributions from the network. The chapters highlight inter alia the limits to convergence in human resource management as a result of contextual determinism, the role of institutional actors, markets and work regulation in accounting for variations in practices, the contextual specificities and dynamics at play in transition economies, along with key methodological challenges that arise when seeking to build cumulative comparative knowledge via network collaborations of this nature. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of International Studies of Management Organization.
